Don't forget that the monthly IMPACT is on our Web site before you get it in the mail! The newsletter is sent via bulk mail at the end of every month, and can take up to 14 days to get into your hands.

The monthly package you receive in the mail is chock full of offers and information from your fellow Chamber members, as well as registration forms and meeting notices from The Chamber. Be sure to open it and look through the flyers as well as the newsletter!

Awards Banquet 2007— Not shaken but definitely stirred

The Four Points Sheraton was aglitter with beautiful women and handsome gentlemen on April 24 as The Chamber once again honored the best of the best in the Eastern Metro area at the 52nd Annual Chamber Awards Banquet. The James Bond 007 theme seemed to bring out the best in the approximately 500 community leaders who attended the gala event sponsored by one of Aurora's newest organizations, The Children's Hospital.

The major fund raiser for the Chamber, the night featured 007 himself, James Bond and a number of the famous Bond girls, two of whom escorted Chamber President Kevin Hougen to the stage where he once again worked his folksy magic as the evening's Master of Ceremonies.

In addition to honoring the community's most outstanding leaders (see photographs), part of the evening was devoted to the transition of the 2006-2007 Board of Directors to the new 2007-

Prairie Waters Project on track for summer groundbreaking

The City of Aurora's Prairie Waters Project is nearing the start of construction, according to a spokesman for Aurora Water. He said ground will be broken for the new water purification plant early this summer, followed a few months later by construction on the pipeline. The $754 million water supply project will bring an additional 3.3 billion gallons of water to the city annually by late 2010, which is 20 percent more than is currently available.

The project is one of the largest water supply projects in the Rocky Mountain Region and will help chart the future course of water supply planning for the Front Range.

"Aurora needs more water," said Dana Ehlen, Acting Director of Aurora Water. "After evaluating 54 options for how to get it, the Prairie Waters Project was chosen because it was the fastest and most economical way to increase our water supplies," he said.

Project representatives are available to come to your company or organization to provide a presentation on the project the spokesman said. "This may be a good opportunity for Aurora companies that have brown bag lunch sessions for their employees.," he said.

For more information on scheduling a presentation for your organization call 303-739-7477 or e-mail cpd_info@auroragov.org.

Showcase Aurora preparations begin

With summer well on its way, The Chamber is gearing up for the annual Showcase Aurora, an opportunity for members to promote their business not only to other businesses, but to the public as well.

Organized like a classic tradeshow, but with the informal atmosphere The Chamber brings to all its events, Showcase Aurora is scheduled to replace the Business after Hours on July 26. The popular event running from 5-7:30 p.m., will once again be held at the Radisson SE (I-225 & Parker). Booths are available for $175. Cost includes food and drink at the event. Chamber organizer Naomi Colwell says sponsorship are still available. She can be reached at 303-344-1500 or via email at naomi.colwell@aurorchamber.org.

Not sure how to do a trade show right? The Chamber is also offering a free training seminar on June 6 from 1:30-4:30 p.m. The seminar is free to Chamber members, but reservations are required for this valuable informational meeting.

President & CEO

Springtime in the Rockies, two feet of snow in Douglas County, Sixth Avenue in Denver flooded out, record rainfall in Aurora and this weekend we expect to see the thermometer top out at 81 degrees. It was so nice to have two days of spring this year. We really do love Colorado!!

Chamber Defense Council Chair Ms. Diane Garcia and I spent this past week at Peterson Air Force Base in Colorado Springs. The Air Force Space Command, led by General Kevin Chilton, hosted us for the Spring Commander's Conference. Col. Dave Ziegler and Chief Master Sgt. Kevin Candler from the 460th Space Wing at nearby Buckley AFB attended the conference along with Diane and I. We did get snowed in for one day, but that gave us even more time to spend with the senior command leaders of the U.S. space professionals.

It was exciting to learn about developments such as the United Launch, the joint operations program between Boeing and Lockheed Martin that will bring close to 800 new employees to the metro area. One of the missions at Buckley AFB is the Space Based Infra-red System (SBIRS) that will be expanding along with the new Medical Care Facility at Aurora North Medical Center. The new privatized military family housing (351 new homes) on the west side of Buckley is close to completion, with more than 200 people on a waiting list ready to move in.

