The town of Bethel - The hamlets of Bethel, Briscoe, Kauneonga Lake, Smallwood, White Lake and parts of Mongaup Valley are the geographic center of Sullivan County, encompassing 93 square miles of rolling hills, farmland and natural landscapes.

We're home to Bethel Woods Center for the Arts at the historic site of the Woodstock Music and Arts Festival, which drew nearly half a million people in 1969. Today, Bethel Woods offers a diverse selection of culturally rich performances, popular artists, and community and educational programming. The 800-acre campus includes an intimate 15,000-seat amphitheater, an intimate 440-seat indoor Event Gallery, the award-winning Museum at Bethel Woods, and a conservatory for arts education programming.

The hamlets of Kauneonga Lake and White Lake are on a 286-acre motorboat and fishing lake and a hub for lakeside dining and community events. The Forest Reserve at Smallwood, a 120-acre park, is protected by an agreement between the Bethel Local Development Corporation and the Delaware Highlands Conservancy. You can enjoy hiking, birding, snowshoeing and outdoor exercise.

Lake Superior State Park offers swimming, fishing, kayaking and opportunities for winter recreation. The town also operates a park with playground, walking trails, and picnic areas.

Bethel has an active volunteer base, including three volunteer fire departments, a volunteer ambulance corps, Lions Club, Girl Scouts, 4-H, and VFW. Bethel Parks and Recreation offers year-round programming and activities along with an enriched summer camp and community garden. The beautification group Bethel First, a vibrant Council of the Arts, an active Business Association, and a healthy community steering committee are all engaged with promoting opportunities for community wellness.

The town of Cochecton is a small, quiet, scenic part of Sullivan County. Cochecton's fertile flats ("Cushetunk" as it was called by the Indians, meaning "low-lands") abound with fish, fur and game, and its proximity to the Delaware River, which leads to Philadelphia, made it a natural for a permanent settlement.

Our town is comprised of 38.06 square miles, making it the second-smallest town in Sullivan County. It includes the hamlets of Cochecton, Cochecton Center, Fosterdale, Lake Huntington, and Skinners Falls.

Access to the Delaware River can be gained at Skinners Falls.

Narrowsburg ranks as one of America in Bloom's 2016 top three "Coolest Downtowns." Although small (pop. 1,515), we don't go unnoticed. Historic Main Street dates back to the 1800s and has continued through the centuries to be the commercial hub of the town of Tusten. Main Street backs up to the deepest and narrowest part of the Delaware River – perfect for canoeing, rafting, kayaking and fishing. Fishermen can cast their flies into the water, while high above their heads soaring bald eagles dip down to scoop up a fish of their own. We've been declared the Eagle Capital of New York State.

Our rich history, preserved by the Tusten Historical Society, includes four churches, the Tusten Theater, and a circa 1920s Art Deco theater which serves as the performance venue for the Delaware Valley Arts Alliance DVAA, Concerts, opera, lectures, and the annual Big Eddy Film Festival all take place here. The DVAA which hosts over 12 annual juried art exhibits, is housed in the former Hotel Arlington on Main Street and is on the National Register of Historic Places.

Annual celebrations include Riverfest, a street fair celebrating art, music and the environment; Honeybee Fest; and a July 4th parade and fireworks, attracting residents and visitors alike.

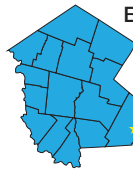

As a small town, we work together, through volunteerism, to make Tusten rich with activities, events and hands-on work to keep Narrowsburg looking beautiful as a destination for Sullivan County residents and tourists alike.

Other amenities not found in many rural towns include a library, grocery store, gas station, pharmacy and a lumber yard. We boast fine restaurants and fine shops. Narrowsburg: a place to live, work and play.

We are the southernmost village in Sullivan County. We are also the only Sullivan County community entirely within the Hudson River watershed. Our eastern boundary is the Shawangunk Kill, which is, at that point, the border with Orange County, making us attractively rural with only a short ride to a wide range of services in Middletown, New York, and the Greater New York metropolitan area.

