Celebrating 40th Anniversary Leadership AURORA 80s Style!

So Much Fun on a Tuesday Night!

250 of the 1,278 Leadership Aurora alumni showed up in style on October 8 at the Arapahoe County Fairgrounds for the 40th anniversary of the program, which graduated its first class in 1985. That's 40 years of creating a network of informed leaders and encouraging greater involvement in the community!

With a theme of the wild 80s, there were tons of bright colors and so many leg warmers. There were also lots of hugs, conversation, laughing, and dancing. And with barbeque from Legends of Aurora and beer from Launch Pad Brewery, all attendees were well fed and well hydrated.

If you were there, you felt it – the electricity and camaraderie of shared experiences! If you missed it, and are a graduate of the Leadership Aurora program, you can see your class yearbook at <https://www.aurorachamber.org/leadership-aurora/la-yearbook-archive/>. Then reconnect and stay connected with your class and the program.

Past Board Chairs Alan Antolak with Adolfsen & Peterson Construction (Class of 2009) and Jennifer Evans with Advantage Security (Class of 2010)

LA Director Rene Simard, 40th Anniversary Committee Chair Michael Schaefer (Class of 20-GR18), and current LA Board Chair John Wolfkill (Class of 2017)

Members of the current class of 2025

Epic thanks to the totally tubular planning committee: Alan Antolak with Adolfsen & Peterson Construction (Class of 2009); Natalie Artibee, Nelnet (Class of 2017); Jennifer Evans, Advantage Security (Class of 2010); Priscilla Sandoval, Home Mortgage Advisors (Class of 2020); Michael Schaefer, Assembly Networks (Chair, Class of 2018); Yvonne Valdez, Citywide Banks (Class of 2018); John Wolfkill, Community College of Aurora (CCA) Foundation (Class of 2017); and Rene Simard, Leadership Aurora program director, and Mitzi Schindler, program assistant director (Class of 2002). And a shoutout to neato graphic designer Mario Waller with Six & Six, Inc – for many years of wickedly wonderful yearbook design!

Stellar thanks also go to the very cool and generous sponsors: CCA and the CCA Foundation as the title sponsor; and Adolfsen & Peterson Construction, Advantage Security; City of Aurora, Citywide Banks, and Falck Rocky Mountain as event sponsors. ■

Chair's Letter

Your Chamber Community

Kristi Kleinholz
Chamber Board Chair

Community comes in many shapes, sizes, and colors. Community might be your local neighborhood, your place of employment, your social circles, your place of worship — or your Aurora Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber has been one of my communities for many years now, and as my Chamber community has grown and evolved, I'm frequently reminded that what you put into your Chamber membership is what you will get out of The Chamber. I have appreciated all I have experienced, and reflecting on this past year, The Chamber presented a lot of opportunities for the business community to participate in meaningful events. These included the Armed Forces Recognition Luncheon, The Women in Business Unsung Heroes Luncheon and the 40th Anniversary Celebration of the Leadership Aurora program. The Chamber also moved to a new office location and hosted a grand event in July!

The Aurora Chamber is thriving and offers a wealth of connections within the business and greater community — and I look forward to seeing you all at community and Chamber events. Don't forget about the Annual Holiday Party in December and then our Annual Awards Dinner in April.

Have a great fall and winter season!

ARTS + BUSINESS CONNECTION

Moving Aurora's Arts and Culture Forward

Tuesday, September 10, 2024

City of Aurora
Director of Library and Cultural Services Ginger
White Brunetti

In September, Arts + Business Connection heard from Ginger White Brunetti, who was selected as The City of Aurora's Director of Library and Cultural Services in February of 2024 – and hit the ground running!

"Aurora is a growing, diverse city that has so much to offer its residents and beyond! I'm thrilled to work alongside the passionate and committed Library and Cultural Services team to build community and foster connections," said White Brunetti, who served as the executive director of the City and County of Denver Arts and Venues Department before coming to Aurora.

She shared her '6-months in' observations about the department, which include that it is a passionate and dedicated team that does a lot with a little – and that the demand for services in the city is growing.

She shared the refreshed mission statement that The Library & Cultural Services Department fosters lifelong learning and cultural enrichment through literacy, creativity, arts, and history for the benefit of Aurora residents and beyond.

White Brunetti also touched on funding, and the fact that Aurora receives less SCFD funding than smaller cities. She cited reasons for this as lack of space for cultural arts education and performance programs - as one of the conditions of SCFD funding is based on paid admission.