The Chamber's Mission

President's Letter

As Buckley AFB and the aerospace industry in Colorado continue to grow, other parts of the Air Force will be bucking that trend. Next year the Air Force will reduce its total manpower from 359,000 down to 311,000. Diane and I left the conference with even a stronger feeling of support for the hard work and dedication that these men and women bring to the war effort and how the protection of this great country that relies on these true war fighting heroes from the United States Air Force Space Command. The next time you see one of these heroes in uniform, please thank them for their sacrifice in serving to protect the freedoms we sometimes take for granted.

Vote For Business, U.S. Chamber of Commerce

For decades, unions have been a declining force in the workplace. Fifty years ago, 35 percent of all workers belonged to unions. Now just seven percent of private sector employees do. Labor leaders blame their troubles on the process workers use to decide whether or not they want to be represented by unions, saying it's stacked against them. That process usually involves employee secret ballot elections overseen by the National Labor Relations board. Unions win more than half of these elections but they've come up with a process under which they won't lose—eliminating private ballot elections. Under their new proposal, unions would be certified as the bargaining agents for workers once they persuade a majority of eligible employees to sign authorization cards. Unions would have as long as they need to collect signatures. This is called the "card check" process and would be open until they win the vote.

The House got it wrong when they passed the card check bill last month. The Aurora Chamber along with the U. S. Chamber is working to ensure that the Senate doesn't repeat their mistake, and we need your help. Contact your Senators and ask them to oppose the "Employee Free Choice Act." Call toll-free 866-346-VOTE (8683).

Asian Pacific Breakfast

Scholarship Winners — Lena and Anna Chen pose with their father, Sheng and Chamber President Kevin Hougen. The Rangeview High School students were among more than 50 youngsters honored at the annual Asian Pacific Breakfast on March 24 for their scholarship in Aurora schools.

"OFF WE GO INTO THE WILD BLUE YONDER . . ."

By Geoff Smith, Aurora Mental Health

True to the experiential nature of Leadership Aurora's training model, our itinerary for the Military Day session was precise and detailed, even suggesting a departure time for class members to ensure timely arrival. This realization and awareness continued throughout the day as we developed deeper understanding of the complexity, diversity and importance of the multitude of services that take place every day at Buckley AFB.

Leadership Aurora class members listened intently to Brigadier General Mike Edwards, Commander, Colorado Air National Guard, describe with passion the various services the COANG has provided over the years. Colonel Steve Muhs facilitated the 460th Space Wing briefing and now Leadership Aurora class members know for sure that those giant golf balls out in the plains actually hold both the star-gate for inter-dimensional travel and the remains of the alien craft and extraterrestrial carcasses taken from Roswell, NM! This light-hearted approach made for nice contrast when Colonel Muhs stopped joking and explained to the class just how sensitive those satellites watching over us actually are.

We discovered that our own Barbara Atwell would be the expert tour guide for our Windshield Tour and site visits of the Buckley Chapel, Dormitories, and Health Complex. The Chapel works hard to serve service men and women from all faiths. The Dormitories were newly built and featured a very cool perk that class member Daryl Guill was principal in coordinating — a state of the art mini-movie theater with comfy seats and rich surround sound. The Health Complex was truly state of the art, as well, and included updated weights and cardio equipment as well as a gymnasium, racket-ball courts, and raised running track.

After a light and delicious lunch we felt the need for speed. We would soon be air-borne for the most experiential and exciting component of the day that being a sortie in a KC-135 airplane providing a training mission for our learning that allowed us to be there and watch the elegant midair ballet of an F-16 refueling procedure. We were enthusiastic and maybe a little anxious as we all donned our oxygen bags, strapped into the red canvas harnesses, and roared from the runway. We experienced another memory moment as we watched the precision flying of the pilots and crew from the vantage point of lying on our bellies, in the rear of the plane, next to the boom officer who guided the 40 foot long fuel line to the fighter jet below.

Class members watch a midair refueling of an F-16.

