STEPS TO BUSINESS SUCCESS

- Put together an effective and detailed business plan. It is the blueprint to your success. Update your business plan to reflect changes as they occur. A good plan should be flexible enough to adapt to a changing environment. Include cash flow projections in your business plan; insufficient working capital can be hazardous.
- Become an entrepreneur, a manager and a technician –success in small business demands these traits.
- Take pride in your business; it is an extension of yourself.
- Understand your weaknesses, strengths, product and the market. Provide your customers with the right product at the right time.
- Know your competition, your field and your target area inside and out. Don't rely on assumptions and hunches.
- Trust yourself and your own judgment, but take the time to truly know your market and the products it values. Stay one step ahead by constantly evaluating your business and its role in the market.
- Serve the needs of the customers. Be sensitive to their needs, know how to reach them, and most of all, know what will convince them to buy your product or service. Advertising is essential.
- Know your limits. Are you willing to work day and night to make it work? Don't do it all yourself. Get moral support and the right kind of help to run your business. Professional consultants can help you tap into the full resources of your business.
- Select your staff carefully. Staff members are the faces that people associate with your business. Train them to perform the job to your satisfaction and reward them when the job is well done.
- Treat employees as individuals. Each has his/her own strengths, weaknesses and preferences.
- Read relevant newspapers and magazines daily; become familiar with the financial section. Keep up-to-date so you understand the big picture.
- Join relevant small business organizations and your local chamber of commerce to keep abreast of legislation, market changes and trends in the economy, and to gain access to networking opportunities and the ability to address issues with a larger voice.

A. BUSINESS STARTUP CHECKLIST

Before starting a small business in southeast Alabama, a number of steps must be taken. A detailed description of all the steps involved in starting a small business is discussed in the following sections of this book. The following checklist is designed for business owners to use as a general reference guide to plan and prepare adequately for entry into the world of entrepreneurship.

CHECKLIST

- Prepare a written business plan with financial statements included.
- Decide whether you wish to operate as a sole proprietorship, partnership or corporation.
- Choose a business name and determine if it must be registered.
- Establish a source of adequate and reliable financing.
- Check on zoning ordinances.
- Select a suitable location.
- Retain an attorney and CPA, if appropriate.
- Acquire all necessary licenses and permits.
- Obtain tax ID number and forms.
- Open bank accounts.
- Choose an accounting system and method of inventory control
- Arrange for utilities, telephone and other services.
- Determine insurance coverage needs.

B. GENERATING IDEAS

The main message of this manual is to stress the importance of prior planning and thinking through your idea. Prior planning encourages systematic thinking by management and leads to the development of proper controls. The result is a better overall preparedness and a more vivid sense of the interacting responsibilities.

The first step in the process is generating your idea. This is only the very first step; many things remain to be done before you can expect to realize and make money from the idea. At the minimum level your ideas will need to pass several tests so that you may determine whether or not it is an original idea, whether the idea can be produced and distributed profitably, and whether or not your idea can be protected. This seems simple enough until you examine the underlying questions that must be resolved. For example, to determine the commercial merit of an idea the following areas should be considered:

Functional Feasibility	Distribution
Environmental Impact	Safety
Functions	Perceived Need
Profitability	Existing Competition
Potential Sales	Societal Impact
Potential Market	Development Status
Product Life Cycle	Investment Costs
Usage Learning	Trend of Demand
Product Visibility	Product Line Potential
Service	Need
Durability	Promotion
New Competition	Appearance
Functional Feasibility	Price
Production Feasibility	Protection
Stability of Demand	Pay-Back Period
Consumer/User Compatibility	Marketing Research
Product Interdependence	Research and Development

A great deal of personal commitment is necessary to turn your idea into reality. Small business owners must be willing to work exceptionally long hours and often forego financial rewards in the early stages of their operations, if these rewards come about at all. All too many businesses fail, but proper planning and dedication will certainly increase your chances for a successful venture.

C. TECHNICAL & MANAGERIAL EXPERIENCE NEEDED

One of the most common mistakes made in starting a business is trying to do so without the necessary training and experience. Before you start a business, you should ask yourself whether you actually have the background, experience and training that is required. For example, a retailer would need some expertise in management, sales and buying. Management experience would need to include personnel, record keeping and marketing, as well as other skills.

If you do not already have this experience, how do you get it? Generally, it is best to work for a time in a company similar to your proposed business. This gives you a closer look at what that type of business entails without risking your investment during the learning period. Another suggestion for gaining expertise is to take courses at your local college or university. Most area schools offer both credit and continuing education courses. Various seminars and workshops are also offered throughout the year.

Many publications are available that offer help and insight into many of the day-to-day problems that a small business owner faces. The Small Business Administration (SBA) issues a wide range of management and technical publications to assist the small business owner. To obtain a list of the available publications go to:

- The Occupational Outlook Handbook. Description of jobs and qualifications with requirement projections.

The local library and area bookstores can also provide relevant reading material.

The Dothan Area Chamber of Commerce maintains a “Resource Library” with various publications that are helpful in small business development, as well as a computer with links to many Web pages and templates for developing handbooks. A copy of “The Code of Alabama” is also available. The Alabama Code is also available online:

or

It is not necessary to be an expert in every aspect of your business. Many small business people rely on outside services, such as those of qualified small business lawyers and certified public accountants. Also, other paid professional services are commonly available.

D. WRITING A BUSINESS PLAN

Writing a business plan is one of the most important early steps in starting or expanding a business. A business plan is a description of your business, including your product or service, your market(s), your people and your financial needs. Listed here are three major reasons why you should take the time to create a written business plan.

First, the process of putting a business plan together, including the thought you put into it before beginning to write the plan, forces you to take an objective, critical and unemotional look at your business project in its entirety. It is a useful management tool that can help you plot a course for your company's startup and initial growth.

Second, the finished product, your business plan, is an operating tool which will help you manage your business and provides a means to measure your success.

Third, a properly prepared business plan is a vital sales tool you will use to impress potential investors with your planning ability and your general competence as a manager and a businessperson. Since many businesses only start or expand through borrowed monies, the presentation of reliable and complete information in a business plan is essential.

SCORE has a Business Plan Training program available online at:

<http://www.tsbc.com/sbo/score/viewLesson.aspx?Lid=204&cid=1>

The Minority Business Development Agency (MBDA) Web site expounds upon the importance of a business plan and provides a "New Business Checklist" which lists a business plan as the first step and provides a link to a "Business Plan Writer."

WHAT A BANK LOOKS FOR IN A BUSINESS PLAN

The Business Plan is an excellent tool to present to a banker when financing is needed. A good business plan tells the banker that the applicant has put a great deal of thought and effort into this decision. A well-presented business plan will let the banker know that he is dealing with a serious, well-informed prospect, giving him more faith in you as an entrepreneur.

If a business plan is to be submitted to a bank, it is important to realize how a banker analyzes a business plan and what questions he or she will ask during this analysis. A banker's job is to assess the degree of risk in each proposed loan and to be satisfied that the borrower, while still allowing the businesses to operate profitably, can repay the loan. A banker does this by analyzing a number of things:

- The nature of the business
- The purpose of the loan
- The amount of the loan
- The ability to repay the loan
- Your business management ability

To convince a banker or investor of the merits of a loan request, a borrower must present complete, well-organized information, which addresses these and other concerns. It is important to remember that the proper packaging of a loan proposal can be an important step in getting it approved. The Small Business Administration (SBA) has several sample business plans, as well as many other publications, on its publications Web site at: <http://www.sba.gov/smallbusinessplanner/index.html> . Office Depot has a Business Plan section in its' "Small Business Handbook" online at: <http://www.officedepot.com/> , and over 60 sample business plans are available at: www.bplans.com .

F. CHOOSING A LEGAL STRUCTURE

Once you have decided to start a business, you must decide what type of business entity to use. Many legal and tax considerations will enter into a sound decision. These legal considerations can become very involved; we advise you to consult an attorney in determining the appropriate structure.

