My Personal CES Favorite – Rokid AI & AR Glasses

By ECIA's Chief Analyst Dale Ford: Part 6 January 2026

Every year I have a favorite product at CES. (Of course, the massage chairs are always a hit with me after a long day of walking the floor!) This year, the Rokid AI & AR glasses were a standout highlight. After trying a pair and testing their functionality, I found them to be the best glasses in this category that I have experienced. The range of features includes - Teleprompter, AR Navigation, Real-time translation, Built-in AI, Audio transcription, Audio memo, Text translation, and Earbud functionality. It is hard to think of anything more you could want in this product! They are lightweight and stylish. Their crowdfunding source also provides an impressive endorsement, beyond whatever success they achieve at CES, as the #1 Crowdfunded AI & AR glasses, raising $5.2 million. I have seriously considered purchasing the Nuance Audio glasses, but I am reconsidering after trying the Rokid glasses. There are many other features that I will not try to describe in this review. But I do recommend exploring this exciting product!
