THE CHAMBER Impact

JAN/FEB 2025

JAN/FEB 2025

At their November 18, 2024, meeting Aurora City Council voted to keep a promise made to businesses that they would repeal the occupational privilege tax, which taxes $4 for each employee. The monthly tax was split between employer and employee.

Businesses are required to continue to collect the tax until the repeal effective date of January 1, 2025. The December 2024 and fourth quarter 2024 returns will be the last returns filed that include the tax and are due January 31, 2025.

The city will continue to accept amended returns, returns for any periods prior to January 2025, and refund claims. A copy of the signed ordinance can be found at www.auroragov.org/tax. For questions, contact the City's Taxpayer Services at 303-739-7800 extension 2 or tax@auroragov.org.

All Chamber member companies can benefit by 'spreading the wealth' of the membership with employees.

As an example, if the owner or president of the company doesn't have time to attend a committee meeting that could offer significant information and connections, someone else from that company should attend and can share the information, as well as expand their knowledge – adding to their value as an employee.

Another example is having employees engage in The Chamber's Leadership Aurora and Emerging Leaders programs. These professional development programs are a smart investment in employee development - and when a company invests in their employees, those employees feel valued, increasing their loyalty to the company.

Expand the benefits of your membership by collectively taking advantage of all The Chamber has to offer! ■

President's Letter

Happy New Year!

Naomi Colwell
President & CEO

As we usher in 2025, we are filled with excitement and anticipation for the opportunities that lie ahead. This year promises to be one of growth, collaboration, and continued success, and we're thrilled to kick it off by introducing some fresh faces to our leadership teams.

A Warm Welcome to Our New Committee Chairs

We are proud to announce the new Chairs for: Ambassador Team - Rob Mathis with Allstate Insurance; Women in Business - Pam Martinez with Troy Williams, Homes for Heroes; and Young Professionals - Katie Spencer with Katie Creative. Their passion, vision, and commitment to The Chamber and to our community will help guide these committees to new heights in the coming year.

What's Next?

Looking forward, we anticipate many exciting and engaging meetings, events, programs, and initiatives, led by the staff, board, and committee chairs. All these individuals offer their expertise and strong passion for fostering a vibrant, inclusive community. We encourage you to engage, whether through attending events, volunteering, or sharing your ideas. Together, we can make 2025 a year of success and growth for all our members.

Thank you for being a part of our incredible community. We are looking forward to all that we will accomplish together this year!

An Inside Look

ARTS + BUSINESS CONNECTION

Convergence of Art and Hospitality

Tuesday, November 5, 2024

Forty Chamber members showed up on Election Day (November 5) at The Benson Hotel and Faculty Club on the Anschutz Medical Campus to learn about – and see – the original artwork and design elements integrated into the hotel, with the theme of “Spirit of the West.”

Ana Valles (left), Fitzsimons Credit Union, and ABC Chair; and Heidi Laursen, director of sales and marketing for The Benson Hotel and Faculty Club.

Heidi Laursen, director of sales and marketing for the hotel, began the afternoon event talking about how the concept of including artwork throughout the hotel creates a unique and comfortable atmosphere. Partnered with creative design elements, the boutique hotel is welcoming and inspiring, as well as functional for gatherings, meetings, and events. The hotel is truly the convergency of art and hospitality. To see the artwork, go to <https://thebensonhotel.com/about/art>.

Holiday Gathering – Creatively Running!

Tuesday, December 10, 2024

If you weren't there, you might be curious as to why a holiday gathering of Arts + Business Connection would be titled “Creatively Running.”

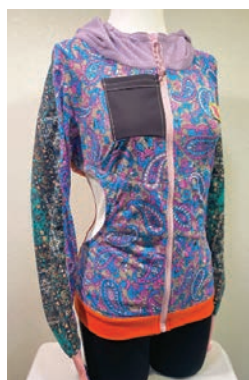

Because paired with the annual ABC holiday festivities, Sarah Vander Neut presented about her woman-owned, Aurora-based company, Vander Jacket, which designs eco-friendly, running apparel for women and men, supported by the adaptive and creative principles that guide artists.