Base your decision on your specific circumstances, goals and needs.

The five principle forms of business structures are the proprietorship, the partnership, the corporation, the subchapter S corporation, and the limited liability company (LLC). These structures, along with their advantages and disadvantages, are listed below.

A sole proprietorship is an extension of the individual, and income is reported on the individual tax return using the individual's social security number.

Effective January 1, 2001, the Alabama Partnership Act was repealed and replaced with the 1996 Uniform Partnership Act (Covered in Alabama Code Title 10, Chapter 8A). The Alabama Limited Partnership Act of 1997 may be found at Title 10-2B, Code of Alabama, 1975, and the Limited Liability Company Act is located at Title 10-12. Corporations are covered in Title 10-2, Code of Alabama, 1975, and Title 26 of the U.S. Code and Title 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

The Sole Proprietorship

The sole proprietorship is usually defined as business owned and operated by one person. To establish a sole proprietorship, you need only obtain necessary licenses and begin operation.

Advantages

- Ease of formation
- Sole ownership of profits
- One owner has control and decision making power
- Flexibility in day-to-day management
- Relative freedom from government intervention

Disadvantages

- Unlimited liability – this extends to all of the proprietor's assets including the home and car, but may be lessened by proper insurance coverage
- Unstable business life – the business may be terminated upon the death of the owner
- Less available capital
- Difficulty in obtaining long-term financing
- Relatively limited viewpoint and experience

The Partnership

The Uniform Partnership Act, adopted by many states, defines a partnership as “an association of two or more persons to carry on as co-owners of a business for profit.” Though not specifically required by the act, written articles of partnership are customarily executed. These articles outline the contribution by the partners into the business (whether financial, material, or managerial) and generally delineate the roles of the partners in the business relationship.

Some of the characteristics that distinguish a partnership from other forms of business organizations are the limited life of a partnership, unlimited liability of at least one partner, co-ownership of the assets, sharing of managerial duties and a sharing of the profits.

Advantages

- Ease of formation
- Direct rewards
- Growth and performance facilitated
- Flexibility in decision-making
- Relative freedom from government control and special taxation

Disadvantages

- Unlimited liability of at least one partner
- Unstable life – elimination of either partner constitutes automatic dissolution of the partnership
- Relative difficulty in obtaining large sums of capital
- Firm bound by the acts of just one partner as agent
- Difficulty of disposing of partnership interest

Limited Liability Companies and Limited Liability Partnerships-LLC's and LLP's

For business entities formed as LLCs or LLPs have a beneficial tax status and limited liability of all its members. It is treated like a corporation for limited liability purposes and treated like a partnership for federal tax purposes. A summary of the features of the LLC and LLP is available online at www.asbdc.org//llc.htm.

The Corporation

The corporation is by far the most complex of the business structures. A corporation is a distinct legal entity, separate from the individuals who own it.

A corporation is formed by the authority of a state government. Because a corporation does business in more than one state, it must comply with federal laws regarding interstate commerce as well as with the state laws, which may vary considerably.

To begin the procedure ordinarily required to form a corporation, a subscription for capital stock must be taken and a tentative organization created. After that, approval must be obtained from the Secretary of State in the state in which the corporation is to be formed. This approval becomes a charter for the corporation, stating the limitations of the particular enterprise.

Advantages

- Limitations of the stockholders' liability to a fixed amount of investment
- Ownership is readily transferable
- Separate legal existence
- Stability and relative permanence of existence
- Relative ease of securing capital
- Delegated authority
- The ability to draw on the expertise and skills of many

Disadvantages

- Activities are limited by the charter and various laws
- Minority stockholders may be exploited
- Extensive government regulations and required reports
- Less financial incentives for the manager
- Double taxation – income tax on corporate net income (profit) and also on salaries and dividends

The Subchapter S Corporation

The Subchapter S Corporation is a legal corporation that is afforded special tax treatment under Subchapter S of the Internal Revenue Code. The characteristics of the S Corporation are: under state law, S Corporations retain the normal features of corporations, to include limited liability, but for federal tax purposes they are treated much like partnerships.

The S Corporation is absolved from payment of taxes; hence the stockholders report corporate income, loss, deductions and credits on their individual tax returns. In most all other aspects, the S corporation operates in compliance with state and federal laws relating to corporations just as a regular corporation.

Advantages

- Limited liability of stockholders
- Ownership is readily transferable
- Separate legal existence
- Taxed similar to partnership – profits pass through the corporation untaxed, but are taxed as individual stockholder income, loss, deductions and credits

Disadvantages

- Activities are limited by the charter and various laws
- Extensive government regulations and required reports
- No more than 75 stockholders
- S corporation cannot own more than 80 percent of any other corporation
- Stockholders must be individuals, not entities
- Stockholders must be resident citizens
- Only one class of stock may be issued
- The law prohibits S incorporation for the sole purpose of obtaining limited liability status

Procedures for Incorporation

The following procedures apply to the formation of an Alabama (domestic) For-Profit Corporation under Title 10, Code of Alabama 1975, as last amended.

The proposed name of the corporation must be reserved with the Corporate Section of the Office of the Secretary of State. If the proposed name is available, a Certificate of Name Reservation will be issued. This requirement may be accomplished by writing or calling the Corporate Section at (334) 242-5324. Alabama law requires that the name contain the word 'corporation' or 'incorporated' or an abbreviation of on such word. Additionally, there is a $10 fee for the certificate, which is collected when the articles of Incorporation are filed.

After receiving the Certificate of Name Reservation, the Articles of Incorporation may be filed. The necessary forms can be obtained and additional questions answered by writing or calling the following office:

State of Alabama
Office of the Secretary of State

THE CASH FLOW STATEMENT

The Cash Flow Statement is the most critical planning tool for a new or growing business. It shows how much cash will be needed, when it will be needed and where it will come from. It attempts to budget monthly cash needs and shows the flow of cash into the business from sales and collection of receivables. It shows the flow of cash out of the business through payment of expenses and loans over a period of time. The banker uses this information to analyze possible shortfalls of cash and as a guide to borrowing needs. Your statement should show Cash Flow over the full 12-month period. This Cash Flow Statement (reprinted from SBA management Aid 1.001 the ABC's of Borrowing) represents a cash flow statement for a three-month period.

By combining the monthly cash flow reports with an income statement for the year and your beginning and ending balance sheet, you will produce a statement of annual cash flow from operations. The monthly cash flow statement shows your need for seasonal borrowing, while the annual cash flow from operations shows the need for longer-term funds.

H. FEASABILITY CHECKLIST

This feasibility checklist is designed to help the pre-business person determine whether his or her idea represents a valid business opportunity. The high failure rate of new business indicates that relatively few new businesses result in successful ventures. Too many entrepreneurs strike out on a business venture absolutely convinced of its merits without having adequately evaluated its real potential.

A. REGULATIONS AND PERMITS

When determining what licenses and permits are required for your specific business, it is essential to consider what federal, state, county and city requirements must be met. Obtain this information early in the research process so you can decide if particular type of business is allowable in the area you are considering.

State licenses must be obtained by most every person, firm, company, corporation or association engaged in any business, vocation, occupation or profession, as well as a county license when required.

SCORE has a good checklist of possible permit requirements at http://www.score.org/bp_12.html.

The Alabama Department of Revenue has created a document on starting a business in Alabama. It is available at: <http://www.revenue.alabama.gov/taxpayerassist/Starting%20A%20New%20Business%208-07.pdf>.

The City of Dothan has created a very helpful Web site that outlines the requirements of doing business within the city. <http://www3.dothan.org/business.html>.

Title 40-12, Code of Alabama, 1975 covers state license requirements. Additionally, municipalities issue business licenses to do business within their limits. Authority of municipalities is covered in Title 11-51, Code of Alabama, 1975.

Alabama Department of Industrial Relations, Labor Market Information Division maintains a Web site on the Alabama Comprehensive Labor Market Information System that provides detailed information for all Alabama occupational licenses.