Jeffersonville is at the convenient crossroads of western Sullivan County. Livingston Manor, Roscoe, Callicoon, Narrowsburg, Bethel Woods Performing Arts Center and more are just a few minutes away from our all-American, small-town Main Street.

Jeffersonville is rich in local history and nuance, including our name. Originally named Winkelreid after legendary Swiss hero Arnold Von Winkelreid, representing the Swiss heritage of the region, the name was officially changed to Jeffersonville in honor of the third president of the United States, Thomas Jefferson. Our school, an architectural beauty, was constructed as part of President Roosevelt's New Deal (the "put America back to work" program). Squirt soda may have gotten its start here and was bottled here. The area is home to various stone arch bridges which are still supporting vehicular traffic today, proving you can't make 'em like you used to.

Jeffersonville is a vibrant and growing community consisting of a variety of civic organizations, volunteer groups and a thriving, busy Main Street business district. We have a variety of restaurants and eateries offering delectable delights from around the world. Monticello Monticello, named after the residence of Thomas Jefferson, is Sullivan County's largest community and the county seat. It was built by Samuel and John Jones to service their interests in natural resources and connect with the Newburgh-Cochecton Turnpike.

Tourism has played an important part in the village. Downtown was active almost 24 hours a day during the historic era of the great hotels. Today, the Alder Hotel, Resorts World Catskills, and Kartrite Indoor Waterpark are bringing new economic growth, while the Monticello Raceway continues as a destination.

Woodridge is a friendly and welcoming piece of Sullivan County. A 1947 newspaper article dubbed us “Utopia in the Catskills” and focused on the cooperatives in the village and our slogan, “The Friendly Village.” We were and are home to a diversified group of religions and nationalities. Two cooperatives still exist: Associated Mutual Insurance Cooperative, founded in 1913, and Cooperative Federal Credit Union, founded in 1936. The village boasts its own police department, court, office, sanitation and highway departments, planning board, zoning board and executive board.

We are part of the Rails-to-Trails and Healthy Communities initiatives. The entire village is pedestrian and bike friendly with the trail running through the village, connecting two parks and a seating area. Krieger Park has a lake, ball field, basketball court and picnic area; Centreville Station Park pays homage to the New York, Ontario and Western train days and the original name of the village; and Veterans Memorial Park honors our vets. A mural painted on the side of a large building on Broadway memorializes the O&W Railway.

The village boasts a volunteer fire department, Kiwanis Club and a group of volunteers who work on our Sullivan Renaissance projects every year and help our village staff maintain them.

The Woodridge Kiwanis Club holds an annual scholarship dinner, awarding five scholarships to graduating Fallsburg High School seniors. The Woodridge Fire Department holds an annual Mother’s Day Pancake Breakfast in conjunction with the Kiwanis Club plant sale. A Memorial Day observance ceremony is held annually.

We informally greet new neighbors via office staff, some local longtime residents, and mayor and trustees.

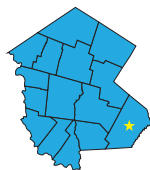

Wurtsboro

The village of Wurtsboro is nestled at the base of the Shawangunk Ridge, bordered by the largest freshwater wetland in southeastern New York and just a few quick miles over the southeast border of Sullivan County off Route 17/I-86.

Famous for our role in the days of the D&H Canal, we're now home to eateries, eclectic shopping, and professional services on our walkable main street. Our neighborhood public elementary school and new library are in the village. We're at the intersection of five trails, which have recently received a grant of over $1 million for upgrading. The Wurtsboro Airport is a glider pilots' landmark with a rich aviation history dating to 1926.

Our fire department, commissioners and ladies' auxiliary are volunteer. We have veterans' organizations, the Wurtsboro Board of Trade, Mamakating Rotary, Mamakating Lions & Lioness, the Knights of Columbus, St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Wurtsboro Community Church, Sullivan 180 is a non-profit organization dedicated to building a healthy community, one degree at a time, through people, places, and policy. We have an intentional focus on prevention and empowering a healthier generation. Sullivan 180 is committed to change by degrees; working with partners, schools, and communities through a grassroots and inclusive approach where everyone can participate in the health of our county. We align our work with the priorities and strategies identified in the Sullivan County Community Health Improvement Plan (CHIP) based on the formal Community Health Needs Assessment (CHA). This allows us to identify where our resources can leverage existing efforts and have the greatest impact. Together we are working to make Sullivan County a healthier place to live, learn, work, play and raise a family.

