IRE Board: Our role and rules

OUR MISSION

The mission of Investigative Reporters and Editors is to foster excellence in investigative journalism, which is essential to a free society. We accomplish this by:

- Providing training, resources and a community of support to investigative journalists.
- Promoting high professional standards.
- Protecting the rights of investigative journalists.
- Ensuring the future of IRE.

OUR JOB

FIDUCIARY DUTY – As Board Members, we have a legal obligation to do our best to take care of IRE, to act in the best interests of the organization and to ensure it is following the law and its own governing documents. We are "fiduciaries," which means we are legally responsible for ensuring IRE's financial health. We should treat the organization's assets with the same care as we do our own assets.

GOVERNING – The Board has wide latitude to create policies for IRE, set expectations for the executive director and oversee them to ensure they are meeting the needs of members. However, we do not run the organization on a day-to-day basis, and we do not manage the staff. That is the job of the executive director.

ADVOCATING – We are part of IRE's public face. We strive to be good representatives of the organization, spread the word about its essential work and do whatever we can to support it. But as a member organization, we need to advocate just as strongly for the needs of our members and hold the organization accountable for those needs.

FUNDRAISING – As part of our role as ambassadors for IRE, we should always look out for anybody who might be willing to donate to the organization. We are also expected to contribute to the organization with a donation of any size. (It can be very small, but it's important that we all do it because some grant applications still ask applicants if all Board Members donate.)

OUR MEETINGS

The IRE Board meets twice in person annually – at the Board Retreat at the beginning of the Board year, and at the IRE Conference at the end of the year. It also meets virtually as needed. In 2024-25, the plan is to hold a total of five full Board Meetings: in person at the Retreat in August, virtually in late October, virtually in early February, virtually in April and in person at the IRE Conference in June.

The president leads these meetings, and our rules of order are laid out in the manual. Generally, you must be in attendance at the meeting to vote on any particular issue, and we need a quorum (a simple majority) in attendance to vote on any issue. The IRE secretary will compile the minutes, striving for transparency in not just the vote counts but also the content of the conversation. You'll be asked to review them for accuracy before they're shared with the public.

STAYING ORGANIZED

We store meeting agendas/minutes, committee reports and other important documents and reference material on the Board's Google Drive. Please ensure that you have access and peruse the materials included here, and that anything you add can be accessed by all of our Board Members. You can find lots of different background information and meeting minutes that go back years.

The Google Drive is also used to compile meeting agendas. While the president has the ultimate authority to set the agendas, the current president (Brian M. Rosenthal) has been using an open system in which all Board Members can add items to a working agenda if they wish. The deadline to submit items is typically two weeks before the Board Meeting; while policies require the final agenda and accompanying materials to be sent out to the full Board at least three days prior to a meeting, the current president has committed to doing it at least a full week in advance to ensure that everybody has time to read the materials and prepare for discussions.

The Board also has a Slack workspace and a Google Calendar that shows all IRE events, including training events as well as Board Meetings and committee meetings.

COMMITTEE SERVICE

Committees are the working groups that propel the board's work, and that's why we expect board members to join and often lead our committees. Most of our votes come in response to a recommendation from a committee that has put time and effort into researching an issue. While board members have the discretion to suggest issues for consideration at any time, it's always useful to first consider whether this issue has been, or should be, discussed in depth at the committee level.

The president appoints committee chairs, who then selects members in consultation with the president and executive director. Board members should serve on at least one committee. New board members are generally not expected to chair committees in their first year. Non-board members also serve on committees.

All committees should put notice of their meetings on the Board's Google Calendar and also keep minutes of their meetings that include at least the agenda, members present and details of all votes. Minutes should be filed in the committee folder on the board drive and shared by email with the board secretary (currently Kate Howard) and staff person in charge of posting minutes online (currently Lauren Grandestaff).

HOW TO USE OUR GOVERNING DOCUMENTS, POLICIES AND PROCEDURES

This manual strives to include everything that could be construed as a rule or policy for our organization, and it's updated annually by the board secretary. (If you think something isn't addressed within this document that should be, contact board secretary Kate Howard.)

The articles of incorporation are our foundation as an organization. They reflect the intentions of our founders and establish the terms of being a member of IRE and the rules for how we are governed. Revising this document requires a two-thirds vote of support from our membership; we propose changes rarely, and only after lots of public education and consulting legal counsel.

The code of bylaws (confusingly, also referred to as articles) are policies that build on and clarify what's laid out in the articles. Changes, additions or revocations to the bylaws require 30 days notice to the membership, and two-thirds of our board members need to vote in favor. The bylaws are our chance to elaborate and provide more explanation on rules set out in the articles, and the two documents should not conflict.

Policies and procedures are at the discretion of the board and can be created, amended or revoked with a simple majority vote of the Board at any time. The organization's code of conduct, the particulars of how we conduct board elections and our award policies all live here, so that we can respond quickly to changing conditions or needs.

(Amendment deleting this section adopted 3/5/22.)

Section 6.08 Quorum.

A majority of the whole Board of Directors shall be necessary to constitute a quorum thereof; and, unless otherwise affirmatively prescribed by the Act, Articles, Bylaws, or other law, a majority of any quorum shall be sufficient to authorize or approve any action by the Board.

Section 6.09 Attendance.

No director can run for re-election if he or she has not attended two-thirds (2/3) of the in-person and pre-scheduled telephone meetings of the board during his or her tenure.

Pre-scheduled telephone meetings are defined as those meetings scheduled with at least 60 days advance notice. Exceptions hereto can be made by the executive committee alone. (Amendment adopted 6/14/12.)

Section 6.10. Vacancies.

Vacancies on the Board of Directors shall occur upon the death, resignation, incapacitation or removal for stated cause by two-thirds vote of the board of any member of the Board of Directors, and the board may fill such vacancies with the next qualified highest vote recipients among nominees at the last previous election, to serve until the next meeting of the membership, which shall then elect a person to fill the balance of that unexpired term.

ARTICLE 7: Executive Committee

Section 7.01. Number, Qualification, and Term.

Beginning with the officers elected at the June 2006 meeting of the Board of Directors of the Corporation, the executive committee of the Board of directors shall consist of five Directors, including the president, vice-president, treasurer and secretary. The remaining member of the Executive Committee shall be a director elected by a majority vote of the Board. The president shall be chair of the Executive Committee. The members of the Executive Committee shall hold office until successors are elected. The immediate past president – to the extent possible – shall serve in an advisory role to the board. (Amendment adopted 2/13/81; a second amendment adopted 9/9/04, amended 4/19/24.)

Section 7.02. Vacancies.

Vacancies on the Executive Committee shall occur upon the death or other incapacity of any one of the five (5) Members; and shall be filled at the direction of the Board of Directors.