Sarah Vander Neut

Vander Neut's signature Soul Runner

An original Vander Jacket, made in Colorado.

Vander Neut's line of running wear began as an experiment to make a better maternity running jacket when she was pregnant with her first daughter. When she sold those pieces and some more that she had made at a flea market, her business began.

She inspired attendees with her stories of creativity and resourcefulness as well as some of the unexpected joys she discovered along the way, like using the illustration she drew and gave to her four-year-old daughter to fill in with watercolors as her signature Soul Runner.

“She was awesome and very engaging, and I loved her questions after the presentation,” said Phil Gibson with Keller Williams. “I will definitely be going out on her website to check things out.”

Vander Neut loves the diversity of Aurora and is proud to say that her Vander Jacket products are original designs, made in Colorado.

The event was held at the Aurora History Museum where the current display (through Feb. 16, 2025) is printed copies of “Aurora Speaks”: poetry and prose offering a rich tapestry of the community stories brought to life.

TRANSPORTATION

City of Centennial Transportation and Collaboration

Wednesday, November 6, 2024

By Tim Harris, Transportation vice-chair, Horrocks Engineers

By Tim Harris, Transportation vice-chair, Horrocks Engineers

By Tim Harris, Transportation vice-chair, Horrocks Engineers

City of Centennial Public Works Program Manager Ant DeVita and Public Works Engineering Manager Anna Leonard braved the first storm of the season to inform Chamber members about current issues, programs, and innovative collaborations in Centennial.

DeVita gave an overview of the Transportation Master Plan, which established seven goals of projects through 2040 and is the source of the annual Capital Improvement Program.

He highlighted 2024 safety-related construction projects including Holly Trail north of Arapahoe Rd, Alton Way sidewalks and lighting, a traffic signal at Arapahoe Rd & Clarkson St, and a pedestrian beacon on Holly St south of Arapahoe Rd. Major construction projects include Orchard Rd widening west of University Blvd, replacement of the Arapahoe Rd bridge just east of University Blvd, and widening of County Line Rd between Broadway and University Blvd. Improvements are being designed for Arapahoe Rd side path infill, Lone Tree Creek Trail underpass at Arapahoe Rd, Colorado Blvd multimodal improvements, and the intersection of Havana St and Easter Ave.

Leonard described the department's work with the City's Arts and Cultural Foundation.

Examples of the City of Centennial's Department of Public Works collaborations with the City's Arts and Cultural Foundation.

The recently completed Arapahoe Rd bridge over Big Dry Creek features stunning Colorado scenes viewable from the trail and the city had added a new "branding" monument on Yosemite St just south of Arapahoe Rd. Another successful program is the "wrapping of traffic signal cabinets" throughout the city, transforming the drab cabinets with scenes of nature and bright graphics.

Getting Around Aurora

Wednesday, December 11, 2024

By Tim Harris, Transportation vice-chair, Horrocks Engineers

A group of representatives from the City of Aurora enlightened the Committee about organizational changes in the Public Works Department, major active or upcoming construction or roadway maintenance projects, and ongoing planning efforts.

Deputy Director of Project Delivery Cindy Colip explained the creation of a Development Services Department, meant to improve customer service. Her position now covers new facilities as well as transportation improvements.

The City completed the second year of its 5-year street Rehabilitation Plan, a portion of the Build Up Aurora Plan. Major construction projects include repairing damage from the 2023 flood at 56th Ave and Hudson Road; a new I-70/Picadilly Road interchange; widening Gun Club Road from Quincy to Aurora Parkway; safety improvements to Montview Blvd through the Anschutz campus; replacing the bridges on Peoria over Sand Creek and on Alameda over I-225; and a pedestrian bridge at the 9-Mile RTD station on Parker Road.

Traffic Manager Carlie Campuzano and Principal Transportation Planner Huiliang

Connecting People. Connecting Places.

