Each of these features were crafted to present details regarding the many great qualities Jefferson County, Indiana has to offer to its residents, visitors, workforce, and anyone looking to relocate their lives, business, or both.

If you have interest in displaying information about your local business, a historical story, or additional features, please contact the Madison Area Chamber of Commerce about the next edition of the Guide to the Madison, Indiana Area.

THE CHAMBER IS YOUR COMMUNITY CONNECTION

is a one-stop shop for anyone looking to connect with our community.

Whether you are exploring a move to the area or are a life-long resident, we can help you find what you are seeking:

Find a Business: Whether you are looking for a great plumber, a place to buy that specialty item, or you need a financial advisor, the Chamber can connect you to a local business that fits your needs. Our members support our community and we hope you will support them in return.

Find a Job: Employment is a primary concern when moving to a new area. We can connect you directly to current local job postings as well as employment services to set you up with your next successful position.

Event Information: Find community events from training sessions to festivals or post your community event for FREE on the event page at www.madisonindiana.com. Chamber members get even more event visibility and customization options.

Shop Local and Save: Our members post hot deals to our website to save you money. Our Chamber CA$H program allows gift certificates—redeemable at over 50 area businesses—to be purchased at the Chamber office. When you buy from a local business, approximately 68% of that money stays in our community and helps drive our economy!

Information: The Chamber can provide a variety of information about living and working in Jefferson County, from housing and job posting to community services. If we don't know the answer to your question, we will find the person that does.

Connect: When you move to a new place, it can be difficult to meet people and find out what is going on. The Chamber can help you connect to local clubs and organizations, volunteer opportunities, networking, and educational programs.

Improving our Community: We actively pursue initiatives to make Madison the best place to live in Indiana. We closely collaborate with our partners and have been at the table for the America's Best Communities competition (Finalist, April 2017), the "One Madison" comprehensive plan, Project 421 (bridge approach development), and the Stellar Communities designation (October 2017). Find out more about these and other projects at www.madisonindiana.com.

HISTORY IN THE MAKING

In 1809 the town of Madison was founded and in 1811, Jefferson County was formed from parts of two adjacent counties. Later, in 1824 the City of Madison was incorporated and the rest they say, is history! When taking a walk in this beautiful, historic town, you will find history on every corner. From remarkable buildings to celebrated homes, Madison is home of many “firsts” in history, as well as many cherished historical landmarks. What makes the Madison area unique is the preservation of these sites and the significance of what they mean for our community. As you take a journey throughout Madison, IN, look for the historical sites listed below. We hope you find as much appreciation and fascination with these buildings as we do. They are a piece of what makes the Madison area so special!

MCNAUGHTON HOUSE (416 E Second St)

Allen S. McNaughton was prolific in establishing Madison as a leader in the national pork-packing industry. The house was built in 1851-52. It has an L-shaped plan and the front facade exemplifies Madison’s mid-nineteenth century architectural style, Greek Revival. There are intricate detailing’s on the exterior and a wrought-iron balcony.

14 Madison Area Chamber of Commerce 2021-22

HOWARD DENTON HOME (514 E Main St)

Built by captain William Kirk around 1890. The home has ornamental iron balconies atop the widow’s walk, and a “bishop’s doors” recessed entrance. It was bought by the Dentons in 1965. Howard was an attorney and his wife Grace was a home economist and artist. Howard also worked in the arts, winning a Hoosier Salon Prize in 1968.

M. E. GARBER HOUSE (733 W Main St)

Home to the third-generation owner and editor of the MADSION COURIER. He was also a prominent citizen of the town and active in many local organizations.

STAPP- JENNER HOUSE (732 W Main St)

Greek Revival house built in 1816 as a 3-room farm house. It was the first building west of Broadway built by Milton Stapp, Lt. Governor of Indiana in 1828 and mayor of Madison in 1850. The front yard was once used by Henry Clay to give a speech in 1844.

STEPNEY STAFFORD HOUSE

(619/621 Walnut St)

Stepney Stafford was an early free African American to be on record living in Madison. The house was built in 1825.

WILLIAM J. ANDERSON

HOUSE (713 Walnut St)

One of Madison's central operatives on the Underground Railroad. William Anderson came to Madison as a fugitive slave in the summer of 1836, escaping from a steamboat. He learned brick masonry and built this house in 1846. He was also involved in the construction of the African Methodist Episcopal Church in town.

JOHN ECKERT HOUSE

(510 W Second St)

Built in 1972 for tinsmith John Eckert. The house is in the Italian Renaissance Revival style. Eckert probably provided the molded sheet metal exterior and cast-iron mantel pieces inside.