EMPOWERING A HEALTHIER GENERATION

The Sullivan 180 Empowering a Healthier Generation Program is leading our efforts to engage Sullivan County School Districts in promoting health and wellness among students, staff, parents, and their communities. The goal is to create a grassroots movement that will change policy and environments; while demonstrating that individuals and families have an important role to play in building a culture of health for themselves and the next generation.

Since launching in 2021, Sullivan 180 has welcomed Healthier Generation (HG) Advisors representing all Sullivan County public school buildings, Sullivan BOCES and SUNY Sullivan. HG Advisors receive an annual stipend from Sullivan 180 to serve as liaisons and coordinators for the Healthier Generation work in their school building. Additionally, they are eligible to apply for grants to support and implement initiatives that advance the wellness goals of their schools.

Sullivan 180 offers an annual Healthier Generation (HG) School Grant in the amount of $2,000 to advance health and wellness in schools; and a Healthier Generation (HG) Competition Grant in the amount of $5,000 to schools who have successfully completed the HG School Grant program. All schools are acknowledged at an annual fall Empowering a Healthier Generation celebration.

THE CATSKILL EDIBLE GARDEN PROJECT

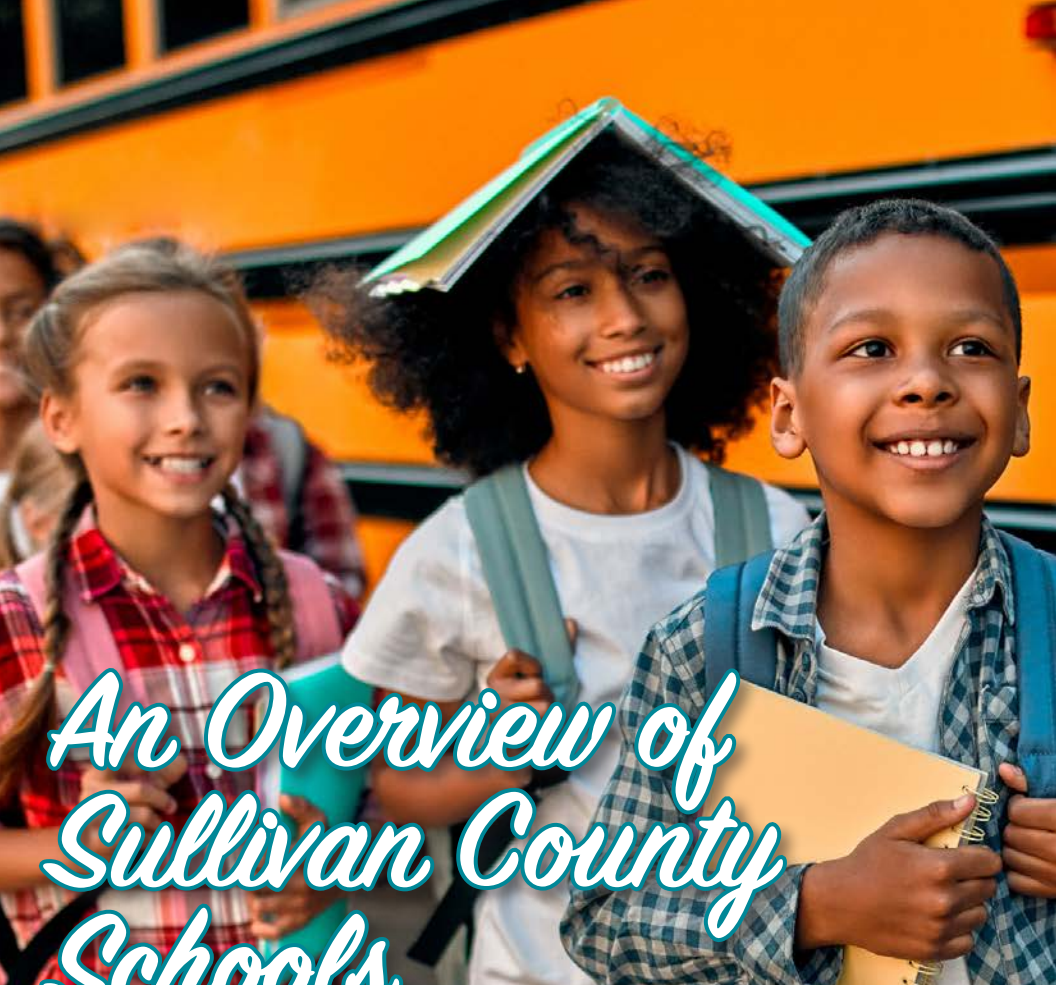

With our partners at Catskill Mountainkeeper and Cornell Cooperative Extension Sullivan County, Sullivan 180 presents the Catskill Edible Garden Project (CEGP). Through this program we work with schools and community organizations to design edible gardens as living, outdoor educational and gathering spaces.

We invite you to learn more about Empowering a Healthier Generation or the Catskill Edible Garden Project at www.sullivan180.org Here you can connect with a specific school project, Healthier Generation Advisor or Edible Garden Coordinator.

CREATING AND CARING FOR PUBLIC SPACES

Sullivan 180 focuses on social determinants of health in partnership with schools, municipalities, and community organizations. We offer grants, technical assistance, and resources to support community leaders and a grassroots network of volunteers who are building and caring for beautiful places. The act of gardening and volunteering adds to an individual's health. Vibrant, cared for public spaces contribute to how a person feels about where they live; while also providing opportunities for outdoor experiences and physical activity in parks, and along trails.

There is a role for everyone in making Sullivan County a healthy community. Connect with us and learn more about Sullivan 180 initiatives, resources, workshops, events and volunteer opportunities at www.sullivan180.org.

