WSRE among Florida PBS stations bringing virtual PBS KIDS Edcamp to teachers

PBS KIDS Edcamp for Florida Educators is free for PreK–5 teachers

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 4, 2021 — WSRE invites PreK through fifth grade teachers in Escambia, Santa Rosa and Okaloosa counties to take part in a virtual PBS KIDS Edcamp for Florida Educators from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. CDT on Saturday, March 27. Registration is free.

Participants of this Zoom conference will join other teachers from across the state for peer support and sharing of ideas that improve classroom practice and positively impact student learning. This will be the first statewide PBS KIDS Edcamp offered to teachers.

PBS KIDS Edcamp is a gathering of educators connecting through shared experiences and peer-led conversations with a PBS twist. Edcamp was conceived by teachers, and the model was initially sparked by informal conversations on social media which later inspired participant-driven, peer-led gatherings. PBS, in partnership with Edcamp, now uses this model to support educators of young children as a platform for teachers to connect, share and help others who face the same challenges.

Register at wsre.org/education.