HARRY KYLE HOUSE

(417 Mill St)

The original owner was Harry Kyle. This is a Gothic revival home, the original exterior trim is scroll-sawed barge board, made on a pedal powered sawing machine invented in the 1870s. The property was bought in 1871, and the house was built a few years later.

SCHNAITTER HOUSE (740 W Main St)

Constructed likely in 1849, the portico on the front exterior was purchased off a cargo steamer on its way to New Orleans, which had to off load in town due to the Confederate blockade. The original owner was, August L. Frevert, of Germany. In 1933 the property was acquired by the Schnaitters. Paul R., was Judge of the 5th Circuit for Jefferson and Switzerland Counties and his son Spence was also active in politics. The present-day Democratic Headquarters are named after him.

FAIRMOUNT HOUSE

(1050 Michigan Rd)

Built in 1872, the house is in the Grand Victorian style, originally owned by Aurelius H. Gibson, a timber and barrel stave entrepreneur. It is located at the top of Michigan Hill, overlooking the Ohio River. It recently sold in October of 2020. Each room has a different wood trim.

Historic Madison

Step into the past and explore the largest contiguous National Landmark Historic District in Madison. Urban visionaries describe it as one of the most iconic and magnificent in the United States “with an integrity and charm found in very few places anymore in North America.” (Michael Lykoudis, former Dean, School of Architecture, University of Notre Dame).

Historic Madison, Inc. (HMI) got its start by protecting those features more than 60 years ago and the enduring legacy of historic preservation remains a cornerstone of the city. Today HMI focuses on enriching the community’s future by valuing its detailed past. HMI offers tours and other unique programs that encourage the continued preservation of Madison’s exceptional historic resources. HMI also promotes economic development and sustainability within the Madison community, ensuring that residents, businesses, and visitors alike will be successful for years to come. The National Landmark Historic District is more than beautiful architecture, it is Madison’s past, present, and future.

As a leader in the preservation field, HMI shares its knowledge and experience with the world through many distinctive opportunities. HMI provides tours of the exquisite downtown district and its 5 different properties that touch on industrial, medical, architectural, local, state, and national history themes. The connections extend beyond the buildings themselves into the stories of the people who made them, lived in them, and continued the development of Madison into the city seen today. The programs play a crucial role in the protection of Madison’s exceptional historic assets in all forms. Stories and information shared with students, visitors, and residents provide the motivation for investment and connection to the Madison community far beyond anything found in a book. HMI helps Madison’s National Landmark Historic District remain one of the most spectacular glimpses of history in the country by sharing the stories of the past.

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic and the shift away from in-person programs, HMI is improving its digital footprint beyond the winding river and ornate architecture. The organization is collaborating with partners like the Indiana Department of Natural Resources and IUPUI’s Department of Public History to share Madison’s special history with the world. HMI plans to enhance and grow its online presence so that anyone can appreciate Madison’s gems from anywhere in the world. The remarkable stories found throughout Madison are worth being shared with all people, and HMI continues to expand its audience through the virtual world. The HMI website and social media pages highlight the developments, be sure to follow them to stay up to date.

Finally, if you enjoy history, industrial heritage, public interactions, or just want to find a way to give back, we have a place for you! Become a member or volunteer today! Tours for all sizes are available year-round. For more information, please contact HMI at (812)265-2967, visit us online at www.historicmadisoninc.com, or follow us on Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter.

An aerial photograph of a city street, likely in Madison, Wisconsin. The street runs vertically through the center of the image, with yellow double lines and white arrows indicating traffic flow. On the right side of the street, there is a prominent red brick church with a tall, pointed steeple. Surrounding the church and street are various residential and commercial buildings, some with colorful roofs. Trees with autumn foliage are scattered throughout the scene. The overall atmosphere is that of a small, historic town.

City of Madison ECONOMIC UPDATE

The City of Madison has been developing its brand for over two centuries and is already a regional and national treasure with many well recognized attributes. Founded in 1809, the city has thrived in commerce, tourism, historic preservation, cultural arts, music, and industry. The City of Madison's ever-present focus on building community capacity with a forward-thinking approach to economic development and placemaking is evident in their long-range plans for the community.

In May of 2021, Governor Holcomb announced that the State of Indiana will appropriate $500 million dollars in grant monies to promote economic development and growth. This program was named Regional Economic Acceleration and Development Initiative (READI). The City of Madison saw this as an opportunity to enhance its planning for the future by submitting two comprehensive investment plans to be included within the Our Southern Indiana Regional Development Authority's submission for funding through READI.

Madison's Workforce Development Plan and Destination Madison Plan fulfilled the strategies Mayor Courtney and Governor Holcomb in building community capacity in areas like quality of place/life, population growth, increased household income, higher skilled and paying jobs, and expanded community amenities, all in a sustainable and inclusive manner.