Fallsburg Central School District

The Fallsburg Central School District is comprised of two outstanding schools: Benjamin Cosor Elementary School (PreK-6), and Fallsburg Jr./Sr. High School (7-12). We are located in eastern Sullivan County, with the communities within the district providing opportunities for a suburban, village, and rural lifestyle.

Fallsburg is a small educational community serving a diverse mix of approximately 1,400 students. We are committed to improving students' lives by providing a nurturing and well-balanced learning environment, excellence in education and a strong instructional program guided by the New York State Learning Standards. Our all-Regents curriculum challenges learners to meet higher standards by emphasizing small class size, personalized instruction, recognizing students' strengths and weaknesses, capitalizing on learning styles, and identifying gifts and talents.

Through a broad range of quality services and collaboration among administration, faculty, and staff, we foster social and academic excellence by promoting literacy and language fluency; engaging students in exploration, inquiry, investigation and complex thinking skills; using technology; connecting school to students' lives; exposing students to social and cultural experiences that build character and provide them with a well-rounded background; and respecting parents/families as important resources.

Fallsburg prepares students for the future by encouraging them to be self-directed learners, using expanded access to technology as a tool. A district-wide, high-speed wireless and Ethernet infrastructure offers Internet access and standard tool-based software in every learning environment, integrating computers into classrooms, libraries, and labs, while maintaining close contact between faculty and students through all school activities. We also provide students with rich extended day offerings, providing students with after-school support and enrichment based on their needs, while complementing other activities so that participating students enjoy extracurricular offerings and receive the academic support they deserve.

In a world where moral values are often ambiguous and morals are as diverse as the many cultures that make up our country, Hebrew Day School of Sullivan's mission is to educate without compromise the mind, body and soul. By interacting secular and Judaic subject matter, the school creates an environment rich in tradition yet balanced with 21st century skills. We have pre-school for 3 and 4 year olds, Pre-K through eighth grade with co-ed elementary classes, and ninth through 12th grade available for girls. Our student-teacher ratio is 6-1. Current enrollment is 55.