To view this document, go to <http://www2.dir.state.al.us/vlmi>, and click on “occupations.” The next screen will provide access to occupational license information. Additionally, the State Alabama Department of Industrial Relations has created a catalog of those occupations requiring a professional or occupational license. <http://www2.dir.state.al.us/OES/LOG%202006%20complete.pdf>

On the following page is a reference list of agencies and their phone numbers that you can contact to obtain specific information on permits and regulations relating to your particular business.

In addition to this list, it is recommended that entrepreneurs engage the help of a lawyer, preferably a lawyer familiar with the process of starting new businesses. Legal counsel could be invaluable in determining the proper licenses and permits required by your business.

C. ACCOUNTING & RECORDKEEPING

For new business owners, experience clearly indicates that an adequate record keeping system helps increase the chances of survival and reduces the probability of early failure. Similarly, for the established business owner, it has been clearly demonstrated that a good record keeping system increases the chances of staying in business and earning large profits.

It is practically impossible to negotiate a business loan from a bank without properly prepared financial statements. Without statements, it may be difficult to secure credit in any form. Bankers and other credit grantors study the business owner's balance sheet and income statement in order to decide whether to extend credit. Sometimes, audited financial statements are required. The record keeping system must provide the basis for these statements.

Similar to the importance of financial statements, adequate records are required by federal and local government agencies. The taxpayer is responsible for maintaining records and proving their accuracy. Federal and local taxes and an increasing number of other laws and regulations require certain reports that are easier to prepare and substantiate if the figures are organized by a good record keeping system.

Records backing up government requirements must be available during the audit period. Record retention will depend upon the statute of limitations set forth by local and federal law. It is important to consult an attorney to determine the requirements of governing statutes. Because of the cumulative volume of required records, storage and retrieval can become burdensome. Many business owners are microfilming their old records.

A number of "one-book" record keeping systems are available. Some are prepared with instructions and forms designed for specific kinds of businesses. Others are for small business use in general. Some trade associations, manufacturers and wholesalers offer specially designed record keeping systems to meet the general needs of a large variety of retail and service establishments. Business owners often want specialized assistance in adapting such systems to their special requirements.

Several available copyrighted systems provide simplified records, usually in a book. These systems cover basic records with complete instructions for their use.

A useful record keeping system must be simple to use, easy to understand, reliable, accurate, consistent and designed to provide information on a timely basis. To keep effective records you must be able to:

- Identify your earnings for self-employment tax purposes
- Identify the source of a receipt
- Keep track of all deductible expenses
- Figure depreciation allowance
- Take advantage of capital gain and loss laws
- Support items on your tax returns

Four basic types of records that most firms keep:

- Sales records
- Cash records
- Cash disbursements
- Accounts receivable

If you don't have the necessary experience, we recommended hiring a certified public accountant to develop your record keeping system.

Public accountants offer a variety of specialized management advisory services along with auditing, preparation of reports for government agencies, tax planning and analysis of financial reports.

ACCOUNTING SYSTEMS

Most accountants use computerized accounting software to prepare your monthly books. If you want to do your own books, you should consider an accounting program for your record keeping. Office supply retailers offer a wide selection of accounting programs. Accounting systems range from simple and inexpensive to powerful and rather costly. Some include the one-write system, a ledger-less system for accounts receivable and accounts payable, standard ledgers and journals, prepackaged services provided by banks and service bureaus, bookkeeping services, and accountants. With this wide variety of options it is important to choose a system that you can understand and feel comfortable using.

You should choose an accounting system that meets the needs of your business and includes the following objectives:

- The system should yield an accurate and precise picture of the operating results.
- The records should provide a convenient basis for comparing current data with previous year's operating results and budgetary goals.
- The financial data should be presented in a format that is useful to prospective creditors, bankers, auditors and management.
- The accounting records should reflect losses such as theft and bad debt.
- The accounting process should include compiling and filing reports and tax returns.

- The accounting records should be able to substantiate the value of fixed assets for insurance claims, in the event of a loss.

The United States Securities & Exchange Commission requires most publicly held corporations to file certain annual and interim quarterly reports.

The accounting system you choose can be established on an accrual or cash basis. In a cash system, the accounts are debited and credited as cash is received and paid out. In an accrual system, the income earned and the expenses incurred are recorded when the sale is made or whenever the expense is incurred. The accrual basis of accounting allows the matching of revenues and associated expenses. Because of this matching, the accrual basis is generally considered to be a more accurate and up-to-date statement of profits.

D. INSURANCE

Some small business owners recognize that insurance is necessary, but consider it burdensome. However, if used correctly insurance can contribute to the overall success of your business by reducing the uncertainties under which you operate. It can also reduce employee turnover, improve your credit at the bank, make it easier to sell to customers on favorable terms and help keep your small business going when insured peril interrupts your normal business operations. It is sensible for any business to purchase a number of basic types of insurance. The importance of good insurance management is too important to overlook. Therefore, it is essential that you discuss your insurance needs with an agent of your choice as early as possible.

- B. Taxes on the Business Itself
- C. Employment and Income Taxes
- D. Sales and Use Tax
- E. Ad Valorem Tax

A. INTRODUCTION TO BUSINESS TAXES

Taxes and tax structures are some of the most complex issues facing small business owners. Businesses may be subject to or responsible for collecting or withholding:

- Taxes on the business itself
- Sales and Use taxes
- Ad Valorem Taxes (Taxes on Property)
- Employment and Income Taxes.

As an aid to taxpayers, the IRS will furnish the CD “Small Business Resource Guide” (IRS Publication 3207) on request. It contains all of the business tax forms, instructions and publications needed by small business owners. It also provides information on how to prepare a business plan and find financing. A single free copy of the Small Business Resource Guide may be requested by calling the IRS at 1-800-829-3676. It may also be ordered online at www.irs.gov. Do a search for “Small Business CD.” The IRS also routinely sponsors small business tax workshops through the local Small Business Development Center. Contact the center for information.

The following information is related to the four basic tax groups that are applicable to small businesses.

B. TAXES ON THE BUSINESS ITSELF

Federal Taxes

Income from proprietorships, partnerships or other unincorporated businesses is subject to individual income taxes of the owners using form 1040 with appropriate schedules. Incorporated businesses are subject to U.S. corporate income tax laws. For further information contact:

Internal Revenue Service

State Taxes

Like the federal income tax, the state also requires that income from proprietorships, partnerships or other unincorporated businesses be taxed at the state individual income tax rate of the owners. In Alabama, both foreign and domestic corporations are subject to a net Income Tax and Business Privilege Tax. Several useful publications are available at <http://www.ador.state.al.us/bus.html>.

C. EMPLOYMENT AND INCOME TAXES

Employment-related taxes generally fit into three categories:

- Taxes you must pay for each employee
- Taxes you must withhold from each employee's pay
- Workers' compensation.

Workers' compensation is not actually a tax, but an expense related to employment. Workers' compensation rates vary depending on industry, occupation and risk factors involved.

For more information concerning employment taxes contact the appropriate state or federal agency.

In Alabama, taxes administered by the Individual and Corporate Tax Division include the following:

- Individual Income Tax
- Corporate Income Tax
- S-Corporations
- Business Privilege Tax
- Financial Institutions Excise tax
- Partnerships/LLC
- Fiduciary Tax
- Estate and Inheritance Tax

Individual Income Tax

This tax is on the entire net income of every individual and corporation domiciled in Alabama, and of every non-resident deriving income from within Alabama. Income tax is required to be paid throughout the year either by withholding or estimated tax.

All employers in the state are required to withhold Alabama income tax. Whenever a new employee begins a job, he or she is required to complete a form A-4, Exemption Certificate, and file it with the employer. The employer withholds Alabama Income Taxes on the basis of the information furnished by the employee on this exemption certificate. If an employer fails to secure a complete A-4 form from his employee, the employer must withhold Alabama income taxes on the basis of no exemptions. A federal form W-4 will not be recognized in lieu of a form A-4. Every employer is required to secure completed exemption certificates from his employees, even though he may not be required to withhold any Alabama income tax. Tax withheld is based on withholding tables or the formula provided in the State of Alabama Withholding Tax Tables and Instructions for Employers publication. Assignment of an Alabama withholding tax number is required before an employer may submit Alabama Income Tax to the Department of Revenue. Employers file an application for this withholding tax number. The taxpayer must use this code to identify all payments of Alabama withholding tax and include the number on all correspondence concerning the business's income tax withholding accounts.