Destination Madison projects aim to create and nurture great destinations, pursue catalytic developments that spur investment, preserve the region's natural and cultural features, inspire collaboration, and increase our quality of place. The phases of this project add several unique elements to this region that will result in higher economic spending and population growth.

DESTINATION MADISON PROJECT PHASES

Madison Coal Property Redevelopment

Workforce development is an essential component of a community's economic development program. Madison is prioritizing workforce investment which will have a positive outcome on the overall economic health of the city and region including investing in our industrial base through retention and expansion strategies, housing to accommodate population growth, and quality of life by enhancing outdoor recreation and multi-modal forms of transportation. These projects are so pertinent to not only the City of Madison, but all who live here currently and will live in the state of Indiana. Each of these phases aligns with the goals of expansion and industrial growth, with an outcome of bringing new residents to Indiana permanently, and in turn, increasing economic growth and opportunity.

WORKFORCE DEVELOPMENT PROJECT PHASES

Innovation Inc.
Industry Expansion
Hilltop Single Family Housing Subdivision
Madison Plaza Multi-Use Redevelopment with retail and housing
Madison Clean Drinking Water Expansion
Warren R. Rucker Sports Complex Upgrades
Playground for all Children Improvements

The city's investment plan totals $153,680,256 in private, state, and local capital invested. It leverages the requested READI grant of $11,366,318 almost 14:1. This capital plan will contribute over one-quarter billion dollars to Madison's economy over the next 3-5 years. Madison is READI and has broad community support as evidenced by over 42 support letters from groups representing industry, small business, education, healthcare, and tourism to name a few.

The READI program can help us address long-overdue priorities such as housing, population growth, higher wages, better drinking water, and make our economy more resilient. The level of investment as compared to the READI funds requested demonstrates that we are maximizing the economic potential and making our local investment in our future a priority. Madison is a small town with a historic future and its population growth and economic investment plans will enhance the community for years to come making Madison a great place to call home, visit, work, or start a business.

Love where you live; live where you love

Discover why Madison is one of America's best communities to live, work, and play!

Are you looking to relocate to an A-class, community-driven area, or retire in a peaceful, historic town? Madison, Indiana offers a bit of every type of housing experience, all within a tight-knit community. Jefferson County is a community for all individuals regardless of your stage of life. Whether you wish to live in the historic downtown, a shanty along the Ohio River, in a quaint suburb or in the spaciousness of the countryside, Jefferson County has it all!

People are drawn to this area because of the quality of life and relatively low property taxes. When asked, "Why Madison?", long-time citizen and visitor responses are always similar in saying, "It's Madison's small-town, American charm." Residents and visitors love the fact that Madison has so much going on year-round; even though we are small, we are bound together by strong relationships and common interests that keep our city busy. You won't have to leave the area to find something to do!

RURAL, COUNTY LIVING

Looking for a place with land and a great view of the Indiana sunsets? The rolling hills of the Ohio River Valley will provide you with just that! Miles of gorgeous countryside fill the region with a plethora of areas to call home. The rolling hills of the Ohio River Valley contrast with flatland fields that are still within quick driving distance to necessities and a variety of amenities.

Jefferson County takes pride in its agricultural heritage with farmland and pastures stretching for miles. So, whether you are searching for farmland, a little place in the woods or just want some space between you and your neighbors, Jefferson County is an accommodating area for rural options.

URBAN, DOWNTOWN LIFE

Are you in the market for a more networked, urban placement, or maybe a historic home? Downtown Madison is the place for you! Featuring 133 blocks of period architecture and walkability, Madison boasts the largest contiguous National Historic Landmark District in the country! We have a mixture of renovated and fixer-upper historic housing, complete with intricate architectural detail; there are modern homes in downtown Madison as well!

Speaking of fixer-uppers...the City of Madison offers the P.A.C.E. program, a giant program that assists with exterior and structural improvements to historic buildings in the district. Although there are renovation restrictions and requirements when remodeling a historic home in Madison, don't be discouraged. Local realtors and residents alike see these historic guidelines and covenants as an increase to your home's value. These rules also strengthen the initiative to improve properties and protect your investment as the homeowner. If you are interested in purchasing property in the district, organizations like the Cornerstone Society can help you find the information you need.

Downtown offers a wide variety of options for homes that are all within walking distance to the bustling Main Street corridor. In addition, being downtown means you are just a short walk from the beautiful Madison riverfront and trails of great hiking. You, your family and your four-legged friends will enjoy this character-rich environment!