Military Day at Buckley AFB was another singular experience in learning more about the Aurora community, deepening relationships with each other and soaking in more models of leadership, organization, and the complexity of modern municipal systems. The vital connection between the City and the Base was clearly demonstrated and many found themselves humbled and proud reflecting on their unforgettable day.

DEADLINE FOR LEADERSHIP AURORA APPLICATIONS JULY 13

The Chamber is currently accepting applications through July 13, 2007 for the 2007-08 Leadership Aurora class. Leadership Aurora provides the opportunity for participants to broaden their knowledge of the community while enhancing their leadership skills.

The program begins each year in mid-September with a 2-day class retreat, followed by eight monthly sessions from October to May on the third Thursday of each month. A celebration luncheon is held in early June. Tuition for the program is $950 and includes all program costs and materials, including room and meals at the retreat. Partial tuition assistance is available, and awarded based on need and class composition. Applicants are required to participate in a personal interview with the selection committee.

For an application or more information, contact Kimberly Curtis at the Aurora Chamber of Commerce at 303-344-1500, or e-mail kimberly.curtis@aurorachamber.org. You may also visit our website at www.aurorachamber.org to complete or download an application.

REMINDER

Please remember to add The Chamber (stephanie.mcdonnell@aurorachamber.org and naomi.colwell@aurorachamber.org) to your address book to continue receiving our updates in your e-mailbox!

Asian Film Festival back in Aurora with film, food and art

The Tenth Aurora Asian Film Festival is slated for May 31 – June 3. Produced by the Aurora Asian/Pacific Community Partnership and the film festival professionals at the Denver Film Society, in collaboration with the City of Aurora, this event is, according to event organizers, sure to engage, enlighten, educate and entertain.

"This award-winning festival has proven to entice the filmgoer to a vivid cultural experience!" organizers said. The Opening Night Gala will include a feature film at the Aurora Fox Arts Center, followed by an outdoor Asian culinary feast, as well as a culinary art extravaganza complete with competition, demos and showpieces, at nearby Fletcher Plaza.

In conjunction with the festival, the East End Arts District will host a Summer Art Walk both Friday evening and Saturday afternoon that will exhibit various Asian-themed art at local galleries—all within walking distance of the theatre. This year's festival feature artist, Mami Yamamoto-Finke, will exhibit contemporary Japanese sumi (ink paintings) in the Fox gallery.

The Closing Night film will be followed by the popular "Wrap Party" at two local galleries -- The Other Side Arts (TOSA) and Downtown Aurora Visual Arts (DAVA). TOSA is currently making a call for artists, and DAVA is collaborating with the Asian Art Coordinating Council on a photographic exhibit from Hunan, Colorado's Chinese sister province, called Magic Mountains, which captures the remote mountainous beauty of the Zhangjiajie region.

The Festival offers a cinematic journey to Asia and the Pacific Islands, allowing for the filmmakers' perspectives on the rich and diverse cultures of Asian/Pacific Islander and Asian Pacific American peoples. Screenings will include feature films and documentaries.

Updates will go up as the film schedule takes shape - - so visit often at www.auroraasian.org or call (303) 326-8695.

Gov. Ritter completes 27-member panel on transportation

Governor Bill Ritter last month named 27 members to a transportation panel that will study how to fix and build Colorado's roads in the face of swindling gas tax revenues.

The governor also presided over a statewide transportation summit last month that brought over 500 businessmen and women to the convention center for a daylong summit on our transportation challenges.

Mayor Ed Tauer, State Senator Stephanie Takis and Chamber board member Dale Mingilton with FirstBank Holding Co. are the three members representing the eastern metro area.

The Medical Center of Aurora and Centennial Medical Plaza

John G. Hill will take over this month as the new president and CEO of TMCA. Mr. Hill takes over the position that Sylvia Young held in her 22 years of distinguished service to the community and the hospital. Mr. Hill moved to Colorado from Dallas, Texas where he was chief operating officer of the 704-bed Medical City Dallas Hospital. Prior to that position, he served as executive administrator for a physician surgical group in northern Arizona for eight years.

