

THE 34TH ANNUAL APPE INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

February 20-23, 2025
Norfolk, Virginia

#APPE2025

WELCOME

TO THE 34TH ANNUAL APPE INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

Founded in 1991 as an organization dedicated to teaching and embedding the practice of ethics and ethical decision-making into all aspects of society, the work of the Association for Practical and Professional Ethics (APPE) is more relevant now than ever.

Through this conference and its other programming, APPE facilitates scholarly exchange, supports a network of individuals and institutions committed to bridging ethics theory with practice, and serves as an advocate for the practical application of ethical principles across all sectors of society.

Together, we take rigorous academic work and make it relevant and actionable in the real world. Because of the commitment and involvement of people like you, APPE is making a difference across the United States and beyond.

Ethics and Technology in National Security

It is safe to say that technology has made much of contemporary warfare and national security at least as much a matter of brains as of brawn. Artificial Intelligence, Synthetic Biotechnology, Neurotechnology, and Information Technology are the new battlefields. This panel will address how relevant technology will shape the moral future of the world's democracies and their national security, including how countries can respond ethically to the unethical attacks that threaten their national security.

Panelists:

- Joseph O. Chapa, Lt Col, US Air Force, Military Faculty Advisor, Marine Command and Staff College and former Department of the Air Force Chief Responsible AI Ethics Officer
- Michael Groen, Lt Gen, US Marine Corps (Ret.), former Director of the DoD Joint Artificial Intelligence Center
- Colleen Laughlin, Executive Vice President of The Washington Office and former Special Advisor to the Secretary of Defense

Moderated by Mark A. Jumper, Director of Chaplaincy and Military Affairs and Associate Professor at Regent University School of Divinity.

The Opening Plenary is sponsored by the Northern Plains Ethics Institute.

Ethics Roundtable: What Makes Us Human? Exploring Education in the Age of Emerging Technologies

This Ethics Roundtable will explore the intersection of education, technology, and ethics, addressing the urgent question of what defines our humanity in an increasingly digital age. By examining the opportunities and challenges at the nexus of technology and human values, the discussion seeks to bridge the gap between innovation and ethics, preparing educators, students, and institutions for a future that remains deeply rooted in what it means to be human.

Panelists include:

- Daniel Palmer, Kent State University
- Lavina Sequira, Felician University
- Patrick Doyle, Blair Middle School
- Jillian Meyer, Indiana University Bloomington

Ethics Roundtables are offered four times a year (virtually) by Felician University, in partnership with APPE.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 21 (continued)

4:15pm – 5:30pm | Main Salon E | Keynote

Catastrophe Ethics

Travis N. Rieder, PhD, Johns Hopkins Berman Institute of Bioethics

We are surrounded by problems that are urgent and catastrophic—that seem to require a moral response by each of us—but which are too big and too complex to be solved by any individual. Climate change is the paradigm case of such a challenge. It occurs when billions of people engage in uncoordinated activity, emitting greenhouse gases into the atmosphere, hundreds of billions of tons at a time. So what must each of us do, ethically, in response? Are you obligated not to buy a gas-guzzler and take it for joy rides while the world burns? Faced with the reality that problems of this scale are insensitive to individual choice, some moral philosophers concede that this simply isn't a problem for individual ethics.

In this talk, Travis will argue that although individuals likely have no strict duty to act in a particular way in the face of massive, catastrophic threats, there is still much work to be done thinking about what a decent, morally responsible life looks like in such times. This is especially important, Travis will suggest, as climate change is far from the only case in which individual action can feel morally important and yet futile at the same time. Acting during an infectious disease outbreak, making consumer choices, engaging in politics, giving to charity, and responding to structural racism all have the potential to give rise to the puzzle of individual morality in an era of collective threats.

CENTER FOR BIOETHICS

HARVARD MEDICAL SCHOOL

Harvard Medical School Center for Bioethics

ensures that scientific progress, medical therapeutics, and health care practices are developed hand-in-hand with reflection upon the profound moral questions raised by advances in the life sciences and biotechnology. We execute our mission in the areas of education, research, and service through the following programs.

Master of Science in Bioethics (MBE)

The MBE program provides students with rigorous academic grounding in bioethical issues related to clinical practice and research, as well as health law and policy. Students can customize the program to their specific interests by selecting from a wide range of elective courses. Applications are still open for the two- or three-year, part-time online program. Apply by March 5, 2025!

Fellowship in Bioethics

This one-year, part-time academic certificate program is designed for working professionals interested in furthering knowledge of the history, philosophical underpinnings, and contemporary practice of bioethics. This fellowship is an in-person format that meets in Boston, MA. Apply by March 1, 2025!

Online Fellowship Certificate Program

An all-new online iteration of the Fellowship in Bioethics, this program is designed for working professionals from across the nation and the globe with a variety of experiences and backgrounds. Applications open this Spring. Visit our website for the latest details.

Application deadlines are fast approaching!

Ethics and Applied Philosophy in the PDC E-Collection

The Philosophy Documentation Center provides access to an array of journals that explore moral and practical questions in business, education, the environment, government, health care, law, psychology, science, technology and more.

Explore unique journals and their take on important questions. All journals are fully searchable—back issues included with online access.

A peer-reviewed forum for interdisciplinary research that explores the systemic causes of ethical challenges in business and professional life. It publishes original articles that examine why global ethical issues, such as poverty alleviation and sustainability, emerge and persist.

Business and Professional Ethics Journal

www.pdcnet.org/bpej

Articles, reviews and discussions exploring the philosophical aspects of environmental problems. Since 1979 it has provided a peer-reviewed forum for diverse interests, bringing together the non-professional environmental philosophy tradition with the professional interest in the subject. Published by the Center for Environmental Philosophy at the University of North Texas.

Environmental Ethics

www.pdcnet.org/enviroethics

Peer-reviewed articles, discussion papers, and book reviews for persons working and thinking within the broad field of "environmental philosophy."

It welcomes diverse approaches to environmental issues, including those inspired by the many schools of Continental history of philosophy, philosophy, and studies in Western philosophy, and the traditions of American and Anglo-American philosophy.

Environmental Philosophy

www.pdcnet.org/envirophil

Committed to the view that philosophy can and should be brought to bear upon the practical issues of life. It publishes peer-reviewed work in ethics and applied philosophy, focused on issues in business, education, the environment, government, health care, law, psychology, and science.

International Journal of Applied Philosophy

www.pdcnet.org/ijap

Peer-reviewed articles and reviews that examine social, economic, political and cultural problems within the context of Christian social ethics. It promotes scholarly work in Christian ethics and the relation of Christian ethics to other ethics traditions, and is an essential resource in religious studies.

Journal of the Society of Christian Ethics

www.pdcnet.org/jsce

The official journal of the National Catholic Bioethics Center, an organization dedicated to research and analysis of ethical issues arising in health care and the life sciences. The journal seeks to foster intellectual inquiry by publishing articles that address the ethical, philosophical, spiritual, and clinical questions raised by modern medical sciences.

The National Catholic Bioethics Quarterly

www.pdcnet.org/ncbq

This journal presents original work by leading social philosophers, political scientists, lawyers, and social scientists from various countries. It publishes peer-reviewed articles drawn from papers submitted for the North American Society for Social Philosophy (NASSP) conference, as well as original submissions not presented at the annual conference.

Social Philosophy Today

www.pdcnet.org/socphiltoday

Dedicated to ethical issues across the curriculum with particular attention to pedagogical methodology and practice in both academic inquiry and professional practice. The journal's editorial focus is on ethics as a dimension of all academic inquiry rather than as an isolated philosophical discipline.
