Apply Now To Be Part of Next Year's Class

Samantha Awand-Gortel, a branch manager with Ulster Savings Bank, said her experience with Leadership Ulster forced her to self-reflect and adjust some of her approaches to management and leading her team.

"I have learned that management and leadership are two different things, and that a good balance of both is what makes an individual successful in impacting employees and the community," she said. "Nothing could replace the knowledge I have gained from Leadership Ulster and I would do it all over again and am grateful to be a part of the class at a young age.

"This experience is something I will take with me through all the different journeys in my life still to come."

Kimberly Griese, Planner with Arconic Fastening Systems & Rings, said she learned that leadership is not something you learn in a book.

"You gain skills by participating and through experiences such as speaking in front of others, organizing an event, and being in a leadership program," Griese said. "Leadership Ulster has touched on all these factors.

"Leadership Ulster has given us opportunities to learn about our community leaders in local business, government and charitable organizations. Each group has their own unique leaders who have shared their knowledge for us to succeed. This program has helped me understand my leadership style and develop my skills further."

The Ulster Leadership program began in 1992 and has stocked Ulster County's boards, non-profits and community organizations with almost 400 trained leaders.

The co-chairs of the Ulster Leadership Class of 2018 included Steve Gadaletto of AVP Insurance Ulster Savings Bank, and Meg Sheeley of SUNY Ulster.

Others in the class include Samantha Awand-Gortel of Ulster Savings Bank, Kimberly Griese of Arconic Fastening Systems & Rings, Justin Goldman of the Bank of Greene County, Ryan Burnett of Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., Jeremy Adams of Woodstock Byrdcliffe Guild, John Balducci of Paraco Gas, Hugo Jule-Quintanilla of RUPCO, Ethan Mass of M&T Bank, Dayle Nuzzolese-Wyble of Best Western Plus, Melanie Kormann of Frank Flynn CPA, AnnMarie Mitchell of New Horizons Resources, Brittany Schatzel of Rondout Savings Bank, Mandy Seiler of Family of Woodstock, Christopher Veros of The Arc of Ulster-Greene, Roger Stinemire of Arconic Fastening Systems & Rings and Samantha Wong of Hudson Valley Federal Credit Union.

Coordinators of the program are Ingrid Kulick, Executive Director of the Chamber Foundation, and Tara Dickett and Jennifer Alnwick, both of M&T Bank in Kingston.

"The 2018 Leadership Ulster class was a dynamic and diverse group of individuals that met on the kick-off retreat and completed the nine-month program as a cohesive team," Kulick said.

"The 2018 class members are already finding avenues for professional and volunteer involvement in their communities."

The Ulster Leadership Development Institute (ULDI) is a community leadership and training program, which educates future leaders about the community, local and state government, law enforcement, arts and culture and community development.

The program begins each fall with a weekend retreat and includes sessions throughout the year where participants hear from community leaders about what made them successful.

"Ulster Leadership has given us an inside look at what makes those leaders successful, and what we can do to continue the great work that these leaders are undertaking," said Goldman, the class treasurer. "I am grateful for their wisdom and for the wisdom of my classmates. What a wonderful feeling it is to be a part of that chain of stewardship."

The speakers ranged from political leaders like Kingston Mayor Steve Noble and Ulster County Executive Mike Hein to business entrepreneurs such as Garry Kvistad and educators like Ann Marrott of SUNY Ulster.

"I am very grateful to have had the opportunity to

HR Cruises Hosts Next Mixer

Spend A Night On The Glorious Hudson

This is one Chamber Mixer where you won't want to miss the boat.

The July 23 Mixer is being hosted by Hudson River Cruises in Kingston, and promises a beautiful night on the Hudson aboard the venerable Rip Van Winkle cruise boat. Murphy Realty Group is the sponsor.

"When you're out on the Hudson, and the sun is setting, and you've got the Catskill Mountains in the background, people just enjoy that," said Kevin Buckel, the general manager for Hudson River Cruises. "They enjoy being out on boats and they let loose and have fun."

Boarding of the Rip Van Winkle will start at about 4:30 p.m., so plan to arrive early at 1 East Strand at the foot of Broadway in Kingston.

While on board, Chamber members will enjoy plenty of food and drink and enjoy the music of Phil Paladino of "Music for all Occasions."

"We're going to take members out for a nice charter on the Hudson and play a little music," Buckel said.

The tour will cruise down the Hudson to Hyde Park past the Rondout and Esopus Meadows light-houses and riverfront mansions on the Dutchess County side of the river.

"What I like about doing a Mixer on the Rip Van Winkle is we're going to expose a lot of the business community to our vessel since we took it over two years ago," Buckel said. "We've made some significant changes to the boat, and I'm ready to show off those changes and show them a good time."

The changes include a remodeling of the bar and lower deck, which received upgrades. The engines were also rebuilt in the last year, Buckel said.

On-board capacity for the Mixer will be limited to 275, so early registration is encouraged. The Chamber also asks that no more than five employees per business attend.

Hudson River Cruises offers sightseeing cruises, holiday-themed cruises, private events like weddings and group tours from May to October.