The 346-bed Medical Center of Aurora is one of seven HCA HealthONE hospitals in the metro area. The hospital was named the Best Hospital to Work for in Colorado and an HCA Cardiovascular Center of Excellence.

FirstBank finds a new market in Phoenix

In mid-July, the second-largest bank in Colorado will open a branch in the Phoenix metro area. The bank hopes to open three or four Phoenix-area branches in 2007 and another four in 2008. In addition to its 115 locations in Colorado, FirstBank has three locations in California. FirstBank's president and CEO John Ikard said, "We looked at Salt Lake City, Las Vegas, Albuquerque, but we decided Phoenix was probably the best market for us."

Member News

Raytheon bids on space ops contract

Raytheon Co. in Aurora will pursue a satellite control network operations and maintenance contract administered by Air Force Space command at Schriever Air Force Base in Colorado Springs, the company announced last month.

The Network and Space Operations and Maintenance contract, currently held by Harris Corporation, is up for bid and could be worth close to $500 million. More than 20 people at Raytheon's Aurora facility have worked to prepare the proposal to be submitted. The seven-year contract, which is expected to be awarded in November or December, is for a program that operates and maintains the Air Force Satellite Control Network.

Colorado Colfax Marathon date set

Put down your Blackberry, lock up the boardroom and grab your running shoes!

The Post-News Colorado Colfax Marathon is back for the second-consecutive year! The marathon is far more than just a sporting event that brings business to our communities. It symbolizes a new spirit of regional cooperation as we seek to enhance a critical residential, transportation and commercial corridor.

This year, the Colorado Colfax Marathon is launching its first-ever corporate Relay Challenge, taking place May 20, 2007. If you believe you and your co-workers have the fastest feet on the street, then warm your competition and sign up today—be the first company in the metro area to show off the inaugural Colorado Colfax Marathon Corporate Relay cup!

UCDHSC economic contributions touted

University of Colorado at Denver Health Sciences Center

has already begun to have a significant impact on the Eastern Metro area. According to the University, faculty and staff including the affiliated University Physicians, Inc. have grown to nearly 9,100 employees over the past year.

Institutional purchases of goods and services, research subcontracts to Colorado firms, and consumer spending by faculty, staff and students indirectly supported as many as 10,624 jobs elsewhere in Colorado.

Operations and associated student spending supported total personal income of nearly $973 million in Colorado in fiscal year 2005. More than $580 million of the total represented the direct payroll of faculty and staff employed by UCDHSC. As a result of the concentration of direct jobs in health care and higher education, the average income for all jobs supported by UCDHSC exceeded $45,000 in fiscal year 2005.

UCDHSC supports new venture startups, small business expansion and Colorado based biotechnology and biomedical research and commercialization. It also offers programs and service to promote global competitiveness of Colorado firms.

Arc of Colorado names new executive director

Randy Patrick, president of The Arc of Colorado Board of Directors announced recently that they had selected Marijo Rymer to serve as the organization's new Executive Director. Rymer is expected to take the reins of the organization on May 14. Rymer will officially join The Arc of Colorado on May 14, 2007.

"The Board is excited to welcome Ms. Rymer as our new executive director," said Patrick. "She brings great experience, knowledge, and accomplishment in the nonprofit and corporate sectors, as well as a strong commitment to advocating for people with developmental disabilities and their families."

Aurora-based bank merges, still Commerce Bank

Aurora-based Commerce Bank announced April 3 that it had signed a definitive agreement to merge with a Missouri-based bank holding company. When the merger is completed later this year, Commerce Bank will gain new services, increased lending capacity, and, according to the bank president Jim Lewien, a decidedly robust new future. Jim Lewien will continue as the president and CEO of the Colorado bank, the position he has held since 1979. The other members of the bank's senior management team will remain, as well. He said, "We will have some changes, but what won't change are our people, our focus on service, and our strong ties to the community." He said, "Teaming up with an organization like Commerce that understands the importance of community and relationships, and a bank that has some of the best products and services in the industry, represents a good opportunity for us to offer even more to our customers."