A declaration of individual estimated income tax is required of an individual if he or she anticipates having income from sources other than wages. In the case of a single or married person filing separately having non-wage income of $1,500 or more and in the case of a married person living with spouse and filing a joint return having non-wage income of $3,000 or more, a declaration of estimated income tax is required.

Domestic corporations (corporations created or organized under the laws of the State of Alabama) must pay a corporate income tax imposed on net income at the rate of 5 percent. Foreign corporations (corporations created or organized outside Alabama) pay this tax at a rate of 5 percent also, and it is applicable to the net income from property situated within Alabama and/or from business transacted in Alabama.

Note: There are special rules with respect to the apportionment of income in the case of foreign corporations having income from both within and outside the State of Alabama.

The Individual and Corporate Tax Division can be reached at (334) 242-1103.

Corporate Income Tax

For tax years prior to 2001, the tax rate was 5 percent. As of Jan. 1, 2001, the tax rate is 6.5 percent.

Business Privilege Tax

The Alabama Business Privilege and Shares Tax replaces the domestic and foreign franchise tax.

To determine the tax rate for the Business Privilege Tax, begin with the federal taxable income; multiply that amount by the taxpayer's apportionment factor (Schedule B, line 9). The resultant amount is used in the rate schedule to determine the appropriate rate. Taxpayers having a loss for 1999 will use the lowest rate

Financial Institution Excise Tax

Any person, firm, corporation and any other legal entity doing business in this state as a national banking association, bank, banking association, trust company, industrial or other loan company or building and loan association, and such term shall likewise include any other institution or person employing moneyed capital coming into competition with the business of national banks, and shall apply to such person or institution regardless of what business form and whether or not incorporated, whether of issue or not, and by whatsoever authority existing.

Partnerships/LLC

A single-member LLC is not required to submit a separate Alabama income tax return.

D. SALES AND USE TAX

The Sales, Use and Business Tax Division of the Alabama Department of Revenue is made up of five sections:

- Sales and Use
- Business License
- Severance Tax
- Motor Fuels
- Tobacco

Each section administers and collects several taxes. Next to each section name below is the Web site address. These sites provide references to Alabama Code Sections and specifics on each tax.

<http://www.ador.state.al.us/salestax/menu.html> provides links to each section and provides specific information on each tax.

Any person desiring to conduct a retail business in Alabama must submit an application for sales tax license to the Department of Revenue. A percentage tax, which includes manufacturing, machinery and equipment and motor vehicles, is applied to all retail sales of tangible personal property, except for those organizations specifically exempt by action of the legislature. - Consumer's Use Tax
- Lodgings Tax

Sales Tax – Imposed on the retail sales of all tangible personal property sold in Alabama by businesses located in Alabama who have inventory for sale in the state. Vendors filing timely sales tax returns are entitled to a discount of 5 percent on the first $100 of tax and 2 percent on all tax over $100.

The tax rate is 4 percent of the gross receipts of sales of tangible personal property and the retail market value of any property bought at wholesale but withdrawn from stock and used or consumed (except sales of all new and used automotive vehicles, truck trailers, semi-trailer, and house trailers which are taxed at 2 percent of the net difference paid, farm machinery which is taxed at 1.5 percent of the net difference paid, and all sales of machines, parts, and attachments for machines used in manufacturing, processing, compounding, mining, and quarrying tangible personal property which are taxed at 1.5 percent), 4 percent of the gross receipts from places of entertainment or amusement, and 3 percent of the total cost price of food products sold through coin-operated vending machines. Local taxing authorities may also impose a sales tax; these rates vary.

Seller's Use Tax – Imposed on the retail sales of all tangible personal property sold in Alabama by businesses located outside Alabama that have no inventory for sale in Alabama, but only a sales office or agents soliciting retail sales in Alabama. This tax is due on a monthly basis and is to be remitted by the 20th of the month following the close of a month. Businesses filing timely reports are entitled to a 3 percent discount on Seller's Use Tax Return. The tax rate is 4 percent on sales price of tangible personal property; 1.5 percent on machinery used in mining, quarrying, and manufacturing; 2 percent of the sales price of automotive vehicles or on the net difference of such sales when a trade-in is involved. In addition to the state rate, there may be city and/or county use taxes due; these rates vary.

Consumer's Use Tax – Imposed on the tangible personal property brought into Alabama for its storage, use or consumption in the state when the supplier did not collect seller's use tax on the sale of the property. This tax is due on a monthly basis and is to be remitted by the 20th of the Lodgings Tax – Imposed upon every person or firm that rents or furnishes lodgings or accommodations to transients for a fee. This privilege tax is remitted on the 20th of each month following the month the tax accrues. Rental or Leasing Tax – Levied on the lessor for the leasing or renting of tangible personal property. Leasing tax is due on true leases. “True” leases are those in which the title to the property is retained by the lessor at the end of the lease agreement. “Conditional sale” leases, leases in which the title to the property is transferred to the lessee at the end of the lease agreement, are subject to sales tax. This tax, in both cases, should be remitted by the 20th of each month following the month that the tax accrues. No discounts apply. The tax rate is 1.5 percent of the gross proceeds from renting or leasing automotive vehicles trucks, semi-trailers, or house trailers; 2 percent of the gross proceeds from renting or leasing linens and garments; 4 percent of the gross proceeds from leasing or renting of all other tangible personal property.

Authorized and funded by a 1984 act of the Alabama Legislature, the Alabama Small Business Procurement System's bid delivery service operates through the existing Small Business Development Center (SBDC) network consisting of 11 state universities. SBDC personnel work with a business to develop precise codes and key words that identify the company's products or services and then enter them into the center's procurement computer. Bid information from the Commerce Business Daily, Alabama military installations, as well as state and local agencies are entered into Birmingham's host computer on a daily basis and transmitted through the microcomputer network. The SBDC matches a business's specific capabilities with bid opportunities and will fax or mail a notice so that the business can call the appropriate contracting bid agency for a bid package.

Through cooperative agreements with the Department of Defense and the state of Alabama, the SBDC assists firms and counsels them on how to do business with the Government. Areas of Counseling include bid package preparation, 8(a) and other minority programs, military packaging, pricing, bonding and quality assurance.

Training seminars held throughout the state teach business people about the government market and the bidding process. Larger procurement conferences provide small businesses the opportunity to network with government agencies and prime contractors.

For more information about the bid-matching service, training seminars and conferences, or procurement counseling, please contact the Small Business Development Center nearest you.

A. FINANCING OVERVIEW

Financing a small business is normally the entrepreneur's greatest obstacle when starting a new business. Developing a sound strategy for obtaining the proper type and amount of financing is crucial for the long-term success of any business opportunity.

Many financing options are available to today's entrepreneur. These include both public and private sources. Some of the more viable financing options are presented on the following pages:

B. FINANCING AGENCIES AND PROGRAMS

1. Small Business Administration

The SBA offers two general types of financing. The SBA 504 CDC loan program and the SBA 7a loan guaranty program. A tutorial on SBA guaranteed loans is available at <http://web.sba.gov/sbtn/registration/index.cfm?CourseId=29>.

The SBA Office of Advocacy annual reports of lending institution loan participation is available at: <http://www.sba.gov/advo/research/lending.html>

a. SBA 504 Loan Program

The SBA 504 CDC loan program can provide long term, fixed asset financing to eligible small businesses for the acquisition, construction, purchase, expansion or renovation of land and buildings. The maximum SBA debenture is $1.5 million when meeting the job creation criteria or a community development goal. Generally, a business must create or retain one job for every $50,000 provided by the SBA except for small manufacturers which have a $100,000 job creation or retention goal (see below). The maximum SBA debenture is $2 million when meeting a public-policy goal.