The Rip Van Winkle can accommodate 100-175 people for business meetings, family reunions, weddings, bar/bat mitzvahs, anniversaries and more.

Hudson River Cruises can be reached at 1-800-843-7472, (845) 340-4700 and (845) 206-0379. The website is www.hudsonrivercruises.com.

Chamber Mixers are a great way to network and promote your business. Be sure to bring plenty of business cards. This free networking event is open to Chamber members only. Reservations are a must and can be made by calling the Chamber office at (845) 338-5100 or by registering online at www.ulsterchamber.org.

listen and learn from some of our top local leaders," said Schatzel, an assistant branch manager for Rondout Savings Bank. "Each presenter left me inspired and motivated. I look forward to incorporating the skills I have learned in my current position and continue developing them as I progress in my career."

Leadership Ulster also inducted three members into its Hall of Fame this year: Steve Hack of Ulster Savings Bank, Su Marcy of United Way of Ulster County and Steven Kelley of Ellenville Community Hospital. They join previous honorees James Childs, David Gagnon, Fran DePetrillo-Savoca and Sue Lang.

Leadership Ulster also initiates a class project each year and decided to focus on the the Boys & Girls Clubs of Ulster County in 2018. The class held two fundraising events and raised $3,825.

Class members also joined a guide at the Woodstock Byrdcliffe Guild for a hike to raise $450 for the Leadership Ulster Scholarship in memory of former Chamber President Len Cane, who started Leadership Ulster.

Applications are now being accepted for the 2019 class which starts with a Retreat at the luxurious Emerson Resort & Spa in Mt. Tremper in September.

They Love Brands at Katy Dwyer Design

Let Them Pump Life Into Your Business

So you've started your own business. You started it because you have a particular skill or expertise, but a common mistake is to try and handle all of the marketing, branding, publicity and social media by yourself.

Katy Dwyer Design (KDD), a marketing and branding company in the heart of Uptown Kingston, can remove that burden from you so you can focus on what you do best.

"I've even fallen into that trap, where I try to do all of my accounting by myself," Dwyer says. "The fact of the matter is you're an expert at something and therefore you started a business, but you may not be an expert at marketing and branding yourself. "That's where we hope you'll call us because it just takes a lot of pressure off someone's shoulders if they don't have to think about whether this poster or Facebook post or website or advertisement is going to do what they want it to do. Does it read right? Is it branded? Is it going to elevate engagement with your customers? That's why we're here. We take all of that off your shoulders and make sure it is all of those things."

KDD can not only help you brand your company, but also design, build and maintain your website.

"We like to say we help our clients connect with their customers emotionally, visually and digitally through brand strategy, graphic design and digital creative," Dwyer said.

The company can help you name your business, design a logo and brand visuals, business cards, letterhead, postcards, flyers, brochures, annual reports, guidebooks and even menus. KDD also designs digital ads and will help you get set up on social media if you're not already there.

"We're pretty much taking care of your brand from beginning to, hopefully, never the end," she said.

KDD's clients include non-profits, restaurants, professional services, manufacturers, and more.

"It really runs the gamut," Dwyer said.

The company's client list includes non-profits such as the Benedictine Health Foundation and Young Survival Coalition, restaurants like Ole Savannah, the Savona's family restaurants, the new Capital Tavern, and other local businesses such as Dutton Architecture, Wiltwyck Golf Club and Nostrano Vineyards.

KDD currently has a team of four—"a small team with big experience"—including senior designer Alissa Theodor, senior developer Garrett Gardner and Graphic Designer Jen Thomas. The company does hire other professionals, such as photographers, writers and social media experts, when needed.

"We have built relationships with many people locally so when a client comes to us we can help provide everything they need, even if we don't do it all right here in-house," Dwyer said.

Dwyer said what makes KDD unique is its desire to form a partnership with businesses and support them on an ongoing basis.

"We aren't the people who come in and do one tiny little project and then you never hear from us again," she said.

"Most of our clients came to us early on in their business or at a stage where they knew they needed a rebrand or a new website. We are very interested in making sure that our clients' brands are consistent, targeted, and that all their marketing follows a singular brand message."

KDD is also "friendly, fast and on top of things," Dwyer said.

"Our clients know we're very responsive," she said. "Most of our clients have been with us for a very long time. We've built great relationships, and our clients appreciate our savvy insight. We like to think we've been successful in building those relationships and those brands, otherwise people wouldn't keep calling us."

In fact, most of KDD's business comes from referrals. Dwyer said many of her clients recommend her to other businesses and it's not uncommon to get a call from a business owner saying, "I've heard so much about you."

Dwyer, who studied graphic design and graduated with honors from Moravian College, represented several large firms while working for an advertising agency in New Jersey before she and her husband settled in the Hudson Valley. She opened KDD in 2009.

KDD is not only a member of the Ulster Regional Chamber, but Hudson Valley Women in Business, Unique Ladies of the Hudson Valley and Professional Networking Powerhouse. Dwyer is a member of the Mid-Hudson Children's Museum board and The Arc of Ulster-Greene Foundation board. She also attends Chamber mixers and spoke recently at a Chamber Breakfast meeting.

"I love getting out there, meeting people, and sharing our insight," she said.
