And the winner is...!

Horizon City Center to set sustainable standard

Horizon City Center, a 500-acre development located at the southwest corner of Interstate 70 and E-470 in Aurora, is one the first developments in Colorado selected to take part in a nationwide effort to set sustainable building and planning standards for residential developments.

Horizon City Center is among a select group of sustainable developments nationwide chosen and announced by the U.S. Green Building Council to participate in the Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design for Neighborhood Development (LEED-ND) Pilot Program.

Chamber member Lend Lease Communities is developing Horizon City Center, a $2 billion project that will combine commercial, retail and residential uses in a sustainable format. Lend Lease Communities plans to break ground on the project in early 2008.

"Sustainability is in our DNA," Lend Lease Communities Project Director Simon Walker said. "Gaining the LEED-ND designation affirms that our plan for Horizon City Center is a step above and beyond other projects. It also means Lend Lease Communities will have a hand in shaping the nation's leading sustainable neighborhood standard."

Horizon City Center is situated at a key location in the region. Aurora city leaders are following the project closely. "We're thrilled the Horizon City Center is setting the bar for building green," Aurora Mayor Ed Tauer said. "Hats off to Lend Lease for doing it right."

Fox Gala features Pulitzer winning play

The Pulitzer prize winning play Anna in the Tropics will be featured at this year's Fox Gala. The very popular evening event, will also feature food, wine, and fun in a tropical-styled Plaza next to the Fox Arts Center. Scheduled for Sept. 22, the evening will kick off at 6:30 p.m. with dinner featuring fine cuisine by Carrabba's Italian Grill as well a selection of great wines. The Fox Board also promises to have their usual eclectic silent auction items to tickle your fancy. Curtain rises at 7:30 p.m. A special dessert and gourmet coffee will be served on the Plaza following the play. Sponsorship packages are available ranging from Producer level featuring the best seats in the house, through Director and Star packages. Additional information on the play, sponsorships and the evening in general are available on the Chamber web site, www.aurorachamber.org or by calling George Peck at 303-344-1500. "This is a great evening—one you can turn into something very special for your company with the appropriate sponsorship," said Peck. "You really don't want to miss this season kick-off event."

Kevin Hougen
President & CEO

This summer is hot, hot, hot, and I'm not just referring to our outdoor temperature this month. The hottest news in the eastern metro area this summer occurred on June 14 when the final phase of the move for the University of Colorado at Denver and Health Sciences Center to the Anschutz Medical Campus in Aurora occurred. With University Hospital locating to the Anschutz Medical Campus the employment figures went to over 6,200 people on the campus—more, by the way, than were on Fitz when it was an Army Medical Center. And, by next year with the opening of The Children's Hospital an estimated 16,000 employees and over 6,000 visitors will be traveling to the Fitzsimons campus. In addition, you can see progress almost every day in the area surrounding the medical campus as new businesses finalize their operating plans.

Aurora looking at NASCAR

The competition for a new racetrack is heating up. Rocky Mountain Speedway Corp. is a subsidiary of International Speedway Corp., owner of Florida's Daytona International Speedway and other racetracks. ISC executive Wesley Harris said this past week that his group is looking at a site in Aurora for a new NASCAR-style racetrack. Even though we lost an opportunity back in 1999 and in 2000, the business community is backing the attempts to bring racing back to the front-range. NASCAR racing is one of the largest sporting events in the country, with millions of fans and some of the highest dollar sponsorships in the sports entertainment arena. This is another hot issue that could prove to be an economic bonanza for our area.

President Clinton to Deliver Keynote
The Aurora Economic Development Council will present former President Bill Clinton as the keynote speaker at their A-List 2007 Luncheon scheduled for Monday, September 17. Like our weather, this is a hot event that will bring together more than 2,500 business, community and political leaders from the seven-county metro area to celebrate the economic success of the city of Aurora and the surrounding region. Chamber board member and President of the Aurora Economic Development Council Wendy Mitchell commented, "We are thrilled to host President Clinton at the 2007 A-List luncheon presented by Opus Northwest, L.L.C. No one is more qualified to speak about the complex issues surrounding global leadership." For more information please call Emerald Thomas at 303-340-2101 or go to A-List@auroraedc.com.