The public-policy goals are as follows:

- Revitalization of business district
- Expansion of exports
- Expansion of minority business development
- Rural development
- Increased productivity and competitiveness
- Restructuring because of federally mandated policies
- Changes necessitated by federal budget cutbacks
- Expansion of small business concerns owned and controlled by veterans (especially service-disabled veterans)
- Expansion of small business concerns owned and controlled by women

To obtain this type of loan, a business must submit a proposal to a certified development corporation's loan committee, which then submits an application to the SBA.

Finance specialists from any of the following CDCs will assist the small business in packaging the loan application.

b. SBA 7a Loan Program

The SBA 7a loan program can provide small businesses with long term financing for either fixed assets or working capital and has no specific job creation requirements. SBA's 7(a) Loan Program has a maximum loan amount of $2 million. SBA's maximum exposure is $1.5 million. Thus, if a business receives an SBA guaranteed loan for $2 million, the maximum guaranty to the lender will be $1.5 million or 75 percent. SBA Express loans still have a maximum guaranty set at 50 percent.

c. Additional SBA Programs

SBA provides a number of assistance programs in addition to their 504 and 7a type loans. These additional loan programs include:

- Low doc loan program;
- Export working capital programs;
- Contract lines of credit;
- Asset based lines of credit;
- International trade loans;
- Pollution control loans;
- Seasonal lines of credit
- Small general contractor financing

Also, as part of the SBA's goal of providing small business financing, they license financial organizations to act as Small Business Investment Companies (SBIC). These SBIC's are similar to venture capital companies and are privately owned and managed. For more information, please contact:

2. Southern Development Council
www.sdcinc.org

The Southern Development Council is a statewide, nonprofit, financial packaging corporation that helps small to medium businesses arrange long-term, fixed asset financing so that these businesses can finance their expansion or location in Alabama.

The SDC uses both public financing programs and Alabama banks as sources for a financial package that is best suited to each firm's individual needs. The Staff of the SDC is experienced in both private bank financing and public finance programs. By using both of these types of financing, the SDC can create a loan package that spreads the risk each lender must undertake, resulting in safer loans for the banker. This way, the business can receive financing that a single lender is normally unable to provide. For more information on this financing opportunity, contact the SDC at the following address:

3. Rural U.S. Department of Agriculture-Rural Development
(Formerly Farmers Home Administration) www.rurdev.usda.gov

Through the Rural Development state office, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), guarantees term loans to non-farming businesses in rural areas. The USDA Rural Development does not make direct loans under this program. The program offered by the USDA Rural Development is similar to that offered by the SBA 7a program, but is larger in scope. The USDA Rural Development Business and Industry program offers guarantees up to 80 percent on loans between $750,000 and $10 million. One stipulation of the program is businesses that apply for this loan must be located in communities with populations under 50,000. Priority will be given to communities with populations less than 25,000.

Under this program, fixed assets can be financed up to 30 years; machinery and equipment up to 15 years; and working capital up to seven years. The USDA Rural Development requires existing businesses to provide 10 percent tangible balance sheet equity and new businesses must provide 20 to 25 percent tangible balance sheet equity. Because it is a public program, job creation and retention are priorities.

Another program that the USDA Rural Development offers is aimed at communities that provide low interest loans to finance water and waste infrastructure and other essential community facilities such as fire, rescue and public safety, health services and community, social and cultural services. The program's interest rates are based on the community's median family income.

The USDA Rural Development has a relatively new community program guaranteed program. Under this program, a guarantee will normally not exceed 80 percent, and loan purposes are the same as community program insured loans.

For more information on this financing opportunity, please contact:

4. Private Financing

Direct bank loans are the chief source of private financing. These loans are negotiated directly with a bank. The loan terms are based on the bank's requirements.

Adequate preparation prior to meeting with a banker is key to successfully obtaining a direct bank loan. Write a detailed and accurate business plan. Having a good business plan provides evidence to a banker that you are fully prepared to enter into this business opportunity and will increase his faith in your ability to manage a successful business.

Approximately 90 percent of prospective borrowers that come to a bank for a loan are not prepared. Since bankers don't have time to do research for the borrower, it is safest and easiest for them to say no. The following is a list of suggestions that will increase your chances of getting a loan:

- ✓ Prepare the detailed business plan complete with financial statements.
- ✓ Choose a bank that has a reputation for making small business loans.
- ✓ Make an appointment with the banker. Do not just walk in.
- ✓ Demonstrate good character to the banker. This is one of the most crucial factors.
- ✓ Know what type of loan you want and how much money you need.
- ✓ Be prepared to personally guarantee the loan or meet certain equity requirements.
- ✓ Answer all questions openly and honestly.

5. Personal Savings

Another widely used funding source is the savings of the entrepreneur. Using personal savings shows future creditors that the owners are willing to stand behind their company. Banks and other creditors like to see this kind of faith before lending money to a small business.

Financing a business through personal or family savings is less risky and less costly than bank financing. Reducing risk and expenses early in the life of a business help insure its long-term success. For these reasons, financing a business with personal savings should be given every consideration.

Another factor that bankers consider when evaluating loan potential is personal budgeting experience. People who establish and follow a personal budget demonstrate to a banker that they have the necessary skills for developing and following a business budget. Budgeting is a critical factor in the success of a business. Based on these facts, we recommend that anyone who is considering opening a business first develop a personal budget.

6. Regional Revolving Loan Fund

The Southeast Alabama Regional Planning and Development Commission Revolving Loan Fund (RLF) is a locally controlled source of capital used to finance startup and expanding businesses whose projects will create permanent jobs and leverage private sector investment. As borrowers repay their RLF loans, the principal and interest payments are returned to the fund for lending to other businesses to create more jobs and investment opportunities.

The businesses targeted for RLF financing are:

- Small manufacturing companies
- Manufacturing-related services
- Unique services
- Companies that develop technology that will add value to the regional economy
- Businesses that help a community improve its development potential

Generally, retail businesses are not eligible.

Proceeds from RLF loans can be used to:

- Purchase land and buildings.
- Construct new buildings
- Renovate and modify existing buildings.
- Purchase machinery & equipment.
- Provide for permanent working capital.

Here are some advantages of the Southeast Alabama RLF for both borrowers and participating banks:

- Bank Participation
- Local Control
- Interest rates below prime and determined by project needs. By combining RLF and bank financing, the borrower can realize an effective rate well below market rates.

The RLF was not established to compete with the banking community or to be a lender of last resort. It was established to provide fill the gap between what the bank can reasonably lend on a project and what the business can provide in equity. Banks may offer attractive financing packages that lower debt service by utilizing RLF dollars. In short, the RLF should complement the lending activities of commercial banks.

The RLF program is a local economic development initiative. Loan decisions are made locally by the RLF Loan Administration Board, which is representative of the regional community. Local emphasis means faster response to loan requests and a minimum of red tape. However, state and federal regulations do apply.

RLF Guidelines

- Business startup or expansion must result in the creation of permanent jobs.
- RLF can finance up to one-third of the total project cost.
- Businesses must provide 10 to 25 percent of the project cost in cash equity.
- Below prime fixed interest rates are available.
- Loans available from $10,000 to $125,000.
- Loan terms available up to 20 years for fixed assets and up to five years for working capital.
- Principals and business must be credit-worthy and generate sufficient cash flow to repay project debt service requirements.
- Principals of the business must provide personal guarantees.
- Hazard insurance naming SEARP&DC as loss payee required.
- Borrower is responsible for all legal costs associated with the loan.
- Borrower must pay a onetime processing fee of 1.5 percent of the RLF loan amount at time of loan closing. An annual servicing fee of 0.5 percent of the declining loan balance will be charged thereafter.
- Business must be located in Barbour, Coffee, Covington, Dale, Geneva, Henry or Houston County.

