

NCBIO Life Science Forum Meeting Sponsorship Benefits & Deliverables

To meet the needs of the very diverse life science community in North Carolina, NCBIO has established membership forums that allow companies with similar interests to discuss advocacy, policy and industry issues central to the development of their businesses.

Our Life Science Forums address topics affecting medical device companies, emerging companies, CROs, etc. with speakers, industry experts, and policy officials coming together in a panel format to discuss relevant issues. These forums also provide an opportunity for industry members to share information and address strategic issues of common interest by incorporating networking and policy updates into the program format.