THE SUBURBS OF MADISON'S HILLTOP

Maybe you are considering a more suburban feel. If so, try the "Hilltop" scene. On Madison's hilltop, the housing boom started in the 1960's and 1970's; there are a lot of mid-century options. Some of these options have lots as large as 2 acres. The quaint, family-friendly neighborhoods feature houses of all sizes and price ranges to fit your needs. Create your American dream with a hometown feel in close proximity to local schools, parks and independent and big-box retailers and restaurants. Some of Jefferson County's neighborhoods that are in high demand include Miles Ridge, The Meadows, Hereford Lake and Sunrise. While there are no large-scale subdivisions springing up in Jefferson County, building lots are available. Country acreage is also available for those who want to build their dream home!

JEFFERSON COUNTY RENTALS

Jefferson County has quite a few variations in the rental market. Rentals in the area range from shotgun homes, spacious upper-level apartments in the historic shopping district, apartment housing and complexes on the hilltop and even senior community apartments. # Magical Madison

Discover why so many retirees are choosing to move to the Madison community after their careers

I met with Lisa Ferguson recently in order to write an interview-style article about why Madison is a great retirement community. However, about 90 seconds into the interview I knew this was going to be an article that was just as much about Lisa Ferguson as it was going to be about Madison.

written by Jacqueline Overpeck

Lisa's grandparents lived near Madison, so she has been familiar with the area her entire life. However, she spent her adult life with her husband and children near Cincinnati, OH. Though she lived there, she brought her husband to Madison quite frequently for all of the festivals, home tours and special events.

When Lisa retired from being a school teacher, and her husband retired from the post office, they knew exactly where to retire - Madison, IN. Lisa wanted to be near her children and grandchildren but also wanted to experience the magic of Madison on a daily basis.

And that is EXACTLY what she does!

Lisa walks almost every day in downtown Madison. She covers 5-8 miles on a normal basis, stopping into all of the locally owned shops and learning about the owners (btw, she knows them ALL). She also admires the historical architecture of Madison, which was the main reason her and her husband moved here.

In order to help other people enjoy the historical architecture and other hidden treasures of downtown Madison, Lisa started a group on Facebook called Madtown Hunters. It is a public group where people can visit to find pictures of hidden "treasures" in downtown that you cannot see when you drive. The Facebook group shows a picture and only a few words, ie "west Main street, north side"; then, you have to get out, get to walking and find the treasure. Lisa started this group when COVID hit to help people get outside and enjoy Madison. It has now grown so much that others are posting pictures to the group and Lisa is on the hunt!

Besides hunting for hidden treasures, Lisa also volunteers. In fact, in 2021, her and her husband successfully volunteered for EVERY event that Madison hosted. She also helps local business owners who are having trouble finding staff - she has wrapped chocolates at Cocoa Safari, bottled wine at Thomas Family Winery and helped at many other local shops.

Volunteering is fun for Lisa, but she also supports the community in other creative ways. Lisa recently got a group of retirees together to go Christmas caroling for residents in downtown Madison who could not get out for the holidays. Because it is a small community, Dave Adams offered the trolley to drive them around. With Dave and the trolley and other retired volunteers, Lisa was able to bring joy to 25 shut-ins for the Christmas season.

Lisa met all of these helpful retirees by walking up to them and saying, "Where are you from?" Lisa has met retirees living in Madison who are originally from Chicago, Cincinnati, the Bay Area and Atlanta. These retirees frequently meet up in the evenings at one of the local bars or venues playing music; aside from the great food and drinks, it is not rare to find local bars, pubs and venues having live music on the menu here in Madison.

Madison, IN has numerous, amazing elements that brought Lisa Ferguson here — the historical architecture, the walking scene, the local shops, the volunteering opportunities and the nightlife with live music. However, to put it in her own words, "I came for the architecture, I stayed for the people."

And the people are the reason that Lisa and her retiree crew call it "Magical Madison."

Madison Area VOLUNTEERS

What sets apart the Madison area from other towns? The people set Madison apart! The Madison community is full of organizations that have a mission and vision to make life better in our community. They do this through annual festivals, supporting specific populations, and developing projects to improve quality of life. These organizations rely on the help of volunteers to power their efforts in making the Madison community the best place to visit, live, work, and play!

The Jefferson County area is an excellent place to volunteer for an organization that aligns with your passions. Volunteering is also an excellent way for individuals to experience this beautiful town and get involved! With busy lives, it can be hard to find time to volunteer. However, the benefits of volunteering can be enormous. Did you know that dedicating your time as a volunteer can help you make new friends, boost your social skills and confidence, and instill happiness? Additionally, volunteering can help individuals identify areas they are passionate about, while giving back to their community. For example, if you are a lover of history - then the Madison Historical Society may be the place for you to volunteer! Perhaps you are excited about festivals and bringing tourists to town - then Visit Madison and their events may be a great place for you to start getting involved in our area! Lastly, don't forget that volunteer opportunities look different depending on the organization. You may be helping run a ticket booth at the Soup Stew Chili & Brew festival, or you may be helping with items like technology and paperwork for other organizations.