The Southeast Alabama Regional Planning and Development Commission (SEARP&DC) and its member counties were designated as an Economic Development District by the U.S. Department of Commerce Economic Development Administration on April 11, 1970. The agency receives assistance annually for economic development planning and technical assistance. Contact the commission at:

b. Alabama Linked Deposit Program

The Alabama Linked Deposit Program is a public/private partnership designed to help stimulate economic growth and development in the state. The state treasurer will use a small portion of the state investment portfolio to deposit with Alabama banks or savings and loan associations. These deposits are linked to individual loans made to eligible small businesses or farmers. The financial institution pays up to a 2 percent lower rate on the state deposits and must charge a corresponding lower rate to the borrower.

To apply for a Linked Deposit loan, follow this process:

- The borrower should go to bank or savings and loan association and complete an application for a Linked Deposit loan.
- The financial institution will review the loan application and apply its own criteria for credit worthiness.
- If the program requirements are met, the treasurer's office will notify the financial institution.
- The financial institution will then make the loan to the borrower.

Any person, corporation or partnership engaged in business that meets the following criteria may be eligible to receive a Linked Deposit loan.

The small business must:

- Have headquarters in Alabama
- Create and sustain job opportunities
- Have debts equal to or greater than 35 percent of assets
- Be organized for profit
- Have fewer than 150 employees
- Maintain facilities exclusively in Alabama

Though the loan does not have a maximum amount, one job must be created or sustained for each $15,000 of loan. Loan requests of more than $250,000 must demonstrate that one job can be created for each $10,000 of loan. The Linked Deposit is only available for two years; however, the loan may be made for five to 10 years or longer. The lower rate applies only to the loan's first two years.

Examples of uses of this type of loan:

- Wages
- Inventory
- Land, building and equipment
- Legal and accounting fees
- Repairs and renovations
- Rent
- Utilities
- Insurance
- Taxes

C. FINANCIAL RATIO ANALYSIS

Financial ratios are one of the principal tools used by the business community to help in financial analysis planning and control. By analyzing key financial ratios, a company can thoroughly assess the strengths and weaknesses of its financial position.

The sources of these financial ratios are the balance sheet, income statement and the statement of retained earnings. The accuracy of the financial ratios obtained from these basic financial statements is dependent upon these statements being properly prepared and up-to-date. We strongly suggest that you employ an accountant or CPA familiar with small business financing to prepare these statements and perform the ratio analysis. Once the ratio analysis has been completed, the information provided can be invaluable.

Ratios can be used for many things, including making comparison of the firm's present position to its position in prior periods. This ratio comparison reveals whether the firm is growing stronger or showing signs of weakness. Another use of ratios is to allow management to make comparisons to the current budget. Ratio analysis also allows a company to compare itself to the industry as a whole. When the ratios for a company are compared to the national averages, a company can see its position in comparison to competitors. With this knowledge, a company has a stronger base on which to plan for the future and a better idea of the areas that need improvement to remain strong and competitive.

Three basic types of financial ratios:

- Profitability ratios
- Activity ratios
- Liquidity ratios

The following is an explanation of these ratios and some examples of specific ratios under each of the categories.

Profitability ratios help a firm judge how effectively it is being managed. These profitability ratios include the following:

$$\text{Operating Margin} = \frac{\text{Income Before Taxes and Interest}}{\text{Net Sales}}$$

$$\text{Net Profit Margin} = \frac{\text{Net Income}}{\text{Net Sales}}$$

$$\text{Return on Assets (ROA)} = \frac{\text{Net Income}}{\text{Total Assets}}$$

$$\text{Return on Investment (ROI)} = \frac{\text{Net Income}}{\text{Shareholders Equity}}$$

Activity ratios measure how effectively the firm employs its resources. These ratios compare sales level and investment in various asset accounts. The activity ratios include the following:

$$\text{Average Collection Period} = \frac{360 \text{ Days}}{\text{Accounts Receivable Turnover}}$$

$$\text{Average Age of Inventory} = \frac{360 \text{ Days}}{\text{Inventory Turnover}}$$

Inventory Turnover

$$\text{Average Payment Period} = \frac{360 \text{ Days} \times \text{Average Accounts Payable}}{\text{Annual Purchases of Goods and Services}}$$

Liquidity ratios show a firm if it is going to be able to meet its maturing obligations. By relating the amount of cash and other current assets to the current obligations, these ratios determine the degree of liquidity of the company. Liquidity ratios include the following:

$$\text{Current Ratios} = \frac{\text{Current Assets}}{\text{Current Liabilities}}$$

$$\text{Quick Ratio} = \frac{\text{Cash, Short-Term Marketable Securities and Net Receivables}}{\text{Current Liabilities}}$$

$$\text{Cost of Sales to Inventory} = \frac{\text{Cost of Sales}}{\text{Inventory}}$$

$$\text{Sales to Receivables} = \frac{\text{Net Sales}}{\text{Trade Receivables (Net)}}$$

Several sources can be used for comparing your results to the results of the industry as a whole. These sources include the following:

1. Dun and Bradstreet - The most widely known and used industry average ratios. They provide 14 ratios calculated for several different industries, including manufacturing and construction, wholesalers and retailers.
2. Trade Associations and Public Accountants - Financial ratios for many industries are compiled by trade associations and constitute an important source for a financial manager seeking comparative data.
3. Robert Morris Associates - Industry average ratios based on financial statements received by banks in connection with loans they have made. Eleven ratios are computed for a wide range of industries.
4. Quarterly Financial Reports for Manufacturing Corporations The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) and the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) jointly publish quarterly data on manufacturing companies. This information includes an analysis by industry group and asset size, as well as financial statements in ratio form. These reports are a rich source of information and are frequently used for comparative purposes.

D. GLOSSARY

Accrued Expenses - Wages, interest, property taxes, etc., which are expenses due at the end of the period but not paid.

Amortization - The process of gradually paying off a liability over a period of time, i.e., a mortgage is amortized by periodically paying off part of the face amount of the mortgage.

Assets-Liquid - The valuable resources or properties and property rights owned by an individual or business enterprise. Some of the most common liquid assets of a business include cash, marketable securities, accounts receivable, and inventory.

Assets-Capital - Equipment used to manufacture a product or provide a service, or used to sell, store or deliver merchandise. Such equipment will not be sold in the normal course of business, but will be used and worn out. Land and building should be included here.

Break-Even Analysis - A method used to determine the point at which the business will neither make a profit nor incur a loss. That point is expressed in either the total dollars of revenue exactly offset by total expenses (fixed or variable), or in total units of production, the cost of which exactly equals the income derived by their sale.

Business Plan - An objective written review of a business to identify areas of weakness and strength, pinpoint needs and begin planning how to best achieve goals.

Cash Flow - The actual movement of cash within a business; cash inflow minus cash outflow. A term used to designate the reported net income of a corporation plus amounts charged for depreciation, depletion, amortization and extraordinary charges to reserves, which are bookkeeping deductions and not actually paid out in cash. Used to offer a better indication of the ability of a firm to meet its own obligations and to pay dividends than the conventional net income figure.

Cash Management - A service designed to help you get the most out of your business' cash resources. Beginning with a plan of your cash needs, it can help manage collection, disbursement, control and investment of cash.

Cash Position - See liquidity.

Corporation - An artificial legal entity created by government grant and endowed with certain powers; a voluntary organization of persons, either actual individuals or legal entities legally bound together to form a business enterprise.

Current Assets - Cash or other items that will normally be turned into cash within one year, and assets that will be used up in operations of a firm within one year.

Current Liabilities - Amounts owed that will ordinarily be paid by a firm within one year. Such items include accounts payable, wages payable, taxes payable, the current portion of long-term debt, other short-term bank debt and interest and dividends payable.

Current Ratio - A ratio of a firm's current assets to its current liabilities. The current ratio includes the value of inventories that have not yet been sold, so it is not the best evaluation of the current status of the firm. The acid test ratio, covering the most liquid of current assets, provides a better evaluation.

Debt Capital Financing - Money borrowed with the intention of paying it back plus interest. Banks provide only this type of financing.

