PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

There's one topic on the minds of businesses throughout our Cumberland Valley region, and it comes up in every conversation about our current economic climate: workforce. All businesses are struggling to find employees; it can be a daunting task embarking on the search for the right person to fill that needed spot on your business team. We are seeing unprecedented imbalances in the supply-demand ratio for jobs to applicants, and it does not seem to be getting better any time soon.

At our recent CVBA Annual Awards Breakfast, Jesse McCree from South Central PA Works provided unique insights into the nuances of why and how our labor market has arrived at such a competitive and challenging crossroads. There are a multitude of factors contributing to the employee deficit in the Cumberland Valley, but the good news is our overall economy is growing rapidly. But that economic expansion coupled with the lingering effects of Covid-19 has given the available workforce an abundance of opportunities to seek more flexible and rewarding career experiences. More than ever before we need creative ways to identify recruits and offer an atmosphere that is more tailored to their goals and life experiences.

Your membership in CVBA offers opportunities to reach local talent that have connections to our community. CVBA has launched a new regional job board for our members at CVBAlliance.org/Jobs. In just a few short weeks, dozens of local companies have successfully promoted more than one hundred jobs in our community. Our events calendar is filled with opportunities for you to network with local professionals and get the word out about your company's available employment positions. There's nothing better than face-to-face interactions to help find good employees. Take advantage of your CVBA membership to find the best local talent to fill your growing business needs.