Regardless of what you are passionate about or looking for, the Madison community has something for everyone! If you are interested in broadening your horizons and helping build your community, we encourage you to reach out to a local organization and volunteer!

the KINDNESS Mural

Madison and Jefferson County are deeply rooted in Arts and Culture, the natural and built environment invites the visitor and inspires the artist to tell their story with their art, their words, and images that are unique to this lovely place.

Join our community as we celebrate public art and our large collection of artists in Jefferson County with the new Mulberry Murals located at the Second and Mulberry Street Parking Lot in downtown Madison. Recently completed, this collection of public murals were inspired by the history, kind community, and the colorful collection of artists who live in Madison and Jefferson County.

Created by local non-profit, Madison Area Arts Alliance, this collection of colorful murals took just a few years to plan, organize, and raise funds (during the 2020 worldwide pandemic). The result - over 160 donors, 26 artists, countless in-kind donations, and endless encouragement from the community.

The first mural completed was the Kindness Mural located on the former Hentz Bakery building, a colorful declaration of our community's commitment to kindness. Inspired by a vivid painting of a heart by local artist and barber, Jane Vonderheide; Artist Steve Bickis created a strong graphic of Kindness with a breathtaking view of Madison's Riverfront, artist Kevin Carlson then accompanied Bickis to paint the two and a half story mural using a grid system and together they completed the mural in just five weeks.

The second part of the mural Local Color features an assortment of painted Orbs outlined and joined together by a sky blue painted ribbon. Area artists were given the freedom to paint something that represented the area or something special to them. All 23 artists brought their own unique style to the orbs and as a result, a fantastic collection of local color—both literally and figuratively.

Transitioning from Orbs to the Local Color Mural features a community engagement piece with author Edward Eggleston riding his tricycle across a burst of bright color. Local artist, Patty Cooper Wells based her original sketch upon an 1890 photo of Eggleston and a study she made of the tricycle located at the Jefferson County Historical Society. Then she enlarged it to a height of eight feet. Members of the community including the La Casa Amiga students who attend classes in the former Eggleston Elementary School building helped complete the background that consists of hundreds of colorful dots. A lover of history, the artist is a big fan of Eggleston's books that depict the pioneer days of southern Indiana and are based upon real people and true events. His books were very popular in the 1870s, his most famous one, The Hoosier Schoolmaster being translated into several languages.

"Eggleston recorded the Hoosier dialect in his books- a style of writing called 'local color', so the title of the mural is a play on words."

Next to the Local Color Mural is the colorful Living Tree Mural by artist Jacob Loudon, a local artist who conceived the 10-foot cobalt blue, white, and gold tree that comes to life with a strong collection of multi-colors. This mural is a 'Selfie Wall' inviting visitors to stand in front of the painting and they will appear to be sitting on a tree swing from a multicolored magical tree. This mystical Living Tree Mural invites everyone to have fun and to share their selfie photo at #artsherehow

To the far east of the Parking Lot is the crowning achievement for Patty Cooper Wells, River of Kindness Mural is a panorama of the Ohio River as seen from Madison, with a history theme that takes the viewer from the present to the early pioneer days of Madison in six different vignettes. The first section depicts an iconic 1930s Madison photo of shanty-boaters Bertha Mae and Darby Davis by the river taken by local photographer Harry Lemen with his brownie camera.

Next, is a wistful little boy modeled from a vintage 1920s photo standing by the river with three paper boats, his dog running nearby, a riverboat behind him. The colorful checkerboard patterns honor Madison Artist Lou Knoble, a local art teacher and track coach, now in his 90s, who inspired many students at Madison and at Hanover College.

The River of Kindness Mural also depicts three historic riverboats, all side-wheelers, The Island Queen (1930s), The City of Madison (circa 1900), and The New Orleans- the first steamboat to travel the Ohio and Mississippi rivers in 1811.

The railroad is also represented in the mural, with Madison's famous Reuben Wells Locomotive (1868) taking center stage. The Rueben Wells was a special locomotive designed to get trains up and down Madison's steep incline that led down to the river.

Indiana's first railroad, the Madison and Indianapolis Railroad, was constructed in the early 1840s connecting Madison to the new state capital, Indianapolis. It passed through Vernon, the future site of North Vernon, Queensville, and Scipio.

Southern Indiana's Underground Railroad and its courageous "conductors" are also celebrated in the mural with a depiction of Reverend Chapman Harris, and his wife Patsy silhouetted in the moonlight on the riverbank. Reverend Harris, who co-founded Madison's Broadway Baptist Church in 1849, recounted his Underground Railroad adventures in later years.