Debt to Worth Ratio - A ratio of a business' total liabilities to its net worth. This tells creditors how much debt a firm has in relation to equity in the business. The higher the number, the more debt in the business.

Deferred Pre-Paid Expenses - Includes insurance premiums, interest expense, promotional material, office supplies, etc., which are paid in advance and expensed over a period of time.

Depreciation - A reduction in the value of fixed assets. The most important causes of depreciation are wear and tear, the effect of the elements and gradual obsolescence that makes it unprofitable to continue using some assets until they have been exhausted. The purpose of the bookkeeping charge for depreciation is to write off the original cost of an asset (less expected salvage value) by equitably distributing charges against operations over its entire useful life.

Dividend - A disbursement, usually in the form of cash, of profits to the owners of a business. This is an after-tax expense of the business.

Entrepreneur - An innovator of a business enterprise who recognizes opportunities to introduce a new product, a new productive process or an improved organization, and who raises the necessary money, assembles the factors of production and organizes an operation to exploit the opportunity.

Equity - The monetary value of a property or business that exceeds the claims and/or liens against it.

Equity Capital Financing - Money given to a business, without the intention of paying it back, in return for part ownership of the business. Banks do not provide this type of financing.

Guaranty - A written commitment by an individual or authorized legal entity to pay back a loan in the event the borrower is unable to do so. Guaranties can be unlimited (the full amount of the loan) or limited to a specific amount.

Hypothecate - Occasionally, the provider of collateral for a loan is someone other than the borrower. In order to give the creditor the same rights to this collateral that the owner has, he hypothecates it.

Illiquid - See Liquidity.

Leasing - A way to finance equipment, fixtures or buildings. It is a type of financing for the full amount of the equipment, etc., and eliminates the need for a business to put a large sum of cash into the purchase. There is no standard way to lease. You can lease with or without maintenance, by the month, year or several years and with or without the option to purchase.

Leverage - The relationship of other people's money (debt) in relation to your own investment (equity) in your business. This is measured by the debt-to-worth ratio.

Liquidity - A term used to describe the solvency of a business. Has special reference to the degree of readiness in which assets can be converted into cash to meet current liabilities; the firm is said to be illiquid.

Long-term Liabilities - Liabilities (expenses) that will not mature within the next year.

Management - The overall responsibility for planning your business' goal and objectives and assuring that these plans are carried out.

Market - The number of people and their total spending (actual or potential) for a product line within the geographic limits of its distribution ability. The market share is the percentage of total sales of a product by a particular company.

Net Worth - The owner's equity in a business represented by the excess of total assets over total liabilities at a given moment of time. Also, the net worth of an individual as determined by deducting all personal liabilities from the total value of personal assets.

Partnership - A legal relationship created by the voluntary association of two or more individuals to carry on as co-owners of a business for profit; a type of business organization in which two or more individuals agree on the amount of their contributions (capital and effort) and on the distribution of profits, if any.

Pro Forma - A projection or estimate of what may result in the future from action in the present. A pro forma financial statement is one that shows how the actual operations of the business will turn out if certain assumptions are realized.

Profit - The excess of the selling price over all costs and expenses incurred in making the sale. Also, the reward to the entrepreneur for the risks assumed by him in the establishment, operation and management of a given enterprise or undertaking.

Receivables - Short-term credit extended by a business to customers for goods or services purchased. When sales are on a cash basis only, a business would not have receivables as an asset on its balance sheet. As a business asset, receivables usually rank second only to cash in liquid value. As such, banks may frequently request an aging of receivables, which is a list of accounts receivable according to the length of time they have been outstanding. This shows which accounts are being paid in a timely manner and may reveal any difficulty in collecting long overdue receivables. It is an important indication of potential cash flow problems.

Sole Proprietorship or Proprietorship - A type of business organization in which one individual owns the business. Legally, the owner is the business and personal assets are typically exposed to liabilities of the business.

Sub-Chapter "S" Corporation or Tax Option Corporation - A corporation that has elected under Sub Chapter S (by unanimous consent of its shareholders) not to pay any corporate tax on its income and instead have the shareholders pay taxes on it, even though it is not distributed. Shareholders of a tax option corporation are also entitled to deduct their shares of any net operating loss sustained by the corporation on their individual returns, subject to limitations in the tax code.

Subordination - The priority of payment of notes payable to creditors. For example, it is common to see notes payable officers in a corporation's liabilities. The bank may wish to strengthen its loan to this corporation by placing it in a preferred position of repayment to notes payable officers. To do so, it will request the officers to subordinate repayment of their notes to the bank's.

Takeover - The acquisition of a company by another company.

Target Market - The specific individuals, distinguished by socioeconomic, demographic, and/or interest characteristics, who are the most likely potential customers for the goods and/or services of a business.

Trade Payable - Credit extended by a supplier for goods purchased. It is the most used form of short-term credit, especially among small businesses. Suppliers set the terms, (30-90 days, etc.) and if it is paid within this specified period, there is no interest. If paid early, there is sometimes a discount on the purchase price.

Working Capital, Net - The excess of current assets over current liabilities. These excess current assets are available for carrying on business operations.

CONTRACTING

- A. Government Contracting
- B. Minority Business Contracting

A. Government Contracting

Many small businesses gain success through contracting with government agencies. The Small Business Administration estimates that the federal government procures about $450 billion of goods and services annually, and they provide guidance for people who would like to pursue government contracts for goods and services.

<http://www.sba.gov/contractingopportunities/index.html>

In order to participate in government contracting opportunities, companies must be registered. Central Contracting Registration (CCR) is online at:

<http://www.ccr.gov/>

The Federal Procurement Data System (FPDS) has information on contracting goals, contracts awarded and contractor registration. <https://www.fpds.gov>

Special consideration is provided to small businesses bidding on government contracts if the company is located in a HUBZone or if the company is certified as an 8 (a) company.

HUBZone- Historically Underutilized Business Zone

<https://eweb1sp.sba.gov/hubzone/internet/index.cfm>

8 (a) Company -A firm owned and operated by socially and economically disadvantaged individuals and eligible to receive federal contracts under the Small Business Administration's 8(a) Business Development Program.

The Minority Business Development Agency (MBDA) provides informational resources and assistance to minority-owned businesses. Their Web site provides information on government contracting.

Within Alabama, the Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs (ADECA) maintains an Office of Minority Business Enterprises. The Office of Minority Business Enterprise's (OMBE) primary objective is to serve and promote the interest of small and minority-owned and female-owned businesses. The office provides information on procurement and contracting opportunities with federal, state, county and city agencies and assists in meeting state procurement opportunities. Additionally, the office provides certification for minority and female-owned businesses.

B. Minority Businesses Contracting

A minority business enterprise is defined as a for-profit enterprise, regardless of size, which is owned, operated and controlled by U.S. citizens who are African-American, Hispanic-American, Native-American, Asian Pacific-American or Asian-Indian-American.

Minority Business Enterprises (MBEs) represent 15 percent of all businesses in the United States. In 2008, the largest corporations in the United States purchased over $120 billion in goods and services supplied by MBEs. The South Region Minority Supplier Development Council was created in 1983 to facilitate relationships between corporations, educational, governmental and health care entities and certified MBEs.

Alabama Minority Business Opportunity Center (MBOC)

<http://www.mboalabama.org/>

The Alabama Minority Business Opportunity Center is funded through a grant from the Minority Business Development Agency and operated by the South Regions Minority Business Council. The council's mission is to assist corporations, universities and government agencies in developing business opportunities with certified minority business enterprises. The center addresses issues and provides assistance to facilitate the success and growth of certified MBEs.

STRATEGIC GOALS “Contacts to Contracts”

The primary goal of the Alabama MBOC is to provide brokering services and assistance to rapid growth potential MBEs while converting contacts to contracts by providing assistance beyond the introductory process. The center maintains a database of viable MBEs as well as potential contracts and financial opportunities, offers assessment of a MBEs capability to satisfy a buyer’s needs and provides brokering and bidding assistance in the closing of contract awards.