Section 7.03. Meetings.

Meetings of the Executive Committee shall be called and held in a manner prescribed by the Board of Directors, including with notice to all the Directors. (Amendment adding notice requirement adopted 6/1/22)

Section 7.04. Quorum.

A majority of the members of the Executive Committee shall be necessary to constitute a quorum thereof; but the Executive Committee, which is not supported by the affirmative votes of three (3) members, shall take no action.

Section 7.05. Powers.

The Executive Committee shall have and may exercise during the intervals between meetings of the Board of Directors all the powers vested in the Board of Directors, except those reserved by the Act, Articles, these Bylaws, or other law to the Members or Board of Directors of the Corporation, or any other powers the Board of Directors chooses to retain.

ARTICLE 8: Officers

Section 8.01. Officers.

The officers of the Corporation shall consist of a President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer and such other officers as may be deemed necessary by the Board of Directors. All officers shall be members. The President, Vice-President, Treasurer and Secretary shall be Directors of the Corporation. (Amendment adopted 9/9/04.)

Section 8.02 Vacancies.

Whenever any vacancies shall occur in any office by death, resignation increase in the number of offices of the Corporation, or otherwise, the same shall be filled by the Board of Directors, and the officer so elected shall hold office until his successor is chosen and qualified.

Section 8.03 The President.

The President shall preside at all meetings of the Members, and the Board of Directors, discharge all the duties which devolve upon a presiding officer, and perform such other duties as these bylaws provide or the Board of Directors may prescribe. The President, acting with the Secretary and Treasurer, shall have full authority, for and in behalf of the Corporation, to execute powers of attorney appointing other corporations, foundations, partnerships, or individuals the agent of the Corporation.

Section 8.04 The Vice-President.

The Vice-President shall perform all duties incumbent upon the President during the absence or disability of the President and shall perform such other duties as these Bylaws may require or the Board of Directors may prescribe.

Section 8.05. The Secretary.

The Secretary shall attend all meetings of the Members, the Board of Directors and the Executive Committee, and shall keep, or cause to be kept, in books provided for the purpose, true and complete minutes of the meetings or other proceedings and ensure that all minutes of all of those types of gatherings, including all executive sessions, are distributed to the full Board of Directors shortly thereafter. The Secretary may delegate their duty to keep such minutes to an Assistant Secretary or the Executive Director of the Corporation if there be such. The Secretary (acting through the Executive Director if there be such) shall attend to the giving and serving of all notices of the Corporation. (Amendment adopted 3/5/22.)

The Secretary shall perform such other duties as these Bylaws may require or the Board of Directors may prescribe, including the execution of the certificates set forth in Article 5.

Section 8.06. The Treasurer.

The Treasurer shall keep correct and complete records of account, showing accurately at all times the financial condition of the Corporation. The treasurer shall be the legal custodian of all moneys, notes, securities and other valuables which may from time to time come into possession of the Corporation. The treasurer shall immediately deposit all funds of the Corporation coming into their hands in some reliable bank or other depository to be designated by the Board of Directors, and shall keep such bank account in the name of the Corporation. The Treasurer may delegate their duty to keep such records of account and to perform such other duties to any employee of the Corporation designated by the Board of Directors by proper resolution. The Treasurer shall furnish at meetings of the Board of Directors, or whenever requested, a statement of the financial condition of the Corporation. (Language updated 8/14/22)

Section 8.07 Delegation of Authority.

In case of the absence of any officer of the Corporation, or for any other reason the Board may deem sufficient, the Board may delegate the powers or duties of such officer to the Executive Director or employee of the Corporation, for the time being, provided a majority in number of the entire Board of directors concurs therein.

ARTICLE 9

The power to make, alter, amend, supplement or repeal the bylaws of the corporation is vested in the Board of Directors, at a meeting properly called, convened and conducted for such purpose at which two-thirds in number of the directors votes in favor of such action. Proper notice of such a meeting shall include communications to members providing at least 30 days to submit comments in response to proposed changes. (Amendment adopted 9/9/04.)

ARTICLE 10: IRE Endowment Funds

(Approved by the Board of Directors August 14, 2022)

IRE has endowment funds that financially support the corporation's operations.

The "IRE Endowment Funds" are monitored by a finance committee that is chaired by the Treasurer and includes six other members of IRE, including one Director. That Director and two of the other members are nominated by the President; the others are nominated by the Treasurer. All are nominated after the annual officer elections and must be approved by the IRE Board. They serve for two-year terms.

The Finance Committee works on fundraising, oversees ongoing revenues and expenses, monitors the Endowment Funds and advises the Board on investment practices. The committee meets with a financial adviser at least once every year, and it prepares a report that is presented at the annual membership meeting and posted online.

The endowment principal cannot be spent except for in fiscal emergencies, and only then after at least two-thirds of the IRE board members have approved of such an expenditure.

Sources of donations to the funds are accepted according to board policy. (Initial wording on Endowment Funds adopted 6/15/06; amendments adopted and Article 10 created 8/14/22.)

Board Policies

Awards

Eligibility for Board Members

IRE upholds the highest ethical standards in its contests to ensure that all judging is free from undue influence. Board Members have no influence, involvement or insight into judging or selecting winners of the IRE Awards. The Awards are judged by a Contest Committee, which is a separate entity whose members are either elected by the membership or appointed by the Executive Director.

Contest Committee members are not eligible to enter or win the IRE Awards. Their news outlet is allowed to enter. Outlets can enter work that includes editing, oversight or other contributions by a committee member, as long as the work did not involve contributions by a committee member that would merit a byline or another prominent role (such as producer) that would generally be named on an award entry. If there is a potential conflict of interest, the committee member must discuss the issue with the committee chair and recuse themselves if warranted, including if they encounter work by their own outlet. If the issue is not resolved with the chair, it will be sent to the Executive Director to decide how to handle the situation.

Members of the Executive Committee, including the Board Chair, also are not allowed to enter. Their outlets are subject to the same rules as for members of the Contest Committee.

Board Members who do not serve on either the Executive Committee or the Contest Committee are allowed to enter the IRE Awards.

Issuing Special Citations

In very rare circumstances, IRE contest judges may feel a special award is warranted to acknowledge work that exceeds the bounds of existing categories. In those instances, the Contest Committee may recommend that the Board consider a special citation and shall provide the Board with the relevant work for consideration.

A board citation will only be issued if two-thirds of the Board Members vote in favor.

If a Board Member has substantial involvement in the work under consideration, such as a byline or as an editor/producer, the board must weigh whether awarding a special citation will give a perception of a conflict of interest.

Any Board Members employed by the news outlets under consideration for a board citation must recuse themselves from all conversation about the citation and from the vote.