We believe that children arrive with different strengths based on their experience, physical development, and maturity. Potential abilities and aptitudes flourish in an atmosphere in which a student feels secure, confident, and free to explore and question. Helping them acquire the necessary skills and knowledge to function as a responsible and contributing member of society is the priority that forms the structure of the curriculum. Learning how to learn, to attack new problems, to acquire new knowledge, building competence in basic skills, understanding concepts and generalizations, and developing responsibility are some of our objectives. Emphasis is placed upon creativity and individuality, helping the child discover the particular way he or she sees and feels, and refining his or her way of expression.

Classroom activities concentrate upon the child's own perceptions and growing sense of self. Our philosophy guides every facet of our program, is the focus of our education efforts, is the standard by which we measure our achievements and is the beacon that illuminates our goals.

The Homestead School

The Homestead School is a Montessori school with 200 co-ed students in Pre-K through eighth grade. Located on 85 acres, the school is a green campus educating and practicing recycling, reusing, and reducing consumption, with almost 100 percent of its power supplied by its solar array.

Staffed with trained and dedicated teachers and with a student-teacher ratio of 8-1, the Homestead School provides each child with academic and social experiences of suitable challenge to his or her level. The school's hand-crafted, manipulative materials offer a concrete approach to sequenced programs in math and numbers, language, science, geography, social studies, daily living skills, sensorial training, and large muscle activities. Designed for individual use, the learning materials allow each student to take on tasks, repeatedly, until mastery. As a result, students develop independence, self-discipline, and the ability to work with concentration on solving problems.

The Homestead School derives its uniqueness from the number of enrichment opportunities that it offers. A national evaluation team from the American Montessori Society recognized the school for its "total" environment in which children experience the living lessons of a traditional working barn, complete with livestock and poultry, and of a mile-long natural and historical trail.

In addition to its emphasis on outdoor education, the Homestead School offers in-depth specialty subjects such as foreign language, computer training, music, drama, and physical education. Commonly viewed as "frills" in education, such specialties are embraced by the Homestead staff as the essence of a program, which helps the child to see constant applications for the regular classroom lessons while firing the creative imagination and stimulating interests to last a lifetime.

There are no half-days, and there is no after-school care. Bussing is available in Sullivan County. Tuition and fees are available at our website.

Liberty Central School

The mission of the Liberty Central School District is to empower each student to contribute and thrive in a diverse community by pursuing their potential. Every person in the district — teachers, administrators, parents, guardians, school board members and our support staff — work together every day to meet that goal.

The district recently introduced a five-year strategic plan to help the district establish its long-term priorities and establish overarching goals. The plan, along with yearly improvement plans from each building in the district, help district leaders stay focused on the LCDS mission, as well as its vision of “Cultivating trust and courage to be innovative and to persevere.”

Liberty’s elementary, middle and high schools boast age-appropriate programs, curricula and activities. Liberty has invested in technology, with every student being issued a Chromebook. The district is committed to educating the whole child, offering families a rich portfolio of options and programs, including Leader in Me, to ensure all students have the social, emotional and behavioral support they need to achieve their full potential. Ninth grade students are required to take the Freshman Leadership Orientation course, based on Leader in Me, to help give them the skills they need to be successful in high school.

The district partners with local universities, businesses and nonprofit groups to prepare students for college and career readiness. The district also has a strong relationship with the Village of Liberty Police Department and employs three full-time school resource officers, one for each building, and partnered in a mentorship program for high school students.

Together with parents, guardians and community, the district provides an educational experience that challenges and inspires all students to make a positive contribution to society. Students grow fresh food in edible gardens, enjoy outdoor lessons, participate in college credit courses, create in a K-8 Makerspace program, and get real-world business experience through Business INCubator classes. Students are also provided opportunities to participate in award winning musicals, visual and performing art programs, art shows and athletic programs.

Nearly 1,800 students attend the Liberty Central School District in its three school buildings:

Liberty Elementary School: Pre-K - Grade 4

Teachers and staff at Liberty Elementary School create a supportive and dynamic learning environment that enables students to gain knowledge in core subjects and develop personal responsibility and integrity. In addition to a strong academic program with an emphasis on reading, writing and math, the school is known for its hands-on learning techniques. The school often partners with local organizations to promote health, wellness, pride and patriotism.