The final scene offers a glimpse at Madison's early days with the first steamboat passing by and the comet that appeared in the sky that year of 1811. In the foreground is a depiction of a settler's log cabin, with stumps all around where they have hewn a clearing with an ax. Juxtaposed with this is a Native American wigwam, and canoe with a Shawnee hunter looking towards the river. Surrounding the wigwam are Indiana's native hardwoods, poplar, and oak.

Besides taking the viewer on a journey through history as the narrative flows to the right, it also takes one through the seasons of spring, summer, and fall. There are intricate details to delight the observant viewer scattered throughout the mural. Indiana's state bird and tree are present as well as a couple of periodical cicadas marking 2021.

The new Mulberry Murals represent just a small assortment of the large collection of talented creative people who reside in our area and add to the overall quality of life in our community. The Madison Area Arts Alliance is proud to continue to build a strong voice for the ARTS in our community and support the Madison Arts & Cultural District, an officially designated Cultural District by the Indiana Arts Commission. # Branding Madison as INDIANA'S MUSIC CITY

“Imagine for a moment if Madison were known regionally or even nationally as a genuine music town,” says Todd Boone, president of the nascent Madison Music Movement. “Imagine if you stop somebody on the street in Seymour or Batesville, or even Indy or Cincy and you ask them ‘Madison, what do you know about it?’

“And they answer, ‘Madison is that music town right? Some of my friends went there and they said they had a blast. They said there was so much going on, plus the town is so historic and beautiful!’”

Jimmy Davis, co-founder of the Music Movement, picks up the narrative, “That’s the ultimate goal of the Madison Music Movement. We want to put Madison on the map as a place where live music is always happening and there’s always something fun and interesting to see and do.

“And here’s the thing you may not realize ... especially if you’ve always lived here and maybe take our music scene for granted ... but Madison already is this amazing music town, virtually unlike anything else in the region. As a working musician who travels and plays in the surrounding towns, I can tell you nobody even comes close.”

“So this is what the Madison Music Movement was born out of,” continues Todd. “We realized that we’re sitting on this gold mine that is super attractive to anybody looking for a great weekend getaway. We just need to get the word out and make sure when people hear the name Madison, they think live music and fun.

“We latched onto this phrase ‘Indiana’s Music City’. In three simple words it conveys that Madison is festive, alive, and passionate about music. It’s powerful and it’s memorable, and it’s our job to make it part of Madison’s brand.

“Because if that brand is successful, if we can make that phrase one of the first things people think about when they hear the name Madison, just think about the ramifications and benefits that will follow.

“It has the potential to just blow up our tourist numbers. More people in the shops, more people in the hotels and AirBNBs, and more people in the restaurants. And ultimately, more people will want to move here permanently.”

Jimmy Davis adds, “The other thing we want to do, from the artist’s perspective, is make Madison a super welcoming and conducive place to live and create and perform. We want to provide the support and the resources so musicians can thrive and grow here. “

“So when people ask me what they can do to support the Music Movement,” continues Todd, “I tell them to get out and support live music in our town. Go to the shows. Buy tickets. Pay the cover charge. Hang out with your friends and enjoy the music.

We have so many great venues in town that are investing in live music, the best thing we can do is to make sure they are successful.

“Of course the other thing you can do is directly support the Music Movement with your donations. There’s a link on our website MadisonMusic.org where you can donate with Paypal or Venmo, or just talk to any M3 board member. We are using every dollar of the funds we receive to advance the Indiana’s Music City brand and support local musicians in Madison.”

businesses, three are restaurants and eateries like Crafted Coffee, Rivertown Grill, and MadLove eat + drink. Other downtown Madison businesses include home décor stores like Cuckoo's Roost and Magpie, retail shops such as James Dell, Scarlet Begonia, and our newest addition, Redeeming Grace. # Serving Madison AND BEYOND

Madison Travel Company (MTC) is more than a travel agency; we are experienced creators with a passion for travel and event design. Our mission is to provide extraordinary experiences in any destination while keeping a focus on our local community by offering original and collaborative support. With the launch of our Discover Madison project, our intention is to hear the needs of community partners, identify missed opportunities, and “fill-in-the-blanks” by creating additional offerings that are of interest to not only visitors but for locals as well.

