Pensacola MESS Hall to host Pi Day Pie Tasting event

The Pensacola MESS Hall is hosting an irrational celebration on March 14, Pi Day. Attendees will sample pies, both pizza and dessert, from restaurants and bakeries from around the area, including J's Pastry, Craft Bakery, Conchita's, Bubba's Pizza, Lost Pizza, Papa's Pizza, and Short Fuze.

Attendees will also explore the many uses of pi, the irrational number, along with the many engaging activities throughout the MESS Hall.

Tickets for the event are $31.42, which is approximately ten times pi. It will include sampling the different pies as well as wine. The event begins at 6 PM on March 14 and is for ages 21+. More information and tickets are available at <https://pensacolamesshall.org/pi-day-2024/>. Vendors interested in donating a pie for sampling can contact Nicole Dickson, nicole.dickson@pensacolamesshall.org.

ABOUT THE PENSACOLA MESS HALL

Founded in 2012 and located at 418 E. Wright St in Downtown Pensacola, the Pensacola MESS Hall is not a typical science museum. It's all hands-on science. Visitors enjoy exploring math, engineering, science, and stuff with an ever-changing menu of mess kits, activities and exhibits. For more information about the MESS Hall, visit pensacolamesshall.org.