Her strategic initiatives for Library and Cultural Services include organizational review and reclassifications; to consolidate boards and commissions; to improve cost recovery and generate revenue; and to implement a cultural plan that is congruent with Aurora's Strategic Plan. She will also be generating a capital planning and a master plan for the department.

Onstage at The Fox

Tuesday, October 8, 2024

Aurora Fox Arts Center's Executive Producer Richard Cowden (center, front) hosted Arts + Business Connection for an informative tour on Tuesday, October 8, 2024. Cowden shared interesting historical information about The Fox, including that the building is a modified World War II Quonset hut that was purchased from the U.S. military in 1946. In addition to the renovation of the marquee sign, there's new carpeting in the lobby and the 242-seat mainstage theatre will soon have new seats.

Cowden talked about the business aspect of The Fox, how they are striving to attract a broad audience with a variety of performances, and shared the upcoming season line up. In addition to the theatre company productions, The Fox host touring performances, community organizations, and the 72-seat corner black box "studio" is available for meetings and luncheons.

TRANSPORTATION

Highlighting Adams County

Wednesday, September 4, 2022

Transportation in Adams County Government, CO was the subject of the September 2024 Transportation meeting at The Chamber. Adams County Commissioner Lynn Baca attended and arranged for Adams County staff to provide both a "boots on the ground" perspective and a visionary look at the future of transportation in the County.

Greg Fischer, Maintenance District 2 manager, described their organization and scope of responsibilities, ranging from litter control and mowing to paving and snow removal. The three maintenance districts spend a majority of time and budget on snow maintenance activities, gravel road surfacing (2/3 of County system is classified as "rural"), and pavement maintenance. They also provide emergency operations during major weather events.

Michele Riccio, the County's Transportation and Mobility Planner described their focus on connecting people to the large variety of employment and destination centers. They work closely with the Colorado Department of Transportation and cities within the County to procure funding from a variety of sources to deliver improvements on high-priority corridors such as I-270, I-25 from US 36 to E-470, and US 85 and 120th Avenue. Riccio is currently developing a Safety Action Plan, doing a pilot project for micro-transit services within the County, and leading a bus stop amenity study.

Wednesday, October 2, 2024

The Chamber's Transportation Committee took a field trip to Centennial Airport/Arapahoe County Public Airport Authority and was treated to presentations from the Airport's Executive Director Mike Fronapfel and Director of Operations Jeremy Gunn, who provided an historical and future view of the airport which opened in 1968 – and is now the second busiest general aviation airport in the world.

Centennial Airport is home to 120 businesses, totaling over 10,000 jobs at flight schools, medical flight operations, and research or development companies - generating over $2 billion of revenue. The airport is continually active with sustainability and 'good neighbor' efforts such as unleaded fuel, noise monitoring, and multiple events to support local charities; and always pursuing development partnerships such as new hangars; a go-kart facility and hotel restoration; and pursuing the eventual construction of a new control tower.

Representatives from airport "residents" Flight for Life, Mayo Aviation, and United Rotorcraft gave insightful presentations about their organizations, and talked about the importance of being at Centennial Airport.

And about being the second busiest general aviation airport – check back next year!

Cherry Creek School District Bond Measures on November 2024 Ballot

Thursday, September 5, 2024

The September 5 Chamber Government Affairs meeting featured Cherry Creek Schools District Superintendent Chris Smith and CFO/CEO Scott Smith, who talked about the state of CCSD and the Bond Measure that will be on the November ballot.

The Mill package would provide additional safety and security; assist with recruiting, developing, and retaining high quality teachers; expand access to specialized training, internships, and apprenticeship opportunities; and increase mental health services. The Bond Measure would allow for the expansion of the Cherry Creek Innovation Campus, renovating the Prairie/Overland campus; upgrading athletic facilities; and help maintain playgrounds, roofs, plumbing, HVAC, etc. The GA committee voted to support the district's Mill Levy and Bond Measure.

BOK Financial Named 2024 Gallup Exceptional Workplace Award Winner

BOK Financial received the 2024 Gallup Exceptional Workplace Award (GEWA). This award recognizes just 60 companies globally as having the most engaged workplace cultures. Gallup found that BOK Financial continued to engage and develop its people in innovative ways, redefining what it means to be a great place to work.

"Your commitment to creating environments where employees are listened to, valued and positioned to use their strengths every day is what sets you apart. Thank you for setting a new global standard in what it means to be a thriving workplace," said Jon Clifton, Gallup CEO.

According to Gallup's research, only 33% of employees in the U.S. workforce are engaged, that is, committed to their work and connected to their workplace. However, 70% of employees at GEWA organizations are engaged. Engaged organizations significantly outperform their peers in important business outcomes, including customer ratings, profitability, productivity, turnover, safety incidents, shrinkage, absenteeism, quality, wellbeing and organizational citizenship.