Board Travel Policy

IRE board members are required to attend two in-person meetings per year: at the annual retreat and at the annual IRE conference. We want to ensure this doesn't cause financial hardship and that the ability to pay doesn't prevent anyone from serving the organization.

Any board member should first request financial support from their employer, where applicable. Employers are generally expected to pay for travel costs as a way of supporting IRE and the entire journalism community, but we know that's not always possible. If there are still costs that are not covered, and it would be a hardship for the board member to take those on personally, board members should submit their request to IRE's executive director. IRE will maintain a budget to support these requests.

Financial assistance will be limited to the in-person events that are mandatory for board service, including the IRE Conference and board retreats.

Code of Conduct Policy - IRE Principles

(effective Feb. 23, 2023)

Investigative Reporters & Editors is committed to providing a friendly, safe and welcoming environment for all, regardless of race, gender identity or expression, ethnicity, sexual orientation, physical ability, age, appearance or religion.

IRE supports vigorous debate and welcomes disagreement, while maintaining a civil and respectful community. Discriminatory or harassing behavior is not permitted.

IRE may take any action it deems appropriate to deal with those who violate our principles, including exclusion from our events, forums, listservs and the organization itself.

The IRE Principles apply to all events and meetings that IRE holds, including entirely virtual ones. Members agree to follow these principles throughout all communications related to the conference.

This code of conduct covers all participants in IRE events and is in effect the entire time from the beginning until the end of our events and meetings.

If you feel threatened or in immediate jeopardy during an IRE event, you should call 911 or contact building security.

The IRE Executive Director has discretion for handling all Code of Conduct complaints. If you see or experience any other violation of this Code, please file a complaint through the online form below. Your submission will automatically be emailed to the IRE President and the Executive Director.

Complainants should expect to hear from the Executive Director, who will handle the complaint.

All IRE members should be prompted to sign IRE's Code of Conduct upon joining or renewing membership.

The complaint process

If a member experiences an emergency at an IRE event, they should call 911 or contact on-site security at a number that will be provided to attendees.

The Executive Director has discretion to resolve all Code of Conduct complaints, up to and including revocation of membership. If the complaint involves conduct by the Executive Director, the President or their designee will handle it in the same process described below.

The complainant may withdraw their complaint at any point prior to a final determination.

Complaints made at in-person events:

If a staff member or a Board member receives a complaint at an in-person event, they should contact the Executive Director or, if the Executive Director is unavailable, another senior member of the staff. Complaints may also be received through the online form.

Upon hearing of a complaint, the Executive Director or, in the absence of the Executive Director, a senior member of the staff, will speak to the complainant in a quiet, discreet location as soon as possible. If appropriate, they will encourage the complainant to contact 911 or on-site security. If the Executive Director determines that they need to speak to the accused, they will also lead that conversation as soon as possible in a quiet, discreet location. The Executive Director will then decide what steps to take within 24 hours.

Complaints made outside of in-person events:

Upon hearing of a complaint, the Executive Director will look into the matter, and, if necessary, speak to the complainant and accused. They will then decide what steps to take within a week.

The appeal process

Once the Executive Director has made a decision, they will inform the complainant and the accused, telling both that if either finds the decision unacceptable, the complainant or accused can appeal to the Executive Committee, where it will be heard in executive session. Ultimately, a majority vote will decide what action, if any, to take. If the complainant or accused finds the Executive Committee's decision unacceptable, they can appeal to the full Board, which would hear the matter in executive session. The full Board would have the final say by majority vote.

The notification process

Once the complaint is resolved, regardless of whether an appeal has been filed, the Executive Director will brief the full Board about the complaint in executive session at its next Board meeting. This briefing will include the alleged conduct and the Executive Director's determination. The briefing will never include the name of the complainant. If the Executive Director decided to dismiss the complaint as meritless, then the briefing will also not include the name of the accused. Otherwise, the Executive Director's confidential briefing shall include the name of the accused.

After the briefing, the Executive Director will compile the original written complaint, the interview notes, the determination, any resulting actions, and any other papers to be placed in a confidential file maintained by the Executive Director.

The Executive Director will also publish a summary of the number of complaints, their nature and their resolutions annually. No names will be included.

Anonymity

IRE is unable to investigate anonymous tips. While we require names, they will only be disclosed as necessary to investigate and resolve the complaint.

In most cases, the accused will be informed of the identity of the complainant. When the person leading the investigation speaks to the complainant, they should inform them that in order for a full investigation to be conducted, they may need to reveal their identity to the accused. If the complainant does not want to be identified to the accused, they can request a special exemption from the Executive Director.

Conflict of Interest Policy

The purpose of the following policy and procedures is to complement Investigative Reporters & Editors, Inc bylaws to prevent the personal interest of staff members, board members, and volunteers from interfering with the performance of their duties to Investigative Reporters & Editors, Inc., or result in personal financial, professional, or political gain on the part of such persons at the expense of Investigative Reporters & Editors, Inc.'s members, supporters, and other stakeholders.

Both votes shall be by a majority vote without counting the vote of any interested director.
3. An interested Board member, officer, or staff member shall not participate in any discussion or debate of the Board of Directors, or of any committee or subcommittee thereof in which the subject of discussion is a contract, transaction, or situation in which there may be a perceived or actual conflict of interest. However, they may be present to provide clarifying information in such a discussion or debate unless objected to by any present board or committee member.

4. Anyone in a position to make decisions about spending Investigative Reporters & Editors, Inc.'s resources (i.e., transactions such as purchases contracts) – who also stands to benefit from that decision – has a duty to disclose that conflict as soon as it arises (or becomes apparent); s/he should not participate in any final decisions.
5. A copy of this policy shall be given to all Board members, staff members, volunteers or other key stakeholders upon commencement of such person's relationship with Investigative Reporters & Editors, Inc. or at the official adoption of stated policy.

Elections

Election timing, balloting and voting requirements

Elections will be timed to end during the conference, with results announced at the membership meeting.

Voting will open three (3) Tuesdays prior to the date of the membership meeting/results announcement. Ballots will be sent weekly on Tuesdays, along with a voting reminder.

In order to receive a ballot, members must be an active member through July 1.

Staff role in elections

Staff's role in managing an impartial election is critical, therefore staff are prohibited from endorsing or campaigning for specific candidates at any time.

Declaration of candidacy, submission of materials

Four (4) weeks prior to the sending of the first ballot, members must file their intent to run via an email to IRE staff, including all required elections materials. Staff will post these materials online within three business days of receipt. Candidates may submit materials earlier than the deadline and begin campaigning, if they so choose.

If there are fewer candidates declared than open seats on the Board, staff will immediately notify all current Board members and the existing candidates. The Board will immediately vote to confirm the election of the unopposed candidates. This may be done via emergency meeting or written vote, at the discretion of the Board President.