UCDHSC supports new venture startups, small business expansion and Colorado based biotechnology and biomedical research and commercialization. It also offers programs and service to promote global competitiveness of Colorado firms.

Buckley Clinic moves to new location

The Buckley Clinic moves to fourth floor of the Aurora North medical building at 830 Potomac Circle March 19. With the lease at the current clinic terminating at the end of March, 460th Medical Group officials said the move from the Anshutz Outpatient Pavilion has been "in the works" for months to ensure Team Buckley a seamless transition.

"Active duty personnel and their family members will still receive the same quality care as before," said Senior Master Sgt.

Loretta Bush, the 460th MDG Superintendent, Administrative Services. "The only major change customers will see is the new location and consolidation of services."

One change people will see is the ability to fill new prescriptions in the Pharmacy located within the new clinic. Refills will still be filled at the satellite pharmacy located at 541 Norfolk St., Aurora. Norfolk Street is located off 6th Avenue between Laredo and Airport Road. Along with the Pharmacy, the new clinic will include Family Practice, Life Skills, Immunizations, Flight Medicine, Laboratory Services, Optometry, Administrative Services and command functions, and a Public Health representative. The TRICARE Service Center is also located on the first floor of the building.

More caffeine, entertainment at Java Fest

Kick back with a cup o' joe, groove to some live music by local bands and root for the runners in the Post-News Colorado Colfax Marathon at Java Fest, an official marathon "Motivation Station" and the metro area's only festival dedicated to the pursuit of java nirvana.

The festival at Fletcher Plaza on East Colfax Avenue in the East End Arts District will kick off at 6 a.m. May 20 in tandem with the Post-News Colorado Colfax Marathon. Get to Java Fest before 6:30 a.m., grab a free coffee sample, wake up to the funky sounds of Bop Skizzum, and help cheer on the participants in the second-annual marathon as they pass through Aurora.

Following the end of Bop Skizzum's set at 8 a.m., the fourth-annual Java Fest will continue until 1 p.m. with more live music from Denver bands déjà vu (8 to 9:15 a.m.), Wendy Woo (10:45 to 11:45 a.m.) and Xiren (9:30 to 10:30 a.m. and noon to 1 p.m.).

Throughout the day, sample a world of coffee flavors from local vendors; discover the rich tradition of an Ethiopian Coffee Ceremony; shop in the market; relax with a chair massage; get a psychic reading; have your handwriting analyzed; or test your mental and physical stamina with life-size chess, a giant crossword puzzle, Bocce Ball and croquet.

Admission, activities and coffee samples are all free. The festival will take place at Fletcher Plaza, 9898 E. Colfax Ave., the outdoor urban square adjacent to the Martin Luther King, Jr. Library/Municipal Services Center, between Havana and Yosemite streets. For more information, call 303-326-8FUN or visit www.auroragov.org/java.

East End Arts District summer art walk to coincide with Aurora Asian Film Festival

A thread of Asian art will weave its way through the galleries, working studios and arts-related venues of the East End Arts District during the 2007 Summer Art Walk happening in conjunction with the 10th annual Aurora Asian Film Festival.

The art walk, scheduled from 6 to 10 p.m. June 1 and noon to 6 p.m. June 2, will feature gallery open houses exhibiting pottery, painting, jewelry, sculpture, performing and culinary arts, with some artists available on site.

In addition, Fletcher Plaza at 9898 E. Colfax Ave., the outdoor urban plaza adjacent to the Martin Luther King, Jr. Library/Municipal Services Center, will feature live acoustic music by Robert Michael from 5 to 6 p.m. June 1.

The Aurora Asian Film Festival

runs from May 31 to June 3 at The Aurora Fox, featuring nine feature films and documentaries. Two films will be screened during the Art Walk on June 1, and one outdoor film will show on the evening of June 2 at Fletcher Plaza, along with three indoor films at The Aurora Fox on June 2.

The East End Arts District, a 16-block area, is located along the historic commercial corridor from Clinton to Geneva streets on East Colfax Avenue. Free pedi-cabs will be available on June 1 only for those who cannot or do not wish to walk among the sites.

