St. Johns River and Tributaries

For nearly 300 miles, the twisted course of the St. Johns River runs northward, up nearly one half the length of the state.

William Bartram explored the river in 1773, however the source of the river wasn't charted until 1822. Flowing northward, the St. Johns passes through nine lakes, eventually emptying into the Atlantic Ocean.

The waterways in Putnam County are popular for boating activities, including sailing, kayaking and canoeing. The riverbanks are perfect for viewing wildlife, so make sure to bring binoculars. The annual Mug Race held the first Saturday in May draws hundreds of sailboats of all shapes and Putnam County is home to three of the "Top 10" fisheries in Florida, as designated by the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission. The climate ensures excellent fishing year round.

While known as the "Bass Capital of the World," Putnam offers a wide variety of freshwater, saltwater and brackish water fishing. Freshwater species includes largemouth bass, black crappie, bluegill, shellcracker and catfish. Salt water species includes red fish, flounder, sea trout and tarpon. In the summer and early fall months, shrimp migrate up the St. Johns River and are easily caught off docks or Lake George, the second largest lake in Florida after Lake Okeechobee, is not only one of the premier largemouth bass fishing lakes, it is also perfect for crappie and blue gill.

If you are looking for catfish, the St. Johns River and Dunns Creek are top spots for channel catfish and white catfish. Big channel catfish are usually reported in the upper and lower St. Johns River and Dunns Creek system from early May through June. Small catfish can be caught all year, but best fishing occurs in the spring and fall. This area is listed as a top spot according to Florida Fish and Wildlife Commission.

The St. Johns River is also a prime spot for catching striped bass and sunshine bass, with fish in the 8 to 12-pound range being common. Striped bass move through the system during fall and winter. Popular spots include Memorial Bridge, and the jetties and bombing ranges in Lake George.

Marjorie Harris Carr Cross Florida Greenway, Kenwood and Rodman Recreation Area

Crossing Central Florida from the St. Johns River to the Gulf of Mexico, the Cross Florida Greenway is a 110-mile corridor that crosses a variety of natural habitats.

Putnam County is the east trailhead for the Greenway, with several recreation areas including Kenwood and Rodman Recreation Areas, located on Rodman Reservoir, Buckman Lock and the St. Johns Loop Trails.

At the trailhead, south of Palatka, there are a series of trails that include a 4.5-mile hiking trail that meanders through natural woodlands of cypress wetlands and hydric hammocks.

The Putnam County segment of the 1,300-mile footpath for the Florida National Scenic Trail is accessible at the Cross Florida Greenway. The trail runs north to Rice Creek Sanctuary, connects with the Palatka-to-Lake Butler Trail and Etoniah State Forest. For more information, contact Florida Trail Association. 1-(877) HIKE-FLA.

The St. Johns Loop trail has a 2-mile equestrian trail that travels along the south side of the Cross Florida Barge Canal. Cross Florida Greenway, Kenwood and Rodman

Recreation Areas provide observation spots for viewing all types of birds, including limpkin, coot, common gallinule, wood ducks, swallowtail kite, osprey, southern bald eagle, woodpeckers, jays, hawks, flycatchers, wrens, heron, white ibis, and a variety of egrets.

Recommended launch area for the Oklawaha River for boating, kayaking and canoeing is located at Rodman Recreation Dam and pull out is located at the S. R. 19 Bridge.

Camping is available by reservation at Rodman Recreation area. Sites include Recreational vehicle hook-ups, bathrooms and primitive campsites for tents. To reserve a site, call (386)

The Cross Florida Greenway is located approximately 9 miles south of Palatka on S. R. 19. To get to Rodman Dam, travel south on S. R. 19 to Rodman Recreation Area. Turn right on Rodman Dam Road and follow to the Dam launch.

Murphy Creek & Island

Murphy Creek is approximately 4 miles long and runs along the east bank of Murphy Island, located at the confluence of Dunns Creek and the St. Johns River. Paddlers can put in at Brown's Landing Road south of Palatka and paddle across the St. Johns River at Marker 16 to the mouth of Dunns Creek.

Murphy Creek Conservation Area has 1,707 acres that are predominantly hardwood swamp. Murphy Island contains one of the few upland areas along the St. Johns River that can be reached by boat. Primitive camping is permitted at designated sites only in Murphy Creek Conservation Area. The entrance to the conservation area is located off of U.S. 17, west on C.R. 309-B. A parking area is approximately one-half mile on the north side of the road.

Access to Murphy Island is by boat only. For more information, contact the St. Johns River Water Management District Division of Land Management at (386) 329-4404.

A series of foot trails offers the public an opportunity to walk and observe wildlife. While walking the trails of Welaka State Forest, look for woodpeckers, eagles, hawks, wrens, warblers, Osceola turkey, heron, egrets, and owls.

The Sandhill Horse Trail is available for equestrian use, as well as hiking. Welaka State Forest also manages a 72-horse stable, training arenas and horse show arena, which are all available for rental.

Welaka State Forest has 2,288 acres of various ecosystems along the east bank of the St. Johns River. The Division of Forestry maintains the integrity of the natural systems while allowing outdoor recreation use and environmental education, including complete equestrian facilities. Welaka State Forest is located approximately 17 miles south of Palatka on C.R. 309, one mile south of the town of Welaka. For more information, contact the Welaka State Forest at (386) 467-2388.