Staff will notify the entire membership of the remaining open seats and an election will be held to fill those seats. Interested members will have one week to declare their candidacy and submit election materials. Staff will post those materials online as soon as possible, and no later than the Friday of the week they are filed. Only the candidates who meet this late-filer deadline will appear on the ballot.

The election will still commence three (3) Tuesdays prior to the date of the membership meeting/results announcement. Ballots will be sent weekly on Tuesdays, along with a voting reminder.

Candidate nominations

Candidates must have a nomination and second to run for the IRE Board. Nominations can be up to 150 words long.

Nominations will be posted online with candidates' platforms but will no longer be verbalized in person at the IRE Conference.

Candidate speeches

Recorded video speeches are included online with candidate platforms.

At the IRE Conference, each candidate will give a 2- or 3-minute statement of introduction and ideas that will be followed by a 30-minute meet and greet event where attendees can approach the candidates one-on-one to ask questions about their service and ideas.

Staff is responsible for developing a format for virtual inclusion in this event.

Rules for campaigning

Candidates may campaign for Board of Directors or Contest Committee seats by making use of social media, direct communication to members, or any other method that complies with IRE's Code of Conduct. Use of the membership list to contact members is permitted, as long as staff is able to provide such a list to all candidates. Staff will ensure that all candidates are aware of campaigning rules and the available campaign methods.

However, all candidates are prohibited from use of any internal membership lists acquired through prior service on the Board or an IRE committee.

Current and former Board members are permitted to endorse candidates including, but not limited to, providing a nomination or second.

Taking office and transfer of power

After being elected, Directors do not take office until the beginning of the meeting for the election of the Executive Committee officers, which will take place within 10 days of the end of the Board election.

Board members leaving office will continue to serve until the meeting for the election of the new Executive Committee is called to order.

Events

Meetups

IRE meetups will be considered IRE-branded events and fall under the Code of Conduct rules.

The IRE meetup program aims to give designated local organizers maximum flexibility in their communities to come up with ideas and formats that speak to their local members' needs and interests. While this primarily involves social gatherings, it may also include a program such as having a speaker or skillshare session as part of a meetup event.

It is the feeling of the Board that local organizers are free to pursue such programs involving sessions on journalism skills, story ideas, journalists recounting their work, and other professional practices. If local organizers desire to include a program that involves any kind of "call to action" by attendees in support of a particular issue, such programming must first receive prior approval from the Executive Director. If the Executive Director wants to seek approval from the Board, they may. View a how-to guide for organizers here.

Executive director evaluations

IRE's annual review of the Executive Director shall be prepared by the President, Vice President, and Treasurer, based on but not limited to, input from board members and staff. The President, Vice President and Treasurer may access and consider reviews from prior years as part of that process.

The full Executive Committee shall approve the review, which will then go to the full Board for comment in executive session. The full Board may not change the review, but any member may choose to submit a brief statement with additional information for the record within seven (7) days of receipt. To the extent possible, the review shall take place at least one month prior to the anniversary of the Executive Director's hire date and includes a market salary comparison to satisfy Internal Revenue Service requirements on rebuttal presumption.

The Executive Committee may recommend a salary increase and/or bonus for the Executive Director, which shall be confirmed by a vote of the full Board. If the approval occurs after the anniversary of the Executive Director's hire, any salary increase shall be retroactive. The review and notification of any salary increase or bonus will be provided to the Executive Director after the full IRE Board meets in executive session and approves any salary increase/bonus. The Executive Director shall have two weeks from receipt of the review to submit comments to the Executive Committee. The review and any comments from the Executive Director in response shall be retained by the Secretary and filed in a confidential location accessible only to Boardmembers.

The President shall prepare a separate review for the University of Missouri, when required, using the most recent IRE review as the basis when possible and which must be approved by the full Executive Committee prior to submission. The IRE staff financial officer and/or the school of journalism can be points of contact.

Financial procedures

Transparency and rules

- Each quarter, the IRE Staff shall provide the IRE Board of Directors with a list of all major new donations and all major newly-executed contracts.
- Any unused income at the end of the year gets rolled back into the endowment corpus.
- In the rare situation when IRE is considering entering into a new contract or commitment to spend at least $35,000, the full Board must first approve the move, either in a meeting or via an email vote.
 - This does not apply to hires (including full-time staff, part-time staff and students); conference hotel contracts; and other routine commitments, including for the annual banquet, AV/video and printing costs, and renewals of existing contracts for routine items such as insurance, account, investment management and credit-card service fees. This list can be expanded by Board vote at any time.

Donations policy

- In February 2024, IRE adopted the following donations policy:
 - Investigative Reporters and Editors is a nonprofit organization committed to fostering excellence in investigative journalism and takes seriously its responsibility to be independent. In order to support its mission, the organization welcomes gifts that comply with the following guidelines:
 - All financial contributors to IRE agree to the operational independence of the organization and the editorial independence of its members.
 - IRE will accept unrestricted donations of cash or publicly-traded stocks or bonds, from individual philanthropists, family foundations, institutional funders, news organizations and corporate partners, provided the donor is willing to abide by this policy. This includes sponsorships of conferences and events where the sponsor has no control over the programming or participants, as well as scholarship programs where the contributor has no control over choice of recipients.
 - IRE can, with approval of the Executive Director, President and Treasurer, accept gifts that may need to be converted into cash, such as real estate or vehicles.

- IRE will consider restricted donations from individuals or media organizations or from foundations or other entities that typically support or supply the media, if restrictions are framed broadly and align with IRE's mission and priorities.
- By policy, IRE does not accept donations from the below sources. In each case, the Executive Director will decide whether a potential donor fits in a below category and must be disqualified. (In addition, the IRE Board of Directors retains the right, without limitation, to reject any donation for any reason pursuant to a vote by the majority of the Board.)
- IRE may accept gifts for unrestricted support from sources whose identity is unknown to the organization, provided staff informs the Board and the Finance Committee 15 days prior to acceptance.
- IRE does not accept donations from political parties, elected officials, candidates actively seeking public office, or from organizations that are closely aligned with any of the aforementioned entities.
- IRE does not accept donations from any entities that actively promote or support acts against journalism or freedom of expression, or any entity that engages in disinformation or propaganda campaigns against the media.
- IRE will only accept financial support from government entities upon a vote of a majority of the Board of Directors.
- In order to remain independent, IRE seeks to avoid receiving too much of its funding from any single source. If a potential donor wants to give money for operations that would total more than 10% of IRE's budgeted expenses in a fiscal year, the Executive Director must first obtain permission from the Board. Similarly, if a potential donor wants to give money toward the IRE endowment that would total more than 10% of the overall endowment, the Executive Director must first obtain permission from the Board.
- IRE's Board of Directors, in consultation with the staff executive leadership team, may reject or return donations from sources that, in their opinion, do not align with IRE's values, might create an appearance of bias or conflict of interest, or whose acceptance would meaningfully damage the reputation of the organization.
- If an existing donor engages in disqualifying behavior or IRE learns about disqualifying behavior in the past, the Board, in consultation with the executive leadership team, may notify the donor that further donations are not welcome and may return the donation.
- IRE will publish a list of all of the individuals and organizations that it knows have donated $10,000 or more in cash or any other item of value. It will allow for anonymity only in cases approved by the Finance Committee.

