

BUILD YOUR WORKFORCE THROUGH APPRENTICESHIP

EMPIRE STATE UNIVERSITY

Apprenticeships combine paid on-the-job training with education to develop skilled talent, strengthen retention, and build sustainable workforce pipelines. Apprenticeship models are now successfully used across industries including healthcare, education, information technology, advanced manufacturing, business services, public sector employment, and more.

Empire State University's Office of Partnerships and Workforce Development serves as a one-stop apprenticeship partner, helping employers, workforce organizations, and community partners navigate program design, registration, related instruction, academic pathways, workforce funding opportunities, and ongoing support.

Whether you're launching a new apprenticeship program or expanding an existing workforce strategy, our team can help you every step of the way.