Liberty Middle School: Grades 5-8

At Liberty Middle School, students are nurtured and prepared for increasing challenges in an environment that promotes academic excellence, independence and responsibility. Students and staff strive to create a culture characterized by respect, kindness, compassion, inclusion and peace. In addition to its strong academic program with an emphasis on reading and math, the school offers peer mentoring, Leader in Me curriculum, a renowned music department, a MakerSpace and a variety of extracurriculars.

Monticello Central School District

The Monticello Central School District is a community of life-long learners. We are the largest school district in Sullivan County in terms of enrollment. Approximately 2,700 students attend our five schools across 200 square miles of urban, rural and suburban areas that comprise our district's boundaries.

We prepare students to be successful, life-ready citizens through a holistic education comprised of academic rigor, extracurricular experiences and character development. Through partnerships with dozens of local and national agencies and organizations, we are able to provide our families with a myriad of opportunities to enhance academic skills, explore new interests, pique curiosities, experience the world outside of Monticello's boundaries and develop the emotional "soft skills" necessary for life in the 21st century.

Our youngest residents have the opportunity to participate in the district's St. John Street Community School Preschool, a free universal Pre-K (UPK) program that prepares three and four-year-old students to enter kindergarten with a foundation for academic success and a love of learning. The St. John Street Community School is also home to Tiny Town, a district program that helps children aged birth to three and their families develop early literacy and numerical skills, socialize, and play during scheduled weekly sessions.

Our primary grades emphasize an integrated language arts curriculum, supported with early intervention and social/emotional wellness education. Students receive instruction in art, music, physical education and technology, and can also choose to join one of the many extracurricular clubs that abound at the elementary level. Academic rigor accelerates in middle school, with upper-level course work and grade-level teams making integrated instruction possible. As part of the middle school's curriculum, students study technology, music, art, home and careers and foreign language, while also continuing to build character and culture competency.

College and career preparation continues in our newly-renovated high school, with students having access to advanced computer technology, a comprehensive foreign language program and the nationally-recognized Academy of Finance program. Through a partnership with SUNY Sullivan and Syracuse University, the high school offers 17 college courses, giving students the opportunity to graduate high school with transferrable college credits at a savings of up to 95%. Sullivan County BOCES provides a wealth of career and technical training for Monticello students. High school students also have many opportunities to pursue new interests, and develop leadership skills through internship programs, partnerships with local businesses, and a host of extracurricular clubs and programs.

The work of our exceptional music and performing arts program has earned the district the distinction of "Best Community for Music Education" from the National Association of Music Merchants for more than a decade.