Membership policy

When people sign up to be members, or to renew their membership, they are asked to choose a category of membership. Their choices are the following:

Members who are in the Student category and the Professional (Early Career) category also pay less than other members for conference registration.

This policy overrides all previous membership tier policies and takes effect July 1, 2024.

Whistleblower Policy

Investigative Reporters and Editors Inc. Whistleblower Policy approved by the IRE Board of Directors on June 11, 2009.

General

Investigative Reporters and Editors Inc. (IRE) requires directors, officers and employees to observe high standards of business and personal ethics in the conduct of their duties and responsibilities. As employees and representatives of IRE, we must practice honesty and integrity in fulfilling our responsibilities and comply with all applicable laws and regulations.

Reporting Responsibility

It is the responsibility of all directors, officers and employees to report ethics violations or suspected violations in accordance with this Whistleblower Policy.

No Retaliation

No director, officer or employee who in good faith reports an ethics violation shall suffer harassment, retaliation or adverse employment consequence. An employee who retaliates against someone who has reported a violation in good faith is subject to discipline up to and including termination of employment. This Whistleblower Policy is intended to encourage and enable employees and others to raise serious concerns within IRE prior to seeking resolution outside IRE.

Reporting Violations

IRE has an open door policy and suggests that employees share their questions, concerns, suggestions or complaints with someone who can address them properly. However, if you are not comfortable speaking with your supervisor or you are not satisfied with your supervisor's response, you have two additional options:

- o The University of Missouri System has a whistleblower hotline available to all IRE employees and volunteer workers.
- o Two members of the IRE Board of Directors, the President and the Chair of the IRE Audit Committee, serve as Compliance Officers and can be contacted confidentially. If an employee is not comfortable contacting either of these individuals, any member of the IRE Board of Directors can be contacted.

Acting in Good Faith

Anyone filing a complaint concerning a violation or suspected violation must be acting in good faith and have reasonable grounds for believing the information disclosed indicates a violation. Any allegations that prove not to be substantiated and which prove to have been made maliciously or knowingly to be false will be viewed as a serious disciplinary offense.

Confidentiality

Violations or suspected violations may be submitted on a confidential basis by the complainant or may be submitted anonymously. Reports of violations or suspected violations will be kept confidential to the extent possible, consistent with the need to conduct an adequate investigation.

Handling of Reported Violations

The Compliance Officer will notify the sender and acknowledge receipt of the reported violation or suspected violation within five business days. All reports will be promptly investigated and appropriate corrective action will be taken if warranted by the investigation.

Board Procedures

Board of Directors meetings

Regular meetings

The Board of Directors shall meet at least once per quarter, and additionally as needed. If a Board retreat is scheduled, it shall count as one of the quarterly meetings.

Scheduling a non-emergency Board meeting requires not less than ten (10) days' notice to the Membership, specifying the time, place, and general purpose of each meeting. It shall be given to each Director personally. (Code of Bylaws, Section 6.06)

In the event of a failure of a quorum of the Board of Directors of the Corporation, but presence of a quorum of the Executive Committee, the meeting will proceed as a meeting of the Executive Committee; but that all members of the Board of Directors who are present and who are not members of the Executive Committee may in such event participate in the meeting for purposes of advice and discussion, but not for voting. (Code of Bylaws, Section 6.06)

Typically, the Board hosts an annual two-day retreat to get to know one another, address current business matters and longer-term planning. It sets the Board and staff's priorities for the rest of the fiscal year.

Emergency meetings

In the event of an emergency declared by the President or a majority of the Executive Committee, the Board of Directors may meet and act, provided that a quorum of two-thirds of the Directors are participants and all Directors have been notified. The Membership should be notified as soon as is practical before the meeting. (Code of Bylaws, Section 6.04)

Place of meetings

Meetings of the Board of Directors shall be held virtually, by phone or in person as may be specified in the respective notices, or waivers of notice. (Code of Bylaws, Section 6.05)

In-person meetings will also have a virtual component for those who cannot attend in person.

Agendas

An agenda is an essential component to every Board meeting. In order to ensure that meetings are as effective and productive as possible, Directors must have ample time to submit materials for consideration and to review information about which they will be expected to vote.

The President is responsible for creating the agenda, evaluating additional items from Directors, and distributing the final packet.

At least a week prior to each Board meeting, the President should send out a call for agenda items to staff and other members of the Board of Directors. Staff and Board members may submit items they would like to be added to the agenda, noting which items will require a vote. Committee chairs are responsible for ensuring submission of their reports. It is ultimately the President's decision on whether to add those items to the next agenda or to hold them for a future meeting. The final agenda and any accompanying materials should be provided to the Board and members at least three days prior to any Board meeting, unless it is an emergency meeting scheduled with fewer days' notice. Agendas for emergency meetings should be distributed as early as possible, but no later than when the meeting is scheduled.

Items may be added to the agenda during a Board meeting by motion, second and majority affirmative vote.

Rules of Order

Quorum

A majority of the whole Board of Directors shall be necessary to constitute a quorum thereof; and, unless otherwise affirmatively prescribed by the Act, Articles, Bylaws, or other law, a majority of any quorum shall be sufficient to authorize or approve any action by the Board. (Code of Bylaws, Section 6.08)

Proxy votes

Directors may not designate a proxy to vote on their behalf unless they are in attendance at the meeting and need to temporarily step away at the time a vote is being taken. Prior to leaving, the Director must notify the Board Secretary of which Director has their proxy vote and specify which action items the proxy is authorized to vote upon.

General procedures

The IRE Board President presides over Board of Directors meetings and calls meetings to order. Every regularly scheduled meeting should include a roll call, treasurer's report, old business and new business.

Meetings typically will be recorded for the purposes of taking minutes and destroyed after minutes have been approved. Please see the Minutes section for a detailed description of how Board meeting minutes should be handled.

Every Director has the right to participate in discussion, if they would like. Directors should raise their hands or otherwise signal to the President they would like to speak. The President should call on Directors to speak, prioritizing those who have not yet been heard on a particular issue.

The President may call for a motion on a topic, or a Director may offer one.