Cool Water Still a Hot Issue

Our friends in the Aurora Water Department have pointed out that the last significant rainfall we received in Aurora was in early June. Since then it has been terribly hot and dry, a condition that has been responsible for making lawns a bit crispy and employees glad to be working in air-conditioned businesses. The good news is that Aurora's reservoirs nearly filled with spring runoff this year. With care that storage should hold us over through this dry spell. I'm confident Aurora Water customers will continue to conserve water this summer, despite the heat so the picture will not be as grim as it could be. This weather pattern calls to mind the rationale behind Aurora's Prairie Waters Project. Construction has begun on this project that will provide Aurora with a drought-hardened water supply by late 2010. The project will increase Aurora's water supply by 20 percent or about 3.3 billion gallons annually.

As for dealing with those dry lawns, Melissa Elliott with Aurora Water reminds us that the Kentucky Blue Grass that most of us have is a cool season turf. "When you see brown spots and the green turns that hazy blue color, the turf is doing exactly what it is supposed to do in hot weather," she told us. "Continue to irrigate efficiently and when we get wet weather and cooler temperatures the turf will return to the green that we identify with." For more information on water conservation and the Prairie Waters Project visit www.aurorawater.org.

Study: Consumers like Chamber members
A new national study reveals that membership in a local chamber of commerce can significantly boost a business's image among consumers, as well as among other businesses. In fact consumers are 63 percent more likely to buy from Chamber members. In the scientific survey of 2000 U.S. adults, The Schapiro Group, an Atlanta-based strategic consulting firm, found positive perceptions of chamber members in a number of areas, including overall favorability, consumer awareness and reputation, and likelihood of future patronage.

DON'T FORGET: "Every employee of a Chamber member is a member of The Chamber"

Please route this issue to your sales reps, account managers, marketing directors, HR and PR departments. You can also access each month's newsletter online at our website, www.aurorachamber.org, so you can forward it to every employee in your company!

Signing off for the future — Aurora City Manager Ron Miller signs a section of the huge pipe that will bring millions of gallons of water to Aurora in the future. The pipe was near the area a groundbreaking ceremony was held for a new water purification plant. The plant will serve as cornerstone of $754 million sustainable water project in Aurora. All guests at the ceremony, held July 25, were invited to sign the pipe. (Photo courtesy City of Aurora Water Department)

Aurora Housing Authority Sweeps NAHRO Awards

The Aurora Housing Authority took home four top awards from the Colorado NAHRO (National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials) annual conference in Colorado Springs, recently. Preston Prince, AHA Executive Director, was named Outstanding Director, and Tania Morris, AHA Manager of Assisted Housing, was named Outstanding Staff Member. The Affordable Housing Design Award went to Jennifer Siegel for the Plaza Townhomes at Macon/Moline, and the Community Revitalization Award was presented to Elizabeth Gundlach-Neufeld, for the 2006 Aurora

Community Reinvestment Program. AHA staff members Penny VanderWall, Director of Assisted Housing, and Jennifer Maldonado, Lead Housing Specialist, were featured speakers at the conference. Prince also moderated two sessions: the National NAHRO Candidates forum and the National Outlook on Housing forum. Local housing authority executive directors, commissioners and staff attended the Colorado NAHRO conference, which dealt with public housing, Section 8, project-based Section 8, community revitalization and development and other timely issues.

Is this a quiz? — Dr. Linda Bowman (at podium), President of the Community College of Aurora introduces a distinguished panel as they prepare to discuss where the education community is poised to go in the critical years ahead. On the panel (l-r) were Colorado Commissioner of Education Dwight Jones and School Superintendents Dr. Monte Moses of Cherry Creek and John Barry of Aurora. Nearly 300 community and business leaders attended the breakfast at the Radisson SE organized by the Chamber Government Affairs and Education Committee and sponsored in part by 1st Bank of Aurora and the Foundation for Educational Excellence. They spoke about the challenges they face both state-wide and locally. (Photo by Barbara Peck, In Your Element Photography)