"This award shows how dedicated our team is to building a culture where employees feel supported and valued," said Bill Sullivan, Colorado Market President and CEO. ■

Rep. Crow Joins Colorado Leaders to Host Third Future of Buckley Space Force Base Meeting

Congressman Jason Crow (Colorado's 6th Congressional District), former Army Ranger, joined Colorado leaders to host the third Future of Buckley Task Force meeting on October 8, 2024. The event brought together high-level defense community stakeholders and base leaders for an open discussion on the future of Buckley as well as ongoing efforts to support Buckley's mission and Colorado's military community. Topics included energy resilience and infrastructure projects on the base; 140th Wing recapitalization efforts; and improving quality of life for servicemembers and base personnel.

Congressman Crow was joined by Senator John Hickenlooper, Lieutenant Governor Dianne Primavera, Aurora City Manager Jason Batchelor, Buckley Space Force Base leadership, and Aurora Chamber President/CEO Naomi Colwell and Director of Military Affairs Rob Devall (who joined The Chamber October 2024 – see article, page 6).

"Supporting Buckley Space Force Base is a major priority of mine in Congress," said Congressman Crow. Buckley Space Force Base is a key economic driver for Colorado. The base employs 3,100 active-duty members, 4,000

National Guard personnel and Reservists, 2,400 civilians, and 2,500 contractors. It is estimated that Buckley contributes $1 billion annually to the local economy. ■

The CrowdStrike Update Incident: A Lesson for Small and Medium-sized Businesses

Recently, a significant event shook the world of cybersecurity when a software update from CrowdStrike, a leading US-based cybersecurity firm, unintentionally caused a major disruption to global computer systems. This incident is particularly relevant for small and medium-sized businesses (SMBs), highlighting critical lessons in cybersecurity preparedness.

Understanding the Incident

CrowdStrike's software operates deep within Windows. The update contained an empty file, triggering a bug that caused widespread crashes in Windows systems. Approximately 8.5 million computers worldwide were affected. Resolving the issue required physical intervention, posing significant challenges for IT teams managing large or remote networks.

Key Lessons for SMBs

1. Understanding Dependencies: SMBs often rely on third-party providers for cybersecurity. It's crucial to understand how these dependencies can impact business operations, especially when core software malfunctions.

2. Emergency Preparedness: The need for physical intervention in this case highlights the importance of a robust emergency response plan, including scenarios where remote management is not possible.
3. Software Update Policies: Testing software updates in a controlled environment before full deployment can mitigate risks. Having controlled update processes is essential to avoid widespread disruptions.

4. Vendor Communication: Clear communication with vendors regarding update protocols and potential risks is vital for anticipating issues and ensuring swift resolution.

Moving Forward

For SMBs, this incident underscores the balance between leveraging advanced cybersecurity tools and preparing for unexpected issues. Proactive risk assessments, careful planning, and strong security practices help businesses better navigate future challenges and efficiently recover from disruptions.

AmbassadorSpotlight

Deb Kirschbaum with Priority Properties, Inc., was born in Colorado, but grew up in Wyoming. When she was 10, she recalls wanting to run away and ride her bike to Denver. Later, after a couple years in college, she finally moved to Aurora and made it her permanent home as a Realtor.

Deb first learned about The Chamber when she was on the Board of Directors for the Aurora Association of Realtors. Her initial involvement in The Chamber spurred her to apply for The Leadership Aurora program, and she became a member of the Class of 2019. "Being a part of Leadership Aurora was a life-changing experience and I highly recommend it to anyone," says Deb.

After graduating from Leadership Aurora, Deb wanted to stay involved, and becoming a member of the Ambassador Team offered the continuation she was looking for. "I have found that talking about The Chamber is a great way to inspire a conversation with those who are looking to improve their business. Through the events and meetings I attend, I am able to be a resource."

Deb says she loves The Chamber for all the networking opportunities and finds great value in learning about and knowing what is happening in the community. She believes that the community aspect of her Chamber membership makes her a better Realtor; able to share useful information with clients.

"Real Estate is in by DNA," says Deb. "I have always enjoyed seeing a variety of architecture, and the functionality of homes – and I love helping people find solutions to their housing needs. I also pride myself on keeping good vendors to refer to friends/clients."

In addition to being a Realtor, and in an effort to give back to the community, Deb started Helpful Heart House (H3), a non-profit serving those on their journey to recovery or in need of secure housing. She calls this her "soul-fulfilling job," to be able to help change lives for the better. ■