Only one motion may be discussed at a time. A motion requires a second to be considered. After a second, the motion is open for discussion.

Any Director may offer an amendment to a pending motion. The Director who made the initial motion may choose to accept, reject or change the amendment.

Each motion must be disposed of (passed, defeated, tabled, referred to a specific committee or postponed indefinitely) before a new motion can be introduced.

Votes may be cast through voice or roll call votes. If the outcome of a voice vote is under dispute, any Director may call for a roll call vote.

To take a break or pause the meeting, there should be a motion, second and affirmative vote to take a recess.

To end a meeting, there must be a motion, second and affirmative vote to adjourn.

Executive session

When deciding whether to go into executive session, the Board shall err on the side of transparency.

Executive sessions should be limited to discussions of legal, personnel, contractual and/or Code of Conduct matters. The Board can also go into executive session to discuss otherwise confidential information, but should always default to staying in open session whenever possible. The agenda and minutes should include a general description of the reason for holding the executive session.

Going into executive session requires a motion, second and affirmative vote of a two-thirds majority of Directors in attendance. A subsequent motion, second and affirmative vote are required to exit executive session.

Minutes taken during executive sessions will be kept separately by the Secretary and filed in a confidential location accessible only to Board members. The public-facing minutes will not include details of discussions in executive session, unless approved by the Board for public release. Please see the Minutes section for additional detail.

Actions outside of Board meetings

Any action required or permitted to be taken at any meeting of the Board of Directors or of any committee thereof may be taken without a meeting, if prior to such action a written consent to such action is signed by all members of the board or of such committee, as the case may be,

and such written consent is filed with the minutes of proceeds of the board or committee. (Articles of Incorporation, Section 10.08.)

Minutes

Minutes serve as the Board's historical record and, as such, should be treated with care.

The Secretary shall attend all meetings of the Members, the Board of Directors and the Executive Committee, and shall keep, or cause to be kept, in books provided for the purpose, true and complete minutes of their meetings or other proceedings and ensure that all minutes of all of those types of gatherings, including all executive sessions, are distributed to the full Board of Directors shortly thereafter. The Secretary may delegate their duty to keep such minutes to an Assistant Secretary or the Executive Director of the Corporation if there be such. The Secretary (acting through the Executive Director if there be such) shall attend to the giving and serving of all notices of the Corporation. (Code of Bylaws, Section 8.05)

Minutes shall be taken of every Board meeting. The Board Secretary is responsible for the minutes, but should work with the Executive Director to designate a staff member to take notes during the meeting so the Secretary can fully participate during Board meetings. The Secretary should review the minutes and submit them to the Board for approval no later than one month after the meeting.

All minutes should include: a list of attendees, a summary of all Board discussion and detail on all motions made and votes taken. For votes that are not unanimous, the minutes should include the names of the individuals who voted in favor of the motion, against it and who abstained. Current and future Board members should be able to read only the minutes and gain a decent understanding of any discussions and decisions.

Minutes should also be taken during executive sessions. Since staff members may not participate in executive sessions, the Secretary can either take minutes live or use the recording to create minutes after the fact. They shall be kept separately by the Secretary and filed in a confidential location accessible only to Board members. The Secretary is responsible for selecting that location and ensuring ownership of those minutes is transferred to their successor. The public-facing minutes will not include details of discussions in executive session, unless approved by the Board for public release.

All committee, task force and staff reports should be included as attachments to the minutes.

Minutes should also be taken of votes cast via email. And the results posted along with all other meeting minutes, no later than a week after the vote concludes.

IRE Committees

Investigative Reporters and Editors committees allow the Board of Directors and any IRE members to focus on specific areas or projects of interest and to explore new projects.

Committees are sometimes asked to address issues that come up in full Board meetings. The committees then make recommendations to the Board.

At the end of each fiscal year, the Board President should review the committees to ensure they continue to add value to the organization. If they do not, the President should consider sunsetting those committees. In addition, before creating a new committee, the Board should first consider whether the task can be assigned to an existing one.

The purpose of this document is to make available a full list of all current IRE committees, and to create general guidelines for how all IRE committees should work, so that we have a consistent, shared understanding of what it's like to serve on a committee, how committee members are selected and how committees work at IRE.

Current IRE Committees

Audit Committee — This committee oversees accountability of the organization and reviews the annual external audit by a certified public accounting firm.

Contest Committee — This committee judges the IRE Awards and oversees the other contests run by the organization. It is separate from the Board. Some of its members are elected, and the rest are appointed by the Executive Director. This committee does not issue special citations, which come from the Board. The committee chair is also responsible for reviewing the video for the awards presentation.

Don Bolles Medal Committee — This committee selects the winner of the Don Bolles Medal, which recognizes investigative journalists who have exhibited extraordinary courage in standing up against intimidation or efforts to suppress the truth about matters of public importance. This committee only meets to evaluate award contenders and reports results to the executive director.

Golden Padlock Selection Committee — This committee selects the winner of the Golden Padlock Award, which is given to a public agency or official in the U.S. deemed to be the most secretive. This committee only meets to evaluate award contenders and reports results to the executive director.

Philip Meyer Journalism Award Committee — This committee selects the winner of the Philip Meyer Journalism Award, which recognizes excellent journalism done using social science research methods. This committee only meets to evaluate award contenders and reports results to the executive director.

Conference Committee — This committee tackles conference-related issues, including choosing the keynote and showcase panels for IRE, NICAR and AccessFest as well as advising on other panels and specific tracks. It also makes recommendations regarding conference affordability and other major issues. Those recommendations are made with input from staff, the Board of Directors and members. The committee may create subcommittees to tackle specific tracks, such as broadcast, international and management tracks.

Diversity Committee — This task force focuses on IRE's efforts to increase diversity in the organization. This committee reports to the Executive Committee.

Executive Committee — This committee is responsible for planning oversight, finance, personnel issues and Board development. The committee is also responsible for handling Board business between scheduled meetings. (Articles of Incorporation, Article 9, and Code of Bylaws, Article 7). Please see the section on Executive Committee procedures for additional information.

Finance Committee — The Finance Committee works on fundraising, oversees ongoing revenues and expenses, monitors the Endowment Funds and advises the Board on investment practices. It is required by the Code of Bylaws. (Code of Bylaws, Amendment pertaining to IRE Finance Committee).

Governance Committee — This committee scrutinizes IRE's organizational structure and makes proposals regarding various rules, policies and procedures.

International Committee — This committee works on engaging more with the international journalism community.

Member Services Committee — This committee spearheads initiatives to address IRE member recruitment and retention and improve benefits for members. It also helps organize local meetups.

Strategic Planning Ad Hoc Committee — This committee spearheads the organization's strategic planning efforts.

