Business Health Forum to take on tough issues

One of the thorniest issues facing businesses will be on the table at a special event Oct. 4. The Chamber, in association with the Colorado Association of Commerce and Industry (CACI - the State Chamber) and The Medical Center of Aurora. will present a Health Forum Breakfast featuring Ralph Pollack and Amy Fletcher from CACI's Business Health Forum. "There has never been a more important time for the business community to engage in discussion about rising cost of health care than right now," said Chamber President Kevin Hougen. "Between the Governor's Blue Ribbon Commission for Healthcare Reform and some of the preliminary work being done by legislators we expect to see a lot of recommendations going to the State Legislature in January." The Forum will be hosted by the Community College of Aurora on their campus at 1600 E. CenterTech Parkway in the Rotunda Room. Breakfast will be courtesy of Outback

Hougen said Pollack and Fletcher. who have been traveling the State with their message, will outline five reform proposals that are expected to be presented to the State Legislature this fall. "All our members need to know about efforts to reform Colorado's health care system," Hougen explained. "It is important to understand how much healthcare plans could cost taxpavers and how each of us must get involved in the discussion

The Forum should serve as a conduit to increase business leaders' participation in any reform debate, as Medicaid, the uninsured and quality. The Oct. 4 breakfast will run from 7:30 - 9 a.m. and is part of a series of issue forums conducted by The Chamber's Government Affairs & Education Committee headed by Jim Suss and Bob LeGare. The breakfast is free but space is limited and an RSVP is required. To make your reservations, call Trisha at 303-344-1500 no later

Small Business Showcase set for October

The annual Front Range Small Business Showcase has changed venues this year, but still offers Chamber members a great opportunity to network with their government counterparts.

This year the "Frisbee" as it is called by insiders, will be at the Radisson Hotel SE at Parker and I-225 on Oct. 10. Joining The Chamber in arranging the event will be the local General Services Administration (GSA) and the specialists in contracting from Buckley Air Force Base. "If you want to do business with the many government organizations in the Metro area, this is the place to be," said Naomi Colwell who organizes the event for The Chamber. "We've tightened up the schedule this year so you can get in, do a seminar or two, have some lunch and make some contacts quickly and efficiently - shorter timeframe, more exposure!"

The schedule has those with booths setting up between 7-10 a.m. with seminars beginning at 8 a.m. Doors open for the showcase at 10 a.m. and what is being billed as the "Best Networking Lunch" begins at 11:30 a.m.

Seminars covering a wide range of topics will help businessmen and women become familiar with the needs of various government agencies and how they can go about being part of their contact group. Seminars, as well as entrance to the Showcase and lunch are $20. Booths that include pipe and drape, signage, a table and chairs and two boxed lunches range from $350-

On October 4th at the Community College of Aurora, Outback Restaurant and The Medical Center of Aurora will be hosting one of the most important free breakfasts of the year. This must attend breakfast at 7:30 am will outline the five reform proposals that will be presented to the State Legislature this fall. The Business Health Forum with Ralph Pollack and Amy Fletcher will speak about the efforts to reform Colorado's health care system, how much the health care plans could cost taxpayers, and how you can get involved in the discussion. Please RSVP to the Chamber office at 303-344-1500, we have limited seating.

Chair's Letter

As health insurance premiums continue to soar, there has never been a more important time for the business community to engage in this difficult discussion.

Networking:

The old saying "It's not what you know, it's who you know" is not entirely true, but it's not entirely false either. Making new contacts, locating resources and finding new clients are all important aspects of doing business. That's why networking is essential to the growth and success of every organization. I have been a member of the Chamber for over ten years and it works.

Some business professionals dislike networking. Others simply don't understand or appreciate its importance. If you think of networking as rubbing elbows at dreary workshops or forcing idle chatter at cocktail parties to get a lead, you're wrong. Networking can be enjoyable. It's also a sure-fire way to keep your hand on the pulse of the market, while uncovering business contacts that can get you in front of the right person at the right time.

There are three main components to networking: join, participate and explore.

JOIN any type of special interest group. How about getting more involved with the Chamber, a leads group, ambassadors, one of fifteen committees the Chamber has to offer, member orientation, the Leadership alumni? Don't be afraid to call or write other members and introduce yourself. The number of warm responses will surprise you.

Piling it higher — Aurora Public Schools Superintendent John Barry smiles approvingly as Chamber President Kevin Hougen adds a shovel full of dirt to the pile created at the groundbreaking for APS' newest school, the K-8 Quest Academy. To be located near East 1st Ave. and Airport Blvd. the new magnet school will be home to the Aurora Quest and Summit Academy gifted and talented programs that are now housed at other APS schools. The school will cater to the nearly 300 students already enrolled in these programs, plus another 300 students accepted through open enrollment

The Chamber's Mission

The mission of the Aurora Chamber of Commerce is to serve as a voice for the business community, acting as an advocate for its members on issues that affect their growth and long-term economic vitality.

A job well done— Arapahoe County Commissioners, Elected Officials and Department Directors relax after marking the beginning of construction of the new Eastern Service Center in Bennett. From left: Treasurer Doug Milliken, Public Works and Development Director Dave Schmit, Commissioners Pat Noonan and Frank Weddig, Clerk and Recorder Nancy Doty, Facilities and Fleet Management Director Bob Patterson, Engineering Division Manager Jim Pankonin and Commissioner Rod Bockenfeld. Plans call for a 16,000 sq. ft. center to replace one built in 1938 in Byers. It will provide much needed additional space to store heavy equipment and house some 20 employees who service the eastern reaches of Arapahoe County.

DON'T FORGET: "Every employee of a Chamber member is a member of The Chamber"

City offers online sales and use tax return processing

The City of Aurora now offers businesses the ability to file sales and use tax returns and payment via the Internet, eliminating the standard paper return sent through the mail.

Aurora's new online tax processing system is operated via a secure website and allows businesses to correspond directly with city staff and update such things as contact information. Businesses have the option of paying via a checking account debit transaction, or by filing their return online and then mailing a check to the city. As confirmation of the transaction, the city sends the business an email with an attached copy of their return Businesses interested in utilizing the new online sales and tax return processing system should call 303-739-7800.
