

NAVAL EDUCATION AND TRAINING COMMAND

MEDIA ADVISORY

Naval Education and Training Command to Change Leadership

PENSACOLA, Fla. – On Thursday, June 8, at 10 a.m., Rear Adm. Pete Garvin will be relieved by Rear Adm. Jeffrey Czerewko as commander of the Naval Education and Training Command (NETC).

The ceremony will be held at the National Museum of Naval Aviation onboard Naval Air Station Pensacola. Vice Adm. Rick Cheeseman, Chief of Naval Personnel, will be the guest speaker.

Media representatives are encouraged to cover the ceremony; a brief media availability will be held immediately following the change of command ceremony. Garvin will be continuing his Naval service as president of the U.S. Naval War College in Newport, R.I.

NETC is the U.S. Navy’s Force Development pillar and largest shore command. Through its “Street to Fleet” focus, NETC recruits civilians and forges them into skilled warfighters ready to meet the current and future needs of the U.S. Navy worldwide.

Media interested in attending this event must contact the Naval Education and Training Command public affairs office for access and escort at netc-pao@us.navy.mil (preferred) or 850-452- 4861 by 4 p.m., June 5.