Training Committee — This committee examines IRE's training offerings and makes recommendations for future opportunities, including regional workshops and virtual webinars.

Current IRE Task Forces

50th Anniversary Task Force: This task force works to plan for IRE's 50th anniversary in 2025. (Created by the president in July 2023)

Affordability Task Force: This committee assesses the affordability of participating in IRE conferences and makes recommendations for improving access. (Created by the board in 2023)

Award Diversity Task Force: This task force researches the diversity of past IRE award winners, and makes recommendations for the future. (Created by the Board in 2022)

Non-English Award Feasibility Task Force: This task force researches the feasibility of adding a category for journalism in other languages to IRE awards. (Created by the Board in 2022)

Website Task Force — This task force works with staff and contractors to facilitate improvements to the IRE website. (Created by the president in July 2023)

Selection of Committee Chairs and Members

The Board President appoints all committee chairs in consultation with staff, to ensure people who have expressed an interest in getting more involved are considered. All selections must be made by July 1.

The President and committee chair will select the members of each committee — with input from the Executive Director. The at-large member of the executive committee will chair a committee of the president's choosing. If there is any disagreement between the President and the Committee Chair, it will be brought to the Executive Committee for a final decision.

Each committee may have at least one nonvoting student delegate (with the exception of executive and finance). Delegates will be selected by committee chairs. Staff will solicit applicants via an email requesting that students specify which committee(s) they are interested in and why. Those emails will be shared with committee chairs, who will make the decision.

There are several exceptions to this policy, as outlined below:

Conference Committee — This committee should consist of two Directors of the Board and one non-board member for the NICAR Conference and two Directors and one non-board member for the IRE Conference. (Policy approved Oct. 19, 2019.) That requirement is a minimum, and chairs have discretion to include additional committee members. The committee members will take part in any respective regional committee calls and also make recommendations to the Board for keynote speakers and showcase panels. For in-person conferences and workshops, the conference committee will help the executive director recruit local organizers and funders for a regional committee.

Contest Committee — This committee is made up of seven people, all of whom must be current IRE Members. Two of them are elected by the membership during the annual election.

(If either of the elected members are unable to participate, the candidate with the next highest votes shall be appointed in their place. If there were no other candidates in that election, the slot(s) will be filled by the Executive Director.) The rest of the committee members are appointed by the Executive Director, with no input from the Board. At least one of the Executive Director's appointees must be a Board Member. The Executive Director also chooses who is the chair and the vice chair of the committee.

Contest Committee members are not allowed to enter the IRE Awards. Their news organization is allowed to enter. Outlets can enter work that includes editing, oversight or other contributions by a committee member, as long as the work did not involve contributions by a committee member that would merit a byline or another prominent role (such as producer) that would generally be named on an award entry. If there is a potential conflict of interest, the committee member must discuss the issue with the committee chair and recuse themselves if needed. If the issue is not resolved there, it will be sent to the Executive Director to decide how to handle the situation.

Finance Committee — This committee is chaired by the Treasurer and includes six other members of IRE, including one Director. That Director and two of the other members are nominated by the President; the others are nominated by the Treasurer. All are nominated after the annual officer elections and must be approved by the IRE Board. They serve for two-year terms. (Code of Bylaws, Amendment pertaining to IRE Endowment Funds).

Executive Committee — This committee is comprised of the Board President, Vice President, Treasurer, Secretary and At-Large Member, who are elected by the board (Code of Bylaws, Article 7). Please see the section on Executive Committee procedures for additional information.

Committee Meetings

This section sets a baseline structure for IRE committees, so committees work consistently across the board. It also highlights what it means to be a committee chair, what chairs are responsible for and why.

Scheduling meetings

Committee chairs are responsible for scheduling committee meetings. They shall give committee members at least one week's notice, barring any emergency circumstances.

Meetings are held virtually, unless otherwise designated by the committee chair.

Committees may meet in smaller groups, but there must be a majority of committee members present in order to vote. Members of the Board of Directors are allowed to observe any committee meetings, unless otherwise noted.

Agendas

Committee chairs are responsible for creating the agenda and providing it to committee members in advance of a meeting. An agenda is an essential component to every committee meeting, just like they are to Board meetings. In order to ensure that meetings are as effective and productive as possible, committee members must have ample time to submit materials for consideration and to review information about which they will be expected to vote.

The final agenda and any accompanying materials should be provided to committee members at least three days prior to any meeting, unless the meeting was scheduled with fewer days' notice. In those cases, agendas should be distributed as early as possible, but no later than when the meeting is scheduled.

Meeting Procedures

The committee chair presides over committee meetings and calls them to order. Most committees serve as working groups and, as such, may operate informally. Any items to be forwarded to the Board of Directors for final consideration must be voted on by the committee.

For issues or discussions that require a vote:

The chair may call for a motion on a topic, or a member may offer one.

Only one motion may be discussed at a time. A motion requires a second to be considered. After a second, the motion is open for discussion.

Any member may offer an amendment to a pending motion. The member who made the initial motion may choose to accept, reject or change the amendment.

Each motion must be disposed of (passed, defeated, tabled, referred to a specific committee or postponed indefinitely) before a new motion can be introduced.

Votes may be cast through voice or roll call votes. If the outcome of a voice vote is under dispute, any member may call for a roll call vote.

Minutes

Committee meeting minutes should include the agenda, members present and details of all votes. Minutes should be filed in the same place as other Board meeting minutes.

Removal procedures

If a committee member fails to participate in three consecutive meetings after good-faith efforts by the committee chair, the chair has the discretion to remove that individual from the committee.

Executive Committee

The Executive Committee of the Board of Directors shall consist of five Directors, including the President, Vice President, Treasurer and Secretary and an At-Large member. The President shall be chairman of the Executive Committee. The members of the Executive Committee shall hold office until the next annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the Corporation. The immediate past president – to the extent possible – shall serve in an advisory role to the Board. (Code of Bylaws, Section 7.01)

Election of Officers

The Executive Director is in charge of overseeing the election of officers.

Within 48 hours of announcing the results of the Board election, the Executive Director will circulate an email to all incoming Directors to schedule the election of officers, which will be required to take place no more than one week after the email is circulated. Once a time has been chosen, the Executive Director will notify all of the membership about the meeting and provide a link whereby members can observe.

Directors seeking to run to be an officer must declare their intent to run to the full Board in writing at least 24 hours prior to the meeting to elect officers.

At the meeting, the Executive Director will ask for nominations for the office of the President. Once all the nominations have been made, each Director who got a nomination and a second will give a short speech. Then the Executive Director will call for a vote, which will typically be conducted via a secret ballot.

Then the Executive Director will move to Vice President, Treasurer, Secretary, At-Large Officer, following the same process for each. If someone runs for a position and loses, they may run for another position.