Aurora Water breaks ground on state-of-the-art purification facility

City of Aurora officials and more than community leaders turned out to help break ground construction of a state-of-the-art purification facility at Aurora Reservoir. The purification facility is a major component of the Prairie Waters Project, Aurora's plan for delivering as much as 3.3 billion gallons of water to the city annually by 2010. The Prairie Waters Project is a sustainable water supply project designed to ensure Aurora customers receive a high-quality, reliable water supply, said Melissa Elliott, a spokesperson for Aurora Water. "Once complete, it will be one of the most advanced water purification facilities in the country and will to treat up to 50 million gallons of water per day," she said. The Prairie Waters Project is funded through a combination of tap fees, and water rates. The project had its genesis in 2002 when Colorado experienced a drought so severe the city's reservoirs were drained to just 26 percent of capacity. Aurora's Director of the Water Department, Peter Binney noted that the drought emphasized the need to develop a comprehensive, long-term plan to provide a future supply of high quality, reliable water to the city and began putting together a long-term plan. The purification facility is a major component of the Prairie Waters Project, Aurora's plan for delivering as much as 3.3 billion gallons of water to the city annually by 2010.

The Children’s Hospital supports APS

Although they aren’t schedule to arrive on the Fitzsimons Campus in Aurora until October, more than 75 volunteers from The Children’s Hospital spent June 21 in their new community helping out at two Aurora Public Schools. The group traveled to Montview and Fulton Elementary Schools to do landscaping, painting and playground work.

“This is the first step in what we hope is a long partnership with The Children’s Hospital.” We are grateful to the staff for supporting our students and schools,” APS Chief Operating Officer Anthony Sturges said.

“All of us at The Children’s Hospital look forward to our move this fall to our new location and are eager to call Aurora home,” said Jim Shmerling, President and CEO of The Children’s Hospital. “To help us get acquainted and meet some of our new neighbors, we wanted to pitch in and lend a hand for the benefit of Aurora’s public school kids.”

Staff from the City of Aurora Parks and Open Space Department and Singing Hills Landscaping were on hand to assist and provide direction as needed.

Bedwell is tops in his profession

The Association of Public Safety Communications Officials (APCO) recently named Mike Bedwell as Manager of the Year. Bedwell, the City of Aurora’s Manager of Public Safety Communications since 2005, was cited for the work he has done in easing some of those pressures felt by those who work in the 911 Call Center. Facing high turnover rates in the stress-filled 911 arena, Bedwell set out to give his team the tools they needed to be successful in their jobs. He focused on bolstering the training provided to his staff. Each newly hired dispatcher completes six months of rigorous training, including a great deal of cross-training across different job functions. A cross-trained staff has allowed Bedwell to decrease the amount of overtime required of the dispatchers and increase their skill-sets. Turnover rates went from 48 percent in 2005 to 18 percent today.

Southlands 5K Race to benefit Aurora Family YMCA

Southlands continues its tradition of community involvement on Sept. 15 when it sponsors the First Annual 5K Race and One-Mile Family Fun

Run/Walk!

Runners and walker will be able to earn additional points for their participating Earning 4 Learning School of your choice. One Mile participants can bring pets, kids and friends to raise money for Aurora Family YMCA.

The course will begin at the Town Square outside Gymboree. Participants will then travel up Main Street, East on Smoky Hill, North on Aurora Parkway, West on Orchard Road, East on Prospect Avenue, North on Central Avenue ending in the Town Square. As a bonus all participants receive a free goodie bag filled with coupons, gifts and more. If you are interested additional information and registration is available online at www.shopsouthlands.com.

Aurora water bonds receive credit rating upgrade from Moody’s

The City of Aurora water revenue bond credit ratings have been upgraded to an Aa3 (from A1) rating by Moody’s Investors Service and affirmed at an AA-rating by Fitch Ratings according to John Gross, Director of Finance. The high financial ratings will significantly reduce financing and insurance costs for the city’s Prairie Waters Project, resulting in an estimated $2.23 million savings over the life of the $425 million water bonds.

Mid-Year Directory in Final Stages

Chamber membership continues to grow as is evident in the latest Aurora Chamber Mid-Year Directory. The latest update covers new chamber members from January through July – from Magnum Accounting Solution (Accounting & Tax Preparation) to Myrco Travel Services (Travel). The mid year edition is expected to reach members later this month.

Save the date—“Taste” is coming!

