3:30 p.m.	Concurrent Education Sessions
	Montgomery, Carrier Vetting, and Cargo Theft: Raising the Standard of Care in Trucking Justin Austin and Eric Sehlhorst, AON This session will examine how the Supreme Court's Montgomery decision is reshaping expectations for brokers, motor carriers, and shippers, with a heightened focus on carrier safety performance and due diligence. It will explore carrier vetting as both a legal and operational defense, including what a defensible process looks like and how it is likely to be evaluated in litigation. Attendees will also learn practical steps to strengthen safety, compliance, and documentation to remain competitive and preferred partners in a post-Montgomery environment, along with how disciplined vetting and ongoing monitoring can help reduce cargo theft risk and produce measurable improvements in the near term.	Captain A
	EPA and The Impact on the Transportation Industry Austin Hill, Stoops Freightliner Explore the impact of EPA and state regulations on the transportation industry in this session led by Austin Hill with Stoops Freightliner. Discover how these regulatory changes affect vehicle purchasing decisions, compliance strategies, and cost considerations. Learn about the opportunities for innovation and gain insights into the importance of proactive planning and adaptation for industry stakeholders.	Captain B
	On the Frontlines: The Industry's Role in Combating Human Trafficking Dylan Wecht, Truckers Against Trafficking (TAT) Human trafficking is happening in our own backyards and across North America's roadways. Attendees will learn about free TAT training and resources, along with case studies of victim recoveries by transportation professionals. The session will also highlight practical ways that moving, trucking, bus and energy industries can get involved. The presentation will have an interactive component, with participants able to take part in a before-and-after poll to watch their real-time understanding of their role in combating human trafficking grow.	Port
	Optimizing Network Profitability & Operations Brad Heisterkamp, KSM Transport Advisors, LLC Join Brad Heisterkamp from KSM Transport Advisors for a practical, data-driven look at maximizing freight network efficiency and carrier profitability. In this session, he will share key strategies for turning complex operational data into actionable insights—helping trucking executives refine pricing, balance networks, and build sustainable margin in today's evolving transportation market.