Finally, the Executive Director will note the immediate past president typically serves for a year in a non-voting advisory position on the Executive Committee, if they remain on the Board. If applicable, the Executive Director will hold a vote of the full board on whether to confirm that person to that position.

Once all the voting has finished, the Executive Director will turn the meeting to the President.

Vacancies

Vacancies on the Executive Committee shall occur upon the death or other incapacity of any one of the five (5) Members; and shall be filled at the direction of the Board of Directors. (Code of Bylaws, Section 7.02)

Powers

The Executive Committee shall have and may exercise during the intervals between meetings of the Board of Directors all the powers vested in the Board of Directors, except those reserved by the Act, Articles, these Bylaws, or other law to the Members or Board of Directors of the Corporation, or any other powers the Board of Directors chooses to retain. (Code of Bylaws, Section 7.05)

As in most other nonprofits that have executive committees, the IRE Executive Committee's most important function is acting for the full Board of Directors in emergencies and on other time-sensitive issues when it is not practical to convene the full board. The committee also can perform other advisory functions at the discretion of the president; serve as a sort of backstop for the President and Executive Director so actions that affect IRE's future are considered by more than two people; and, in some cases, review legal, personnel or financial matters in executive session, or review any other matters before they go to the full Board.

However, the Executive Committee is not a "super board." It reports to the full Board, which can decide to grant it additional powers or exclude it from taking certain actions.

Currently, the Executive Committee has the following powers:

Powers prescribed in the Bylaws

- The Executive Committee has the power to schedule special meetings of the full Board of Directors (Code of Bylaws, Section 6.04)
- The Executive Committee has the power to make exceptions to the rule that a director cannot run for re-election if he or she has not attended two-thirds of board meetings. (Code of Bylaws, Section 6.09)
- The Executive Director is subject to the instructions of the Executive Committee at all times between meetings of the Directors. (Code of Bylaws, Section 4.01)

Other powers granted to the Executive Committee by the Board of Directors

- The Committee has the responsibility for addressing certain issues with other committee appointments. Please see the policies on Committees for more information.
- The Committee has the responsibility to evaluate the Executive Director each year and compare their compensation to leaders at comparable nonprofits (in executive session, without the attendance of other Directors). The Committee must approve drafts of annual performance appraisals (for both Missouri University and IRE) and share those with the full Board prior to providing them to the Executive Director. They also can share a proposal regarding potential changes to compensation, which the full Board will vote on.
- The Committee has the responsibility to consider Code of Conduct complaints (in executive session, without the attendance of other Directors). The Committee must consider each complaint and make a determination, and then confidentially share the nature and outcome of the complaint with the full Board for information only (in an executive session). Please see the policies on Code of Conduct for more information.

- The Committee has the responsibility to consider requests for IRE to sign onto letters advocating for various causes, and similar matters. The Committee must meet (typically via email) to consider each request and decide whether or not to send it to the full Board for a vote (again, typically via email).
- The Committee has the responsibility to resolve any disputes that arise from the work of the Don Bolles Medal Committee, Golden Padlock Selection Committee or Philip Meyer Journalism Award Committee.
- Additionally, as part of the Board's fiduciary duty, it assigns the Executive Committee the following oversight powers and responsibilities:
 - Any time the Executive Director or any other IRE official intends to spend $5,000 or more on a Board-related expenditure that was not already approved by the Board, they must first obtain approval from the Executive Committee. (Examples of these types of expenditures include training for Board members, facilities for Board meetings and facilitators for Board business.)
 - Any time the Executive Director or any other IRE official intends to spend $10,000 or more on any expenditure that was not already approved by the Board in a budget or in a policy vote, they must first obtain approval from the Executive Committee.

Note: The Executive Director is allowed to obtain pre-approval from the Executive Committee for items listed above by contacting the Committee early in the process, even before the item has been finalized. This may help to speed up the process.

Limitations on the Executive Committee

The Executive Committee is not allowed to overturn any vote by the Board of Directors, except in cases of true emergencies. In addition, it must refer the following matters to the full Board:

- The items mentioned elsewhere in Board policy, including in this document
- Personnel actions regarding the Executive Director, including employment contracts, hiring and firing decisions
- Potential violations of conflict of interest policies

Meetings

Meetings of the Executive Committee shall be called and held in a manner prescribed by the Board of Directors, including with notice to all the Directors. (Code of Bylaws, Section 7.03)

By its nature, many meetings of the Executive Committee will occur in cases of emergencies or other issues that require an immediate gathering, and in those cases, the President shall have the power to convene the Executive Committee with little notice.

If the President would like to convene the Executive Committee for any other purpose, including for a regular meeting, to consult with the Committee or to receive any type of update from the Executive Director, the President shall notify all the Directors and provide an agenda to them at least 48 hours before the meeting begins.

All meetings of the Executive Committee — including emergency meetings — shall be open to all members of the Board of Directors, except in limited cases, as described in Board policies and in the Code of Bylaws. Meetings need not be scheduled to accommodate other board members. But the President shall provide a link/number to all meetings (including emergency meetings), to all Directors so they can watch silently, without participating.

Executive sessions of the Committee should be treated the same as executive sessions for the full Board of Directors, except in limited cases, as described elsewhere in Board policies and in the Code of Bylaws. Confidentiality rules apply to all, including the Directors who are not on the Executive Committee and are observing.

Quorum

A majority of the members of the Executive Committee shall be necessary to constitute a quorum thereof; but the Executive Committee, which is not supported by the affirmative votes of three (3) members, shall take no action. (Code of Bylaws, Section 7.04)

This means the Executive Committee cannot take any action unless three committee members choose to do so. However, it can do advisory moves, including referring items to the full Board, with fewer than three votes.

Minutes

The Secretary shall attend all meetings of the Members, the Board of Directors and the Executive Committee, and shall keep, or cause to be kept, in books provided for the purpose, true and complete minutes of their meetings or other proceedings and ensure that all minutes of all of those types of gatherings, including all executive sessions, are distributed to the full Board of Directors shortly thereafter. The Secretary may delegate their duty to keep such minutes to an Assistant Secretary or the Executive Director of the Corporation if there be such. The Secretary (acting through the Executive Director if there be such) shall attend to the giving and serving of all notices of the Corporation. (Code of Bylaws, Section 8.05)

A meeting of the Executive Committee is no different from a meeting of the full Board. Minutes of Executive Committee meetings should include at least the agenda, a brief summary of the discussion under each agenda item and a record of any vote taken, including the names of any member of the committee voting "no."

During executive sessions, the Secretary should make note of the discussion and record any action or vote.

Minutes for Executive Committee meetings, including its executive sessions, should be treated exactly the same as minutes for Board meetings.