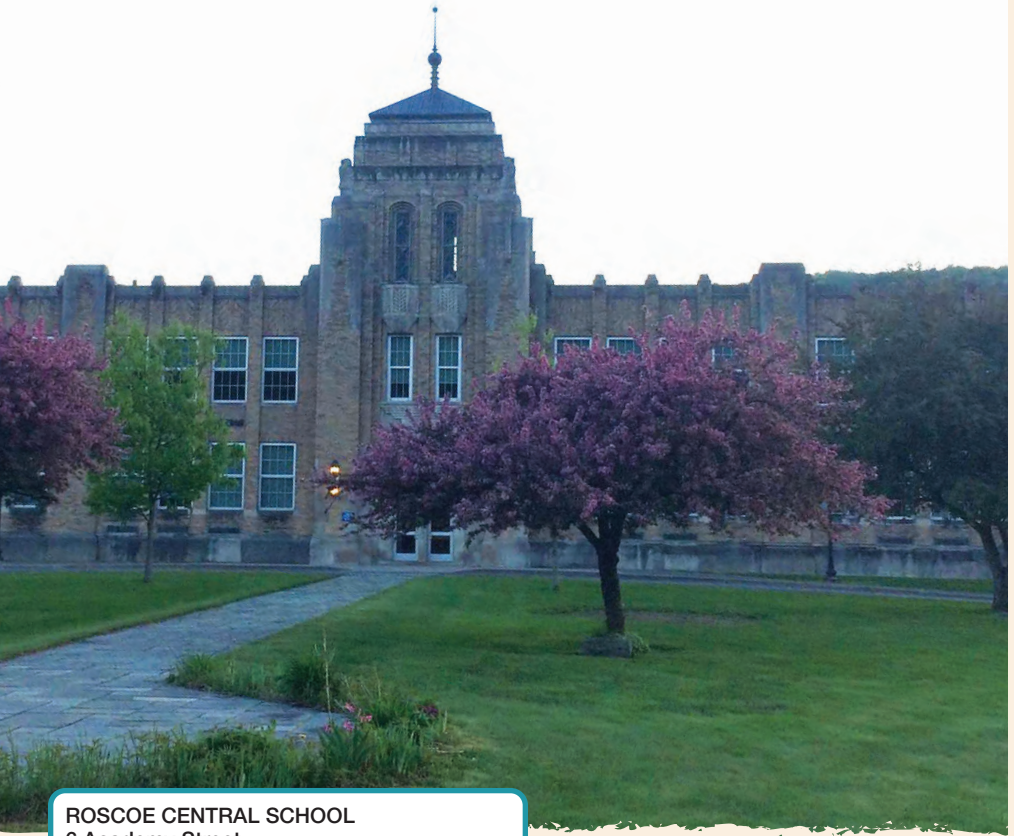

Monticello has a full roster of sports opportunities available for students to participate in. Our athletic teams are competitive and are frequent divisional and sectional champions.

Monticello graduates have attended Brown, Columbia, Cornell, Harvard, Stanford, RPI, NYU, Boston College and many other notable colleges. Our alumni include two former chief justices of the New York State Court of Appeals and a current member of the New York State Board of Regents. Monticello students, staff and alumni are constantly achieving great things, and we love shouting their successes from the rooftop. We invite you to follow along by visiting our website, and following our social media accounts.

The Roscoe Central School District provides “public school education” with a “private school vision.” We are a small, rural, PreK-12, central school located in the western part of the county. Our community has been recognized as one of the top 50 outdoor communities in the nation and has been ranked No. 1 in the state. Sullivan BOCES

Sullivan BOCES delivers a wide range of instructional programs, educational supports, and managerial services to its eight school districts and several other schools across the state. Over three-hundred staff members collaborate with school districts and parents to create solutions to educational challenges, increase operational efficiencies, and reduce costs. Sullivan BOCES improves student success by providing quality educational experiences that help students achieve their goals and prepare them for the global economy.

The Career & Technical Education Center (CTE) offers high school juniors and seniors the opportunity to learn the essentials for a specific career or trade, preparing them for college, the workforce, or the military. Instruction is held in classrooms that simulate real-life work settings and provides hands-on experience. An industry-specific advisory board guides each program to ensure students meet current learning and industry standards. All programs are approved by the New York State Education Department and have articulation agreements with colleges and trade schools, enabling students to earn credit toward an associate's or bachelor's degree while still in high school.

Children and young adults are the focus of the Special Education and Alternative Education Division. Both programs create and implement strategies to develop each student's potential, utilizing cutting-edge educational practices and state-of-the-art technology to enrich instructional practices. The focus of the Special Education program is to provide specially designed instruction and assist students in finding competitive employment in order to lead productive, independent lives. Classes are staffed by certified special education teachers, licensed teaching assistants, and certified school social workers, psychologists, and counselors. Sullivan BOCES staff members are skilled in instructional delivery, behavior management, and therapeutic intervention strategies.

The Curriculum and Instructional Support Services Division (ISS) is an essential resource to help educators adapt to the new NYS Next Generation Learning Standards by providing various professional development opportunities and regional scoring, instructional coaching, library services, and technical support. The ISS Division is committed to helping school districts raise student learning and achievement.

Sullivan BOCES also offers a series of cooperative school support services designed to increase efficiencies, which saves time and money and eliminates duplication of staff, facilities, and equipment. The Management Services Division exemplifies the potential for reducing costs on back-office functions like the central business office, health & safety services, human resources, food service operations, HVAC, electrician services, and telecommunications so that resources remain where they should - supporting classroom instruction.

