Board Chair/CEO Update

Molly Bell, GoDaddy Board Chair, Chandler Chamber of Commerce

Since March, COVID-19 has been the catalyst for abrupt transition and rapid change. Looking ahead to 2021, and knowing what we have already been through this past year, the Chandler Chamber has learned a great deal about how to serve our members with resources, education and opportunity.

This global pandemic has changed everything we do. On top of that, we have experienced unprecedented natural disasters, political and social division and an incredibly fragile economy and business climate. Through all of this, what has shown brightly on this path of uncertainty is focusing on ways to make a difference. We will be showcasing this during our Chandler 100% event December 9th.

An incredible energy was generated by the Chandler Chamber this year in terms of resource, recovery and survival assistance to our Chandler business community. As we wrap up 2020, we will continue to be receptive to change, as that is what pushes us to adapt and improve. The lessons we have learned this year and the ways we have grown to meet the challenges that faced us will help to ensure that the Chamber continues to evolve with the times, remaining a cutting-edge and inclusive organization for years to come.

We have faced endless challenges but have also experienced meaningful successes. This is the year to shine the brightest light possible upon success, achievement and positive outcomes.

May your future bring a prosperous new year, good health and happiness.

Terri Kimble, President/CEO Chandler Chamber of Commerce @Terri_Kimble

What a year.

Like no other we have experienced, this year we faced the COVID-19 Pandemic head on. Right away, the Chandler Chamber became the go-to resource for business news, guidance, lending and COVID-19 updates from local, state and federal government.

The Chamber has been able to launch new virtual mediums enabling conversations, connections and support for the education of our members, such as our Strategy for Success webinars. These programs offered sound tactics for lending, marketing, finance and HR.

When business opened up again, we were there, celebrating through all of Chandler, driving through our retail and business centers tooting horns and waving banners, because you are so very important to us.

Task forces were formed to hold quarterly industry round tables making sure to take the temperature of the industries that stoke Chandler's economic fires. It was informative and inspiring to listen to our member's feedback.

As always, supporting diversity, equity and inclusion was a priority. We stayed closely in tune with legislative updates and federal, state and local business relief programs to share with you. We spent countless hours on the phone checking in on members. We made sure that your voices were still heard whether you were working from home or the office.

We've forged new partnerships with old friends, such as the Maricopa Small Business Development Center for business education and the City of Chandler to distribute the I Choose Chandler PPE Kits so our businesses can offer safe environments for their customers.

Moving forward we will continue to transform the way we work and we are appreciative to keep connecting with you through new outlets like webinars and virtual events. Above all, as a Chamber, you can count on us to continue to be there for you. We will remain committed to offering the tools you need to succeed because we are member driven and truly stronger together.

Chandler Mayor Update

Chandler Mayor Kevin Hartke
City of Chandler
@ChandlerAZMayor

This year Chandler truly earned its title as the Community of Innovation. When faced with unparalleled challenges, our community came together to develop solutions and find new ways of conducting business to keep our community safe and thriving.

I want to thank all of you, our business owners, for the strength that you have given us in a time of uncertainty. Despite temporary closures, layoffs and operational restructuring for many, the business community came together to support this city. Many of you raised money, provided job opportunities and donated your time and resources to ensuring our local economy would withstand the pandemic. I applaud you for your flexibility and determination – I know it has been difficult. You are the heart of this City, and I thank you for all you have done.

Despite the pandemic, we welcomed new businesses, saw more public art pieces pop up throughout the City, announced major developments and launched initiatives to support the local economy. Throughout 2020 Chandler was recognized as a top place to live, work, buy a home and raise a family – we were even named one of the top cities to be in quarantine and work from home, accolades truly unique to this year.

I look forward to a brighter 2021 and to continuing our innovative work with the Chamber and the business community. I wish you all a wonderful holiday season and a happy New Year.