HOW WE SUPPORT BUSINESSES

Engagement and collaboration within our community is crucial to the success of Madison, and MTC wants everyone to know what Madison has to offer. To do this, we’ve created a website that lists local businesses, community partners, restaurants, and lodging options; this listing is free of charge and includes a photo, business description, and contact information. Furthermore, MTC is working with local businesses to turn visions into realities and provide support for unmet needs. Our Discover Madison project is designed to help create customized events and experiences that showcase our small-business entrepreneurs. In addition, our new online booking platform is an ideal place to mainstream local ticket sales. This platform allows revenue to stay local, which is not the case when partnering with large-scale ticketing services. MTC is always interested in new and innovative ways to support local businesses, so feel free to contact us if there's any way we can better support you!

HOW WE SUPPORT VISITORS

As MTC continues to grow, we envision our website as a one-stop-shop for visitors to plan and create an elevated experience in Madison. Visitors can find all Madison has to offer - from shopping at our downtown boutiques or eating at family-owned restaurants, to attending a hands-on workshop or listening to a local artist at one of our many music venues. It's easy for guests to take advantage of these opportunities by using our online self-booking platform; get your tickets to an event with just a click! Planning a visit for a large group? Give us a call, and we can help build an itinerary customized to your needs.

HOW WE SUPPORT LOCALS

MTC's dedication to supporting local businesses is a key component in giving back to the community and keeping the people of Madison at the forefront of our initiatives. In the midst of daily hustle and bustle, it can be easy to forget, or perhaps not even realize, just how much there is to see and do in Madison. MTC's comprehensive list of events and activities benefits not only those new to town but locals as well. Our website includes an easy-to-use calendar that allows you to search by date and book events tied to our community and business partners. There's no better way to support the community than by participating in hometown activities!

Madison Area NONPROFITS

Nonprofit organizations play a vital role in building healthy communities; they provide critical services that contribute to economic stability and mobility. Nonprofit organizations also strengthen communities by helping to be a voice for the people they serve. Thanks to the combination of strong community relationships and intimate local knowledge, these organizations understand their community needs and create ways to meet them. Nonprofits are there to help communities overpass certain issues; this provides and promotes awareness for these specific issues and gives incentives for change. Lastly, nonprofits provide a way for people to work together for the common good, transforming shared beliefs into action.

The Madison community is fortunate to have a variety of nonprofits (around 300 registered organizations) that help serve the Jefferson County community. More than 10% of the Madison Area Chamber of Commerce's members are nonprofit organizations. These organizations cover a wide range of topics such as the arts, health & safety, education, veteran services, recreation, historic preservation, religion, just to name a few. The nonprofits located in Jefferson County are always looking for volunteers whether it's giving your time to help the Salvation Army sort through donations, helping an organization like the Madison Area Run Club fundraise, or making donations to local nonprofits whose mission resonates with you.

Looking to get involved with a local nonprofit, i.e. participating in their services or volunteering for their cause? The Madison Area has organizations for everyone! Be sure to check out the Madison Area Chamber of Commerce's business directory and volunteer site to see what might be a good fit for you!

Girls Inc. of JEFFERSON COUNTY

Girls Inc. of Jefferson County, IN is part of a network of Girls Inc. affiliates serving girls ages 6-18 at more than 1,500 sites in 350 cities across the United States and Canada. As part of that national framework, Girls Inc. of Jefferson County, IN works to consistently incorporate six key elements: Girls-only environments, mentoring relationships, intentional programming, research-based curricula, interactive activities, and sustained exposure.

Our affiliate has been serving girls in our community since 1972. We started with 5 outreach sites manned by volunteer staff and one full-time staff member. From there, our first permanent facility and current location in the heart of Madison's historic district was purchased at auction by a board president, who, as the story goes, had no idea how the board would pay for it. That bold step paid off; however, the facility was paid for within the year. A few additions and renovations later, we are still going strong and busier than ever!

A combination of long-lasting mentoring relationships, a pro-girl environment and research-based programming equips girls to lead fulfilling and productive lives, break the cycle of poverty and become role models in their community. We are proud to have served the Madison area since 1972, and encourage girls to be "strong smart, and bold."

Madison's 2021 BUSINESS OF THE YEAR

As a major anchor in Madison's downtown commercial district since 1970, Greves TV & Appliance Home Center has been offering an assortment of quality goods and amazing customer services to their clients across the region. This family-owned business provides home town customer service while staying current with new technology, trends, and expansion of many price points and product lines.

As many local family-owned businesses have disappeared from Madison's Main Street, this business continues to recognize the importance of knowing their customers and offering excellent customer service. Greves continues to stand through the test of time. They have endured many changes in Madison and Jefferson County, yet they continue to thrive when others have disappeared or given up to the big box retailers. This business stands out in the community, and consistently supports the Madison area by being involved with local events, school programs, and area organizations. They show their commitment to the community each and every day.