An information booth will be available on both June 1 and 2 at Fletcher Plaza. To find out more or obtain a map of the art walk route, call 720-203-3575 or visit www.auroragov.org/artwalk.

The Aurora Asian Film Festival is produced by the Aurora Asian/Pacific Community Partnership and the Denver Film Society, in conjunction with the City of Aurora. For more information, call 303-326-8695 or visit www.auroraasian.org.

The East End Arts District 2007 Summer Art Walk is sponsored by the Community College of Aurora and the City of Aurora's Art in Public Places program.

Hearts Across the Miles troop support efforts grow

Help from Mesa Systems, Inc. has allowed a local non-profit that support military members in Iraq and Afghanistan to grow. According to Theresa Webster, president of Hearts Across the Miles, the local moving and storage company made both storage and packing space available giving the organization which collects and ships personal hygiene items, books, games, DVDs, snacks, AT&T calling cards and other useful items to troops serving in remote areas overseas.

"Mesa has been wonderful to us," said Webster, "They not only have provided us essential space but many of their employees have also joined as volunteers." Webster said Mesa employees have assisted with weekly deliveries, inventories and packing. Lissa Hynes Baird and Carol Parks (pictured above) said they were very proud to be able to do their part to support Hearts. "This is an extremely worthwhile cause and Hearts gives us an opportunity to give back to those who sacrifice so much for all of us," they proclaimed.

Those interested in contributing time, funds or materials to Hearts Across the Miles can contact Theresa or Brian Webster, co-founders of the organization, at 720-222-0448.

Freedom Memorial Ride brings bikers to Aurora site

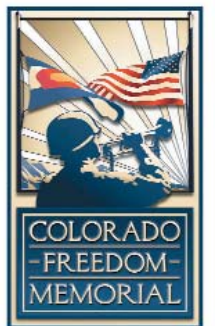

More than 3,000 motorcyclists are expected to descend on the future site of the Colorado Freedom Memorial at Airport Boulevard ad Alameda Avenue May 19. The bikers will be riding from throughout the Denver-Aurora metro area to show support and raise money for the memorial in a rally called the Freedom Memorial Ride 2007. The ride will also honor the more than 6,000 veterans from the State of Colorado who have been killed in action fighting for their country according to ride organizer Rick Crandall.

The Armed Forces Day event will kick off at 10 a.m. from sites throughout the metro area including Southlands. Riders will then head for the Aurora site near Buckley AFB where festivities to honor veterans will begin with a presentation of the colors by the Fort Carson Mounted Color Guard. The all day event will feature several bands including the Railbenders, Kory Brunson Band, Sharla Jackson Band and Angie Stevens. The public is invited to join the riders at the site where refreshments will be available throughout the day.

The Freedom Memorial Ride is a benefit for the construction of the Colorado Freedom Memorial with 100 percent of the registration fees going towards the CFM Construction Fund.

Arapahoe County Fair Seeks Volunteers

Arapahoe County is celebrating its second year in their new fairgrounds on July 18-22 with an even bigger lineup of events. But they need help.

According to Val Purser, Volunteer Coordinator for the county, they fully expect to have a much larger event this year. "We'll have a carnival double the size of last year, tons of education opportunities, quality exhibits, products, competitions and spectacular entertainment," she said, "but to make all this work, we need volunteers."

Purser said volunteers would be working in Admissions, entertainment and educational booths, and serving as Ambassadors and event coordinators. Volunteers will work three hour shift and can get involved in: Farmer for a Day; Milk Maker; Grocery Game; Sheep Coloring Station; Spudtacular; Toddler Driving School; Stick Horse Races; Watermelon Seed Spitting Contest; Watermelon eating contest; Dress your Potato; Information Booth; and County Store. Purser also said she had posters she would be happy to share.

"As a volunteer, you get free admission to the Fair and snacks on the days you work the Fair," Purser said.

If you would like more information about volunteer opportunities call Purser at 303-738-7938 or send her an email at vpurser@co.arapahoe.co.us. For additional information about the 2007 Arapahoe County Fair to the their web site at www.arapahoecountyfair.com.
