

King County Metro Long-Range Plan

April 2015

Help shape the Metro Transit system of our future

Metro's long-range plan will present a shared vision for a future public transportation system that gets people where they want to go and helps our region thrive. The plan will describe an integrated network of transportation options, the facilities and technology needed to support those services, and the financial requirements for building the system. It will be developed in close coordination with Sound Transit and other transportation agencies.

Why plan for the future now?

With King County growing fast, it's time to lay the foundation for a public transportation system that moves more people and moves them better. What should our transit system look like in 25 years? How can we support our economy, our environment, and the people who live here? How will Metro integrate with the expanding light rail system? These are the kind of questions that captured the imagination of civic leaders years ago, and their vision led to the public transportation system we rely on today. Now it's time to imagine a new future. Metro wants public input as we launch an intensive long-range planning effort that will help determine what regional transit service will look like in 25 years.

 King County
METRO

Over the next two years, Metro will work with transit riders, cities, community groups, and motorists to shape a long-range plan for meeting our region's growing and changing public transportation needs

CONNECTIONS

How public transportation will connect people to jobs, education, communities, services, shopping, and more.

ACCOUNTABILITY

Measurable objectives to make sure public transportation investments add economic, social and environmental value.

PARTNERSHIPS

How Metro will work with other transit agencies, the Washington State Department of Transportation, local cities and the private sector to develop an integrated transportation system that delivers the greatest value to the public.

ECONOMIC GROWTH

How public transportation will expand our region's capacity to move people, goods and services in order to advance our economy, keep our cities healthy, and maintain our quality of life.

How you can be involved?

You'll have many opportunities to have a say in shaping Metro's long-range vision:

- Visit www.kcmetrovision.org to learn more about the long-range planning process and stay up-to-date on various opportunities to get involved, including submitting a comment on the future of transit, taking online surveys, attending open houses, and meeting Metro staff at events in your community .
- Stay informed by signing up to receive project updates and notifications by clicking on the "Sign up for email updates" button on the website.
- Attend Community Advisory Group (CAG) meetings as a member of the public and submit written comments.
- Look for events and open houses advertised in your community.

Long-range plan process timeline