The popular Taste of Aurora, an annual opportunity for Chamber members to sample food from a wide variety of Eastern Metro restaurants, is back on the calendar according to Naomi Colwell who coordinates the event for The Chamber. Set for Sept. 20, the palate pleasing evening, co-sponsored by the Aurora Sentinel, will once again be held at the Stampede at 2430 S. Havana Street with doors opening at 5:30 p.m. More than 50 food and beverage vendors are expected to participate.

Aurora Chamber Foundation sets up reward fund

The Aurora Chamber Foundation, in conjunction with the Aurora Rotary

Club and the Aurora Police Department has initiated a special fund to help reward crime witnesses who provide substantial information to help solve crimes committed in Aurora. Money raised by the Rotary Club and The Chamber will give police investigators one more tool to solve tough crimes by giving them the ability to offer a cash reward for critical information. APD Chief Dan Oates, himself a Rotarian, suggested the approach based on the success he had had while serving in other police departments.

Navy Operational Support Center makes changes

A change of command ceremony in the best Navy tradition Commander Pat O’Flaherty took command of Buckley’s Navy Operational Support Center July 14. O’Flaherty, who is originally from Aurora, took over the unit from Commander Christian Hansen who is has been selected by the Navy to help set up a new command in Africa.

In a related move, Lieutenant Commander Dennie Bourbeau, the NOSC Executive Officer and a member of the Defense Council Executive Committee closed out a 20-year Navy career that included duty as a P-3 Orion pilot in a retirement ceremony that included a renewal of his marriage vows to his wife Judy, an Aurora native. The Bourbeau’s plan to stay in the Aurora area.

Havana BID elects Suss President

The Havana Business Improvement District elected Paul Suss (Suss Buick, Pontiac, GMC) as their first president. Also elected were Michael Sheldon as Secretary and Jack Tierney who will serve as Treasurer of the newly formed organization.

The newly formed board’s first action was to name Gayle Jetchick as the Executive Director and retain Grimshaw and Harring as legal counsel for the BID. Dumitri’s Restaurant at 1911 S. Havana was also named as the preferred location for meetings.

The Havana BID was formed to improve the look and atmosphere of businesses along the Havana corridor from East 6th Avenue to the north and East Dartmouth Avenue to the south. Money raised would be used for such things as beautification of storefronts and streetscapes, as well as support of redevelopment of the old Buckingham Square Mall area to create a destination point for the western border of Aurora.

ArapCo Sheriff offers Citizen Academy

The Arapahoe County Sheriff’s Office will conduct their annual Citizen’s Public Safety Academy October 2 - 25. Classes will be held each Tuesday and Thursday evening from 6:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m., with an all-day range day scheduled for Saturday, October 13.

This academy is designed to give Arapahoe County citizens a behind the scenes look at their Sheriff’s Office. Presentations include an Overview, Arrest Control Techniques, Patrol Procedures, Special Units Demonstration and a facilities tour.

Citizen’s interested in participating are encouraged to contact Deputy Larry LaFlam, at 720-874-3903 or lflam@co.arapahoe.co.us.

When Work Works!

Three receive national recognition for workplace flexibility

Three local businesses including Chamber members Arapahoe/Douglas Works! and The Medical Center of Aurora were named a winners of the Alfred P. Sloan Award for Business Excellence in Workplace Flexibility at a special ceremony Aug. 10. Presented by Greg Roth, senior manager of programs for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce’s Institute for a Competitive Workforce, the award singled out the three companies some of the top practitioners of workplace flexibility in the nation.

Winners of this prestigious award not only offer excellent workplace flexibility policies and practices, but they also use flexibility as a strategic business tool to benefit business and employees.

“Two of the biggest issues for employers in today’s economy are recruitment of top talent and retention of valued employees,” said Roth, “The business community sees workplace flexibility as a vital piece in a broader plan to develop the strongest possible workforce. As a strategy to stay competitive, workplace flexibility can be a sound business decision for employers no matter the size or industry sector.”

Applicants for the Alfred P. Sloan Awards were evaluated in a rigorous two-step process, first comparing the employer’s application to nationally representative data from Families and Work Institute’s National Study of Employers, and then validating what employers report against employee responses.

“This award is one of the most rigorous in the country,” said Ellen Galinsky, president of Families and Work Institute. “When comparing the winners to national data, they score in the top 20 percent of all employers in the U.S. – which is phenomenal,” she said. “These businesses understand that workplace effectiveness and flexibility are part of being an employer of choice today. They are truly models for other companies.”

