

Todd Shimkus is the President/CEO of the Saratoga County Chamber of Commerce, a position he has held for 15 years starting in 2010.

Todd's career as a Chamber executive now spans 30 years having started as the Vice President of the North Central Massachusetts Chamber in 1995 and then as the President of the Adirondack Regional Chamber in 2003.

Todd has a master's degree from Tuft University, in Boston, in Urban and Environmental Policy, and a bachelor's degree from Clark University, in Worcester Massachusetts. He is one of only two Chamber executives in New York State to have earned the Chamber of Commerce Executive (CCE) professional designation, and he was one of the Business Review's 40 Under Forty designees in 2005. He currently serves on the SEDC Board of Directors, the Discover Saratoga Board of Directors, the CAPTAIN Board of Advisors, and the Alzheimer's of Northeastern New York Board of Directors.

He lives in Saratoga Springs with his wife, Lisa, and they have two adult children, Katelynne and Benjamin.