CONNECTING AURORA

OUR MULTIMODAL TRANSPORTATION MASTER PLAN

Liu gave an update on the Connecting Aurora planning study they are leading as co-project managers. It is the first citywide multimodal transportation master plan, looking holistically at transportation needs throughout Aurora. Final product is anticipated in Fall 2025.

Senior Transportation Planner Tom Worker-Braddock discussed extension of the Colfax Avenue BRT to E-470; micro transit services for senior residents in neighborhoods near I-225 and for workers at the Majestic Commerce Center in northeast Aurora.

GOVERNMENT AFFAIRS, EDUCATION, AND ENERGY

November 5 Election Recap

November 19, 2024

WOMEN IN BUSINESS

Recognizing Breast Cancer's Impact on Mental Health

Wednesday, October 16, 2024

Attendees at the October Women in Business event were inspired by guest speaker Diane M Simard, who shared her powerful journey through cancer in her presentation "Unfiltered Reflections on Life After Breast Cancer." Simard is a writer, executive advisor, and a passionate advocate of bringing more mental health education and resources to those impacted by cancer. Through this advocacy, she founded the Center for Oncology Psychology Excellence at the University of Denver's Graduate School of Professional Psychology. Her candid insights encouraged and empowered everyone to be responsible for monitoring their health – and for women who might be procrastinating, to schedule a mammogram right away.

Special thanks to Cops Fighting Cancer founder Jim Seneca, for sponsoring lunch, and to Ramona Davis founder of De La Shey Lingerie, who discussed her boutique's specialty in mastectomy fittings, personalized bra fittings, and post-surgical recovery support lingerie.

Diane Simard speaks about her life after breast cancer, and the need for mental health education and resources for those impacted by cancer.

Operation Holiday Cheer

Wednesday, November 20, 2024

The November WIB gathering centered around creating handwritten messages of support to send to ISA Bahrain Navy Base and other deployed service members from Buckley Space Force Base. Attendees brought boxes of holiday cards and provided donations to purchase some gifts to be included in the packages sent.

It was a full house at the November "Operation Holiday Cheer" WIB gathering that generated more than 300 cards and gifts for service members at ISA Bahrain Navy Base.

Command Master Chief of Security Forces in Bahrain Gene Colwell is Chamber President and CEO Naomi Colwell's husband. His unit has 68 service personnel, and extra cards and gift items were distributed to other members on the base. The festive and heartfelt gathering at The Chamber office generated more than 300 packages and cards. Chamber President Naomi Colwell talked about the climate of the base in Bahrain, and what kind of activities the service personnel engaged in while not working.

Tanya and Tony Debelak, owners and head instructors of Gracie Jiu-Jitsu Aurora sponsored the event. Tony is a combat veteran who served in the US Army and continues to serve as a government civilian officer with the USSF at Buckley. Both Tanya and Tony serve the community with self-defense programs for women, children, and adults at two Aurora locations.

Mental Health Conversations that Matter

December's BRMAC meeting brought critical insights into military and veteran mental health, with a panel featuring:

- Dr. Katy Barrs from the University of Denver's Sturm Center
- Dr. John McKelvie from the VA Eastern Colorado Health Care System
- Maj Nicole Spesard Langfield of the 460th Medical Group

The Military and Veteran Mental Health Panel at the December BRMAC, with Chamber COO Rene Simard serving as moderator.

The discussion was enlightening and impactful, demonstrating a commitment to addressing pressing mental health challenges. Explore more resources at the Sturm Center and VA ECHCS Mental Health.

The quarter concluded with a celebratory ribbon-cutting on December 10, for the VA's ECHCS Ascend PTSD Residential Rehabilitation Treatment Program, marking years of effort to create a modern, recovery-oriented space for veterans. The new facility embodies compassion, evidence-based care, and hope for those on their journey to recovery.

The achievements of BRMAC in the last quarter of 2024 underscores the importance of collaboration and innovation in supporting our military, veteran, and defense communities. Whether you are inspired by the discussions or eager to get involved, we would love to hear from you! Reach out to Director of Military Affairs Rob Devall, to learn how you can contribute. ■