Greves TV & Appliance Home Center is an authorized dealer of brands such as Air King, Amana, Asko, Aspen Furniture, Bell'o, and more. They can help you select your new appliance, electronics, or mattress purchase to fit within any budget. They will even price-match any competing retailer. Greves amazing customer service does not just stop at the customer's purchase though, they continue to offer support by honoring purchase policies, rebates, and warranties on their products meaning they will service and/or replace items purchased from their facility.

All of these awe-inspiring business practices and more earned Greves TV & Appliance Home Center the honor of receiving 2021's Business of the Year Award by the Madison Area Chamber of Commerce. This award is an annual recognition of one Jefferson County business who has presented outstanding achievements made in business and industry, especially so in the past year. This prestigious award is given to those businesses who demonstrate continued leadership, vision, innovation, and dedication to our community. To receive this award, a business must show sustainability with at least 3 years of continued success, increase the business image of the community, show evidence of success in sales, profits, and/or employment growth, and have a high level of respect. But this award isn't just about economic success and reputation. To earn this award, a business must also give generously of its time and resources for the betterment of our community, and be a well-rounded business.

Businesses are nominated for this award by the community then a group of past Business of the Year recipients come together to review the nominations and choose the business they believe is a deserving recipient of this award. It was the Madison Area Chamber of Commerce's honor to present the 2021 Business of the Year Award to Greeves TV and Appliance Home Center.

Creating precision IN MADISON

“One morning in June 1987, after a long search of approximately 35 sites around the Midwest, the scenic beauty of the city of Madison, Indiana, caught Mr. Hasegawa’s inspiration as he crossed the Ohio River. He was looking for THE perfect parcel for a new die-casting plant; he commented that it “was like a beautiful painting neatly arranged in a wooden frame decorated with the leaves of dogwood trees”. At that moment, he was moved by the beauty of the town and river and made the decision to build the facility in Madison.

Madison Precision Products (MPP), a subsidiary of METTS Corporation in Japan, was incorporated in 1987 and began operations in Jefferson County in 1989. Madison Precision maintains a position of leadership in the die casting industry through innovative aluminum die-casting technology and quality. The facility casts and machines high-quality parts for the automotive industry, in addition to exploring new technology for aluminum die-cast products. The quarter of a million sq. ft facility offers state-of-the-art die-casting capabilities that have allowed MPP to continue technological advances in the field of die casting over the last 30 years.

EMPLOYMENT

Employment has grown from less than 100 employees in 1989 to over 500 at the beginning of 2021. Madison Precision is proud of the benefits that they are able to offer their employees including generous healthcare plans, the Marathon Health medical clinic, 401(k) & education reimbursement (among others). MPP offers numerous career opportunities in many different fields. Prospective employees can contact careers@madisonprecision.com for information on job opportunities.

ENVIRONMENT

Aluminum die-cast products attract widespread appreciation for the excellent recycling characteristics of their materials. MPP was registered to ISO 14001 in December 2000. The company has spent the last 20 years reducing its carbon footprint with reductions in the usage of electricity, natural gas, and water. MPP also recycles waste, sending refuse to a waste-to-energy solution. Madison Precision is working diligently to become a zero-landfill manufacturer.

Never satisfied with the status quo, MPP is constantly striving to make technological innovations that further their reductions in waste. MPP is committed to environmental excellence in every phase of the business for employees, their families, and the community.

COMMUNITY

Madison Precision is proud to support many programs and also sponsors a large number of community projects and events. In 1999, MPP worked with Minobu, Japan (home of the parent company METTS Corporation) on a sister city program with Madison. Via that initiative, the Madison riverfront was lined with beautiful Japanese cherry blossom trees. Madison Precision is proud of its community participation, sponsoring many events as well as contributing to many organizations that benefit the residents of Jefferson County.

TRAINING

Madison Precision Products maintains a state-of-the-art Training & Development Center (TDC). Under the TDC umbrella, employees can gain technical expertise allowing increasing skill levels and improving wage earnings. In addition, many training and educational opportunities are offered to qualified individuals, such as programs through Ivy Tech Community College's 'Achieve Your Degree' program. The TDC hub also supports high school equivalency certifications, on-the-job training, technical certifications, and other degree programs.

Madison Precision Products will continue to be innovative. Supporting educational initiatives for its associates while looking at new business opportunities and cutting-edge technology. MPP desires to be a company to accelerate associates' motivation and build brand image.

A company essential to its customers' success and foundationally supports their community and its members."

BEING LOCAL MATTERS, IF YOU HAVE A LOCAL OFFICE!

Is your local bank really local?

Unlike some banks, we really do have a location in the communities we serve.

You probably know the staff at our office and chances are they know you too. Decisions are made here by people who live and work where you do. They are local business leaders who know the local economy and the needs of the citizens. If you really want to bank local, pick an institution that has an office in your backyard.