The Alabama MBOC continually collects and disseminates procurement and bid information vital to the success of rapid growth-potential MBEs. We will also identify other funded projects that specialize in specific growth assistance.

South Region Minority Supplier Development Council (SRMSDC)

www.srmsdc.org

The mission of the South Region Minority Supplier Development Council (SRMSDC) is to expand business opportunities MBEs and create mutually beneficial links between corporate members and MBEs. The ultimate outcome is to add economic value to the supply chain while increasing economic opportunities for the minority business community.

South Region Minority Supplier Development Council

Birmingham, Ala. 35210
(205) 957-1882

Benefits of becoming a Certified Minority Supplier include:

- Expanded business opportunities. More than two-thirds of MBEs confirm an increase in revenues as a result of partnership with corporate members.
- Local, regional and national referrals of minority business to member corporations.
- Exposure to about 3,600 leading national, regional and local companies.
- Access to corporate buyers.
- Listing in the SRMSDC and National Minority Supplier Development Council MBE computer database.
- Participation in education programs and workshops to assist in personal and professional growth.
- Opportunities to network with corporate members at various SRMSDC events and activities.
- MBE to MBE business opportunities.

CHAPTER 7

EMPLOYMENT LAW IN ALABAMA

- A. Right-to-Work and At-Will
- B. Child Labor Provisions
- C. Federal Employment Law
- D. Small Business Regulatory Compliance

A. RIGHT-TO-WORK AND AT-WILL EMPLOYMENT

RIGHT TO WORK

According to the National Right to Work Legal Defense Foundation, the right to work principle affirms the right of every American to work without being compelled to join a union. The Taft-Hartley Act of 1947 allowed the states to prohibit agreements requiring membership in a labor organization as a condition of employment. In 1953 Alabama passed such legislation, and it is incorporated in Title 25-7, Code of Alabama, 1975. Section 25-7-32 states: "No person shall be required by an employer to become or remain a member of any union or labor organization as a condition of employment or continued employment."

AT-WILL

At-will means that the employee or employer can terminate employment on a moment's notice for any reason - good, bad, indifferent, or no reason at all. Unless the termination violates federal or state law, company policies or an implied contract, an at-will employee can do little to protest such action.

For cause employment means the opposite: the employer cannot discharge the employee without a legitimate reason.

Examples of situations where an employer cannot fire without good reason:

- The company's employment policy requires for cause justifications for firings.
- A contract exists (implied, oral or written) with the employer that contains such a provision.
- The employee is a member of a labor union and protected by a collective bargaining agreement.
- The employee is a government employee under the protection of civil service laws.
- State law prohibits at-will terminations (Alabama does not.)
- Employee termination would violate protective state or federal law such as whistleblower's protection, civil rights, age or disability protections.
The term whistle blowing refers to workplace safety violations of the employer for which a complaint is lodged by the employee to the employer or outside government agency.
The employee is protected from retaliation by the employer under these circumstances.

For cause employment is recognized either in a written employment contract or the employer's verbal statements (in some states).

B. CHILD LABOR PROVISIONS

The minimum age for employment outside school hours is 14. The minimum age for most employment is 16, including many manufacturing jobs. Teenagers younger than 18 cannot work jobs that have been declared hazardous by the secretary of labor. In Alabama, employees younger than 21 are prohibited from dispensing alcohol in places where those beverages are served for consumption on the premises.

Teenagers younger than 16 may not exceed 40 hours of work per week during summer vacation and no more than 18 hours per week when school is in session. Also, during school session, students who are younger than 18 may not work past 10 p.m. on nights preceding a school day.

All teenagers younger than 17 who are employed must obtain a work permit for each job they hold.

C. FEDERAL EMPLOYMENT LAW

In addition to your product knowledge, you must develop familiarity with employment law.

Non-compliance can lead to high costs in lawsuits and fines. As seen below, even with only one employee several laws apply. Most of these laws have record-keeping requirements in addition to operational requirements. The acts passed by Congress are codified in the U.S. Code, and the regulations that provide particulars for implementation first come out in the Federal Register and are then incorporated in the Code of Federal Regulations. Links to all federal laws are available at: <http://www.law.cornell.edu/>.

D. SMALL BUSINESS REGULATORY COMPLIANCE

In 1996, Congress passed the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act in response to concerns expressed by the small business community that federal regulations were too numerous, complex and expensive to implement. The act was designed to give small businesses assistance in understanding and complying with regulations and a stronger voice in the development of new regulations.

In May 2007, President Bush signed into law the Small Business Compliance Assistance Enhancement Act of 2007. The act proposes to:

- Clarify requirements that agencies would have to meet.
- Ensure that the guides are useful to small businesses and other small entities.
- Clarify the guides should be published simultaneously with the final agency rule or as soon as possible after publication.

- Require agencies to report annually to Congress on how they are meeting the requirements of this act.

- Businesses with one or more employee(s) are regulated by OSHA
- Small businesses have fewer record keeping requirements
- Which OSHA standards apply to their business and how OSHA enforces these standards

Small Business Development Centers have partnered with OSHA consultation programs to help small businesses know and comply with safety and health regulatory requirements

Benefits for businesses include protecting the worker, thus decreasing worker's compensation costs and ensuring compliance with OSHA. OSHA penalties could be detrimental to the profits of a small business.

CHAPTER 8

NEW EMPLOYEE REPORTING REQUIREMENTS

- A. Alabama New Hire Reporting
- B. The I-9 Form

A. ALABAMA NEW HIRE REPORTING REQUIREMENTS

All employers are required to report each newly hired or recalled employee to the Department of Industrial Relations. The information must be furnished within seven days from the date of hire or reemployment. (Employers electing to file magnetically or electronically may transmit twice monthly, not less than 12 days or more than 16 days apart, when required.) Employers who fail to report newly hired or recalled workers may be fined up to $25 for each violation.

All reports of hire will require the following data: employee's name, address and social security number; first day of work and whether newly hired or recalled to work. Also required are the employer's federal employer identification number, name and address. The information may be provided by report-of-hire card, magnetic media, electronic media or W-4 or other hard copy. The W-4 must be annotated with the date the employee begins work. The W-4, as well as other hard copy reports such as printouts, may be mailed or faxed to the new hire unit. Employers using the report-of-hire card need only furnish employee information, as all required employer information would be pre-printed on the card.

You may contact the Alabama Department of Industrial Relations New-Hire Unit by one of the following:

B. FORM I-9 REQUIREMENTS

The Immigration and Nationality Act requires employers to verify all employees' identity and eligibility to work in the United States. Employers must complete a Form I-9 for all employees, even U.S. citizens. The form must be retained by the employer and may be requested for review by the Bureau of Immigration and Customs Enforcement (formerly the Immigration and Naturalization Service or INS) or during a wage and hour audit by the Department of Labor.

Form I-9 requires the employee to produce documents showing his or her eligibility to work in the United States and the employer to examine those documents. Both must sign Form I-9. The employer then retains the form.

Who must complete an I-9?

- Form I-9s must be completed and retained for all employees hired after Nov. 6, 1986.
- This requirement applies to all employers; there is no minimum number of employees.
- Not covered: casual hires, independent contractors and employees of independent contractors, domestic servants in B-1 status and B-1 trainees on short term training programs.

How and when must the Form I-9 be completed?

- The employer must complete Form I-9 within three business days of hire.
- If the employee cannot produce verification documents within three days, he/she can have up to the 90th day of hire if he/she submits a receipt for an application of replacement documents.
- In Section 2 of Form I-9, the employer must attest that it has examined documents verifying both identity and work eligibility. The I-9 form provides lists of acceptable documents, which duplicates the lists on the I-9 Handbook for Employers.

How long must employers retain the Form I-9?

- Employers must retain the completed I-9 and make it available for inspection by the BICE or the U.S. Department of Labor until the later of three years from the date of hire or one year after termination.
- Employers are advised to have a separate file for I-9 forms for all employees rather than include them in the individual personnel files.