The Sullivan BOCES' goal is simple; do everything they can to collaborate to increase student success, optimize efficiencies, and enhance cost savings.

Sullivan West Central School District educates approximately 1,100 students in prekindergarten through grade 12 in two schools. The district is spread over 250 square miles of western Sullivan County.

The Sullivan West Bulldogs excel in academics, interscholastic athletics, drama, the arts and music. Our Bulldogs also participate actively in school and civic affairs and volunteer within the community. Approximately 85 percent of our high school's graduating classes go on to post-secondary education at institutions such as Siena College, New York University, Harvard, Boston College, Hofstra, Lehigh, Villanova, Elmira, American University, and two-year and four-year SUNY colleges and universities. Over 40 clubs and activities are available for students, spanning all levels from elementary school through high school. Sullivan West High School offers eight Advanced Placement courses, five Dual Credit courses with SUNY Sullivan, and both the Syracuse University Chemistry and the Rochester Institute of Technology pre-engineering programs. Many students prepare for careers or technical post-secondary education by studying Career and Technical Education at the Sullivan BOCES. Our faculty and staff work with students in small and personalized classes. Students who need additional support or special programs are served by guidance counselors, social workers, psychologists and special education teachers in each school. Our students are also provided access to cutting-edge technologies and are encouraged to use their personal technology through our "Bring Your Own Device" initiative.

The Sullivan West Central School District provides an excellent education for its students within a small-town, rural community setting. Our schools are great places for students to learn, faculty and staff to work, and for visitors to learn more about the value of a Bulldog education!

The Tri-Valley Central School District has a long tradition of outstanding academic results fostered by a talented faculty, an extremely supportive community, and a board of education that encourages educational innovation and excellence.

Tri-Valley students consistently rank at or near the top of the region in the percentage of graduates earning Regents diplomas. Instructors offer seniors a wide variety of college credit-bearing courses.

Our secondary school students demonstrate their learning through classroom and performance-based experiences. The district is committed to fostering the value of an education through “hands-on” learning. One such avenue is that of Agricultural Education, which reflects the history and culture of the local community. Our students have the opportunity to work in actual greenhouses, take courses in Animal Husbandry and work with farm animals to develop the skills necessary for success in this important industry on the local, regional and national levels. Students participate in numerous well-run athletic and co-curricular activities, including a wide range of local, state and national competitions and service learning opportunities.

Tri-Valley teachers are provided with sustained professional development opportunities, and the district maintains an extensive professional library. The goal of this professional work is to successfully prepare the district’s students for their chosen paths beyond high school.

Tri-Valley programs are well supported by the board of education and the community, as demonstrated by an excellent history of taxpayer approval of the district’s budgets.

The Tri-Valley Central School District remains committed to promoting a child-centered, outcomes-based educational program.

Agriculture

Agriculture represents the second-largest economic sector in Sullivan County with a combined output value exceeding $68,000,000 (2010). Farms create direct economic benefits, provide our residents with fresh local foods, support other local businesses across many sectors, and preserve the rural character that our residents and visitors value so highly. Cornell Cooperative Extension (CCE) Sullivan County supports local agriculture by providing resources for farmers and consumers, helping strengthen the local and regional food systems. Farmers Markets

Every week during the growing season, our communities enjoy the freshest, locally grown seasonal fruits, vegetables, herbs, bedding plants, perennials, fresh-cut flowers, and more. Our talented crafters offer body botanicals, soaps, fine millinery, pottery, handbags, candles, jewelry and crafts. Local farms produce delicious cheeses, yogurt, jams, wines, maple syrup, honey, free-range eggs, fish, pork, poultry and beef. Specialty foods will have you coming back time and again for quiches, soups, sauces, breads, pastries, cookies and barbecue sauces. The farmers markets are for more than purchasing produce. They are a gathering place for friends and neighbors to relax and converse, enjoy a pastry, cookie or homemade ice cream, and build a sense of community.