Ritter names Whitney to new post

Gov. Bill Ritter announced a major overhaul of Colorado's homeland security structure to strengthen and better coordinate state operations and ensure compliance with federal spending guidelines.

The changes include creating the position of Governor's Homeland Security Coordinator, to be filled by retired Colorado National Guard Maj. Gen. Mason Whitney. Whitney served on the Aurora Chamber Board of Directors and was the 2006-07 Bob Cardenas Award winner at the recent Chamber Armed Forces Recognition Luncheon.

Whitney will manage a statewide planning process, overseeing policy and strategy development, federal grants, and collaboration among state agencies, the Governor's Office, legislature and the private sector. He begins Aug. 1 and will report to the Governor.

Arapahoe County helps vets

Arapahoe County has opened a new office in Aurora called Veteran Services to assist veterans in applying for benefits from the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs according to Don Klemme, Director of Community Resources for Arapahoe County. "This program would still be in its infant phase if it weren't for the help of residents who have volunteered to make this program a reality," said Klemme.

Veterans seeking services from the VA are encouraged to stop by one of two A/D Works! offices located at 14980 E. Alameda Drive in Aurora or 1610 W. Littleton Boulevard in Littleton. Hours vary, so vets are asked to contact Nate Wells at 303-636-1190 for specific hours of operation.

If you are interested in being a veteran volunteer and helping fellow veterans, Volunteer Connections, Arapahoe County's volunteer program, would love to hear from you says Val Purser, volunteer coordinator for the county. For more information or to have an application packet mailed, call Purser at 303-738-7938.

Welcome Back! — Gov. Bill Ritter joins Brig. Gen. Trulan Eyre of Buckley's 140th Wing and other Colorado National Guard members for the homecoming of more than 100 soldiers from the 169th Fires Brigade. The Buckley-based unit returned to Colorado on July 10 after a 15-month deployment in Iraq. The unit accomplished 150 missions and returned home without a single casualty. The 169th Fires Brigade deployed for Operation Iraqi Freedom in support of Multi-National Division North. The Brigade provided strategic planning tools, personnel and equipment to foster capacity-building for communities in Iraq while also supporting the 101st Airborne Division and 25th Infantry Division. Blackhawk parked — Craig Ward (Padgett Business Services), new chair of the Chamber Defense Council gets briefed on the intricacies of the UH-60 Blackhawk helicopter by Maj. Alan Robison, with the Army Aviation Support Facility (AASF), Colorado Army National Guard at Buckley AFB. The Defense Council was hosted by the Army aviators in June at their new facility at Buckley. The Colorado Army National Guard aviation unit is primarily at Buckley in Aurora, but a detachment is located in Eagle (near Vail) alongside the High-Altitude Army Aviation Training Site (HAATS). The 2nd Battalion 135th Aviation Regiment is an Army Aviation Battalion which deployed to Iraq in September 2006 as part of Operation Iraqi Freedom. In addition to the Blackhawk, the unit also flies the CH-47 Chinook and th UH-1H Huey. (Colorado National Guard Photo Courtesy Lt. Darin Overstreet)

Colorado Freedom Memorial offer CD

A CD full of great music from local bands is now available from the Colorado Freedom Memorial Foundation. "This is a great collection of patriotic music all contributed by local musicians," said Rick Crandall, President of the Foundation. He said the CD, which sells for $15 plus $3 shipping and handling contains 14 cuts from nine different Colorado artists. "They have been kind enough to contribute their music so 100 percent of what we raise can go toward the construction of the Memorial," proclaimed Crandall. Artists include: Jake Schroeder, Denver Brass, Michael Collins Pipe Band, Timothy P. Irving, Storm Front, Denver Municipal Band, Sound of the Rockies Chorus, the Denver A Capella Project and Darren Curtis Skanson.

The disc is available by calling 303-248-3990. "This might make a very nice holiday gift," Crandall said. "It should be in everyone's collection!"

The Colorado Freedom Memorial, which will honor all the men and women from Colorado who died in service to their country since Colorado became a state in 1876, will be located in Aurora near Buckley Air Force Base.
